CHURCHES AND PICTURE THEATRES WILL HELP

Much Support Has Been Promised Red Cross Campaign for Funds.

MANY MINISTERS MEET

Will Appeal From Pulpits to Their Congregations on Sunday.

The old Nordheimer Building, 15 East King street, is the centre of the British Red Cross appeal, from which lines of great activity extend all over the city as final organization is completed before launching the big three days' campaign which commences next Tuesday.

Yesterday fifty clergy, of all denominations, were present at a meeting in the headquarters, President R. S. Copeland was in the chair and addresses were delivered by Sir Edmund Walker, Premier Hearst, Mayor Church and W. S. Dinick, the campaign organizer. The clergy were asked to appeal to their congregations from the pulpit on the coming Sunday and to open the churches next Thursday for the collection of funds.

The meeting was very enthusiastic and the hearty support of the clergy was secured. The local committee has visited the various moving picture houses to ask for the support and co-operation of the theatre managers. Permission was asked to have colored slides run during the campaign and collection boxes placed in the theatre lobbies. The Motion Picture Association will discuss the matter at a meeting on Tuesday, and decide on how they can support the appeal.

To Mrs. M. E. Davies of 11 Prince Arthur Avenue, belongs the credit of bringing in the first subscription, one of $50, which was handed in yesterday morning. She was followed by Mrs. J. E. Scollard with a subscription of $25. Ten other subscriptions totaling $162.11, were received through the day, although the campaign does not open until next Tuesday.

At a noon meeting of the Rotary Club, in the Carls-Rite Hotel, yesterday, 450 members were addressed by Sir Edmund Walker and Messrs Copeland and Dinick. The Rotary Club is giving the campaign whole-hearted support and has appointed 11 members to act as captains.

YVETTE GUILBERT GIVES EXCEPTIONAL PROGRAM

Renders Charming Selections From Repertoire to Appreciative Audience.

Unique and exceptionally charming was the program given at Massey Hall last night by Madame Yvette Guilbert and her assistant artist, Emily Greaser and Gustave Ferrari. The wonderful versatility and graceful Yvette opened her repertoire with two carols of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, the first "Le Voyage de Joseph St. Marie a Bethlem," and the second "La Passion." These two selections were of an extremely devotional character, in which the incidents of the journey to Bethlehem and of the sad road to Calvary were dramatically portrayed. In these numbers the artist wore a heavy train of black satin, heavily embroidered in gold, and an upper garment resembling an eastern chaouabe of fine scarlet cloth, also embroidered.

The costumes of Madame Guilbert were a feature of the evening, and in the second group, in which she sang "The Song of the Moyn Age," she wore the high Watteau like cap and enveloping veil of black and gold worn during the period. Later, in the Chanson du XVIII. Century, she wore a dainty costume of the time of Marie Antoinette. Humorous sketches and other phases were exemplified in the selections given, and always with the perfection and exquisite grace which are the trademarks of Yvette Guilbert.

WAR SUMMARY

THE DAY'S EVENTS REVIEWED

made in small sections, as during the operations in August. The German trenches are constructed on the reverse slopes of the ridge, as the French trenches are that held out so successfully before Verdun, and this condition ahead requires careful going, with possibilities of accidents, such as befell the Canadians.

The Italians are sweeping forward with uniform success towards their goal. They are forcing the enemy to make his choice between continuing the military gamble against Rumania and sacrificing Trieste, Pola and other Austrian naval bases on the Dalmatian shore, and with them the advances between the first and second lines of the foe's defences on the Carso Plateau. The Italians are also continuing their northward drive into the Tyrol and towards Trent, a movement full of possibilities, for one in the port of Trent leads through Trent and the Tyrol into southern Germany. Somewhere about Munich the Italians and the French from the Rhine could effect a junction. This event of course would come in the closing days of the war.

The great air raid of the allies against the Mauser rifle factories at Oberdorf, on the Neckar, suggests further possibilities and probabilities against German munition plants in the interior. Four tons of high explosives as released over the Mauser works is capable of making a big hole in the ground where the factories stood.

A supplementary demand was served on Greece by the admiral-in-chief of the allies' fleet yesterday. It insisted on the handing over of the control of the Greek police to the allies, the cessation of the export of arms to Thessaly, the prohibition of carrying arms by Greek citizens and the lifting of the embargo on the shipment of grain from Thessaly. After an all-night session with the king, the Greek Cabinet complied with this ultimatum. The allies then formally recognized the new ministry.

Obscurity still hangs over the situation in Transylvania. The Rumanians have probably completed their retirement behind the lines of the Alt. This manoeuvre was dictated by common prudence in order not to fight the enemy with rivers in the rear of the army. The real operations so far have partaken of a concentration of Rumanian forces to give battle. Armies cannot always fight a pitched battle as soon as their advanced guards come in contact, and it is therefore necessary for one or the other to retire. The one that retreats is the one that adopts the offensive-defensive form of warfare; that is, the form of warfare adopted and prosecuted by the allies. Therefore the Rumanians have withdrawn in conformity with this policy to the positions that they have seized in the Transylvanian Alps. By so doing they are taking the advantage of natural position. In the absence of German claims of many prisoners taken it can be seen that no great battle has yet been decided and that all stories of disaster circulated have come from German, and therefore discredited sources. Meanwhile the Rumanians continue to repulse systematic attacks by the Germans at many points on the mountain frontier.

SUNDAY'S SOMME FIGHT REQUIRES EXPLANATION

Officer Who Ordered Canadian Attack Blundered, Says Col. Denison.

Twenty-seven recruits applied for service at the depot in the armories and of this number 15 were attested. Lieut-Col. W. C. Darling was in command of the 48th Highlanders' Regiment last night. There was a large gathering of civilians at the armories to hear the concert given by the brass and pipe bands. Following the drills the regiment held a parade thru the down town streets.

Speaking of the recent fighting on the Somme, Col. G. T. Denison, police magistrate, stated yesterday that last Sunday attack north of the Somme leaves much to be explained. "A British officer I think was responsible, although it is quite possible that one of our Canadian officers ordered the attack. Whoever he was, I think he should have led the van with his men. The whole thing is a terrible piece of news."

Township Will Use Schools To Collect for Campaign

At a special meeting of the York Township Council, called by Reeve Griffith to consider the British Red Cross campaign, it was decided to make the school sections the medium for collecting the offerings. The municipality will be divided into five sections. The council did not approve the plan of the Canadian Northern Railway for the loop line between Duncan Station and a point on the C.P.R. The proposed route gives a level crossing on Eglinton avenue, whereas by moving the line 400 feet an excellent overhead crossing can be obtained. The Dominion Railway Board meets in the city in a few days, when it is hoped that the application will be dealt with.
