LATE PERSONALS

W. B. Howard, D. P. A. for the C. P. R., accompanied by his wife and child, left last night on a trip to England.

Miss Margaret MacKay of Moncton is visiting her friends, the Misses Lee. St. George street, West St. John.

Miss L. Tweedie, of Sackville, is a guest of Mrs. Groulx, Princess street.

Murray Beatty, of the local staff of the Bank of Nova Scotia left this morning for Pictou to relieve the manager of the bank there.

With a great sense of awe and importance the young couple stood in front of the person, the new baby comfortably slumbering in its mother's arms.

Evidently with an idea of improving the occasion, the new curate saw fit to launch into a gentle homily on the child's future upbringing.

"Who knows?" he finished up. "This man like myself, or a brave soldier, or during sea captain. It is even possible that he may one day become an illustrious statesman."

The little mother's eyes had gradually grown rounder and rounder.

"What name do you say?" said the person.

In a timid whisper came the apologetic reply:

"Jemima Ann, sir!"

AN HONEST MISTAKE

(Canadian Courier)

Many men make honest mistakes. A prominent business man in Toronto tells of one he made. He got on a street car and asked the conductor for a dollar's worth of tickets, and gave him a bill to change. The conductor gave him a dollar in silver.

"What is this for?" asked the passenger.

"You can't put that over, young man, I gave you a five-dollar bill."

Then the dispute began. The business man explained that he knew it was a five-dollar bill, because he had carried it for two or three days, and had no other.

The conductor protested that it was a two-dollar bill, and produced just such a bill. Finally, the now wrathful passenger took the conductor's number and promised to report the matter.

That night when he got home, he told his family at the dinner-table how he had been swindled out of three dollars by a rascally conductor, and explained how certain he was under the circumstances. His son listened to the story until it was finished and then remarked:

"Father, do you remember my going to you yesterday and telling you that I wanted a pair of boots? I told you I had only two dollars and could not get what I wanted for that amount. So you gave me a five-dollar bill and I gave you the two-dollar bill."

The consciousness faded out of the business man's face, and next day he visited the complaint office of the street railway and duly made a humble apology to one of the inspectors, asking him to explain to the conductor.
