Boston Bout

Many Lustig, a Brooklyn lightweight according to the fans actually outed Matty Baldwin in Manchester, some time ago, believes he will do one thing to Eddie Murphy of Boston when they meet at the A. A. Boston, on next Tuesday.

There are many fans who have some opinion, but the friends of the latter are ready to show their faith by outpointing the fast and clever g. Should Lustig win from Murphy the latter will most likely retire the game.

The Finish

E. Webb, Jr., in Thursday's Globe says: "The Braves and the Giants each start on the last lap of the championship race against the western clubs with a handicap, once trotting behind a handicap, had their usual cleanup men and won an inning out from the old champions, primed for action by the Herzigers Red Birds, in New York they are doing a lot of hour figuring as to how it is possible for the Giants to land fourth pennant by overcoming the and a half game lead opened up by Boston men. McGraw himself is confident again that his team et together and yesterday there signs of it.

Giants have the same clubs that the Braves have up to Wednesday. On that date the Braves of the Polo Grounds far a five-ries, and one which, if the races in its present closeness will near equaling a world's series that series the Braves will be against the Brooklyn, and the continuing to play on their home will close their season against Philadelphia.

New York club will play all its ing games on the home field, while counting the double-headers that ming, will have 18 or 14 at Fenwick, and then will go away to play mes on the road. This will be cheap, and particularly if, by the Boston lead is narrowed overcome.

Brooklyn beating Chicago and ives taking their game from the us, the two league leaders have up a little more ground. The

TRAINING BOYS FOR REAL LIFE

(Frank Parker Stockbridge, in the October Popular Mechanics Magazine.)
A group of log buildings on the edge of the woods, built by the boys themselves, houses the school whose motto is: "To teach boys how to live." Here, on the shores of a beautiful little lake in northern Indiana, a hundred and fifty city boys are gaining the sort of education which can be had only through intimate personal contact with nature and raw materials and the primitive processes of the handicrafts—the education that the farm boy absorbs without realizing it, but for which the city school offers no substitute.

Life at the school is almost primitive in its simplicity and freedom from irksome restraints. Not only have the boys actually constructed the buildings, many of them quite large, but the care and maintenance of the school premises are entirely in their hands. Many of the older boys live in pairs in little cabins built by themselves along a path by the lake—with a kennel for a pet dog at the back of most of the cabins. The "house-keeping" of these cabins as well as of the dormitory where the smaller boys live, the schoolrooms, offices, shops, and laboratories is entirely in the hands of the pupils. Except for a fireman or two in the power house, and the Chinese cooks in the kitchen, there are no paid servants at the school.

Winter and summer the boys, both in work and play, spend more time out of doors than under roof. There is the farm work of a 200-acre farm to be attended to, for one thing, besides the policing and care of the grounds and walks, road building and the construction of new school buildings of logs and concrete—beginning with the felling of the trees in the 500-acre woodland across the lake.

In all their labors the boys work in squads, each group under the direction of one boy who is held responsible for results and discipline. In this way qualities of leadership are developed, which is one of the principal aims of the school, since most of the pupils are the sons of business men, and many of them will be called upon later in life to assume the management and direction of large affairs.

Besides the larger activities of the farm, there are shops for working in metals and in wood, the products of which are utilized in the school or sold outside. All the furniture for the build-

The purely class-room courses are similar to those of other preparatory schools, but the shop and farm work, the close contact at all times with nature's processes and products, and the free outdoor life give these boys in addition a valuable store of experience and energy.

Academic instruction goes hand in hand with the practical work of farm, gardens, and shops. Many of the boys have individual gardens, and the laying out of these, calculating the amount of seed required for the different vegetables

WHEN ALL ELSE FAILS---USE DR. McLAUGHLIN'S ELECTRIC BELT

Take my Electric Belt for what it will do for you. Wear it when you sleep at night, or while you are resting after your work. You will find it a vitalizer, a tonic to your nerves, a rejuvenator of waning vitality. Use it for any ailment which drugs have failed to cure, and you will never cease praising it.

I claim that I can cure you weak men; that I can pump new life into worn out bodies; that I can cure your pains and aches, limber up your joints, and make you feel as frisky and vigorous as ever you did in your life. That's claiming a good deal, but I have a good remedy, and know it well enough to take all the risk.

I Restore Men to Unimpaired Vitality, with Strong Body, Strong Mind, Strong Nerves, Strong Will.

Few men are really as strong and vigorous as they ought to be. Hard work or worry or the hustle of modern life is overtaking the resources of many. Past indiscretions or excesses and other private diseases have undermined the constitution of still others—few men are the men they ought to be.

This is why the wealth of the world is concentrated in the hands of the few. Except in cases of inherited wealth, the wealthy men, the successful men, are healthy men—men with strong bodies, strong nerves, strong wills, strong minds. They are the men who have carefully observed the law of nature and guarded their strength and health.

Pick out the men who have worn my Belt. See them with head erect, chest expanded, the glow of health in their cheeks, courage in their hearts, and a clasp of the hand that tells you "I am a man."

The Dr. McLaughlin Electric Belt is a cure for all signs of Breakdown in Men and Women. The Vitality of body is Electricity—the force of the Nerve Cells. My Electric Belt will give you back the power and enable to fight on in the Battle of Life!

The Dr. McLaughlin Electric Belt cures Neurasthenia, Hypochondria, Nervous Prostration or Nervous Weakness, Headache, Sleeplessness, Stomach Trouble, Indigestion, Constipation, Weakness of the Kidneys, Lame Back, neuralgia, Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuritis, Poor Circulation, Urinal Troubles, all evidence of Premature Decay.

Man of 63 Feels Like a Young Man. Done Wonders For Him in One Month. Canso, N. S.

Dear Sir,—Please accept my sincere thanks for your Belt. It has done wonders for me. I have not felt a pain in my back for a long time although I am on my feet fifteen hours out of the twenty-four. I would have written before but I have been very busy. I know my belt will do a lot of good for me yet.

Yours truly,
JOHN V. B. FOSTER.
Yours respectfully,
