Mount Allison.

The Mt. Allison A. A. gave a very enjoyable and highly successful concert and play in the music hall last evening to a large and appreciative audience. The programme was composed of two parts, the first of a dozen musical numbers, excellently rendered and nearly all of them endorsed, and the second part of an amusing little play. The scene pictured was Geo. Tilley's much disordered bedroom with Mr. Tilley as the sleepy looking host at a "feed" after an evening of festivities, bringing about a great deal of applause from those not "hit." The scene was true to life and the play acted to perfection. The name of the farce was "Tilley's At Home," and the characters were: Host, Geo. Tilley; Pat, Geo. Patterson; Priam, J. Asbury; Onvrey, J. L. Godwin; Bertha, Bert Bent; Frisco, Frank Fraser; Pheque, Bert Cochran; Dooley, C. G. McDougall; Pudden, Geo. Gear; Hunk, R. Hayes; Sandy, John Cameron.

An Interesting Calculation

HERE is an interesting calculation for young housewives or old ones for that matter. A pound of the best bread in the world made from ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR costs less than four cents. A pound of the best beef steak costs 25 to 30 cents. Yet a pound of bread made from ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR contains more working energy than a pound and a half of beef steak. Or three pounds of pork, or two pounds of veal.

Whether figured by the pound or by actual units of health and strength, bread made from

is the most economical food in the world. Especially is bread made from ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR good for growing children. They can't eat too much of it. For their general healthy growth and development, it furnishes an almost complete food. As a matter of household economy, children ought to be given all the bread they can eat at all times.

Statistics also prove that ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR will sustain life longer than animal food. It is extremely rich in high quality gluten which comes from the best Red Fyfe Wheat—the finest in the world. This large percentage of high quality gluten is what makes ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR so much better than ordinary flour. Red Fyfe Wheat is known the world over for its richness in high quality gluten.

The beautiful white color of ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR is natural. It indicates the richness of the wheat from which it is made.

The one safe rule in buying flour is to get ROYAL HOUSEHOLD, and in that way you will make sure of getting the largest percentage of nourishment and the cleanest, purest and most uniform flour. Best for pastry as well as for bread. Rich, nutritive, natural, most uniform and most satisfactory for all household baking. Insist on ROYAL HOUSEHOLD—your grocer will be glad to furnish it if you tell him that substitutes will not do.

ONE POINT OF VIEW

By COLIN MCKAY.

The Employers' Liability Laws of Canada are not particularly creditable to our intelligence or humanity. Instead of a Federal Workmen's Compensation Act, or a system of industrial accident insurance, we have Provincial Employers' Liability Acts which often impose great burdens upon the employer, and confer any noticeable benefit upon the working man. Each province shirks its obligations on the plea that it might handicap its productive energies, and find itself unable to compete with the other provinces.

For years the labor leaders of Canada have been petitioning the Federal Government to assume jurisdiction in this matter and institute a system of industrial accident insurance such as obtains in Germany, already our annual tribute to those modern juggernauts, the railways and the industrial establishments, is over 2000 killed, and 6000 wounded.

Our provincial liability laws are not calculated to compel the employer or his workers to take measures to reduce this frightful sacrifice of life and limb. While the principle of individual responsibility stands as the economic norm upon the statute books, the employer will be more inclined to take a gambling chance than to provide safeguards against accidents—something that in Germany the employers' associations have a direct interest in compelling the individual employer to do.

And yet while our laws fix the responsibility upon the individual they fail to develop a sense of personal and direct responsibility, but rather encourage a sort of Oriental fatalism. And, at the same time, they impose greater burdens upon the employers as a class than the German system of compulsory jointed the Alberta conference, are Messrs. Powell, '11, and Harry Bird, '12.

Mr. Harold Belton B. A., '08, who has been studying forestry at the U. N. B. has been appointed to a position in the Forestry Department in the Canadian West.

Mr. A. W. Doe, '08, has been winning athletic honors in Buffalo, N. Y. in the Western New York Championships on April 20. Mr. Doe won the broad jump, doing 21 feet, 9 inches, and the hop, step and jump—43 feet, 9 inches. On April 23, he did the one fourth mile in 52.3 seconds, winning the Buffalo city championship. He runs under Mt. Allison colors.

In baseball this week the first team won from the Academy. The "freshmen" won from the Academy last week 9 to 8.

A valuable addition to Mt. Allison's color scheme was made last week by the appearance of the Freshman caps. They are skull caps, similar in shape and design to the Sophomore caps, sky blue in color with an XIII in grey on the front. Besides being light and comfortable they possess the further advantage of being easily discernible from a distance. Besides the official garnet and gold caps sometimes seen around the university, there are four other combinations more prominent than they—the blue and white of 1910, the green and white of 1911, the garnet and white of 1912, and the blue and grey of 1913.

gold. Of course it is well to have from so high a source confirmation of one's belief that the mining of gold is an industry injurious to the people, and it would have been gratifying if the commission had been consistent and recommended the prohibition of gold mining.

Prof. Del Mar, long time official of the Washington treasury department has pointed out that gold mining has always been an unprofitable industry that owing to the multitude of gold seekers who go broke, the value of the capital and labor expended in the search for gold always exceeds the value of the gold discovered by the fortunate argonauts. And he might have added that an enlightenment national government would be as interested in delimiting the gold mining industry as in restricting the liquor traffic. Tens of thousands of able bodied men engaged in digging holes in the ground or shifting sands in the rivulets, means a diversion of capital and labor from the productive forces of the nation. More than this the argonauts who strike it rich use their gold to divert real wealth from the real producers. And if the Massachusetts commission is correct in its conclusion, the net result of this double drain upon the resources of society is a rather serious matter to the general public employed in legitimate industries.

But the commission did not apparently arrive at its conclusion in just this way. It assumed that the increase in the gold supply meant an increase in the volume of money, and that by the law of supply and demand money necessarily lost its purchasing power—a mode of reasoning which at any rate involves the admission that we use as a standard of value something whose value is really determined by accident. But if this is a fair inference from conditions in the United States, it seems to be somewhat disconcerting by consideration arising from conditions in Canada. Here we have a very limited number of banks, most of them having branches all over the country, and all naturally interested in maintaining the value, or purchasing power, of money. Their capital governs their note issue, and that being so, the increase in the gold supply should not have much effect upon the volume or purchasing power of Canadian money, except in so far as the holders of gold have been able to utilize it to divert real wealth from the producing classes. The volume of currency in Canada does not increase automatically with the increase of the gold supply; at any rate, it is only a year or so since the

The Supply of Gold. Probably Mr. Pollock would be able to concur in the contention of the Massachusetts commission that principal cause of the increased cost of living has been the increase of the supply of gold. But there is a lot of people in this wicked and wonderful world who have not observed any startling increase in their supply of
