PREVALENCY OF LEPROSY REPORTED IN ICELAND. Cause Imputed to the Uncleanliness and Grotesque Carelessness of the People.

Washington, Oct. 27--United States Consul Victor E. Nelson, at Bergen, Norway, has sent a report to the Marine Hospital service, in which he says the prevalence of leprosy in Iceland may be imputed to the uncleanliness and the grotesque carelessness of the people on that island.

Iceland leprosy does not belong to those few diseases which are subjected to public treatment. Iceland has its own leprosy laws. At the Laugavegur Hospital in Iceland, established by the Outclosures act, there were 81 patients received during 1899, and of these 18 are now dead and only two have been discharged as fully recovered. Relapses are usual in leprosy cases. The death rate has been fearfully high, which is somewhat offset by the fact that that was the first year of the hospital's work and the worst of Iceland's population first were admitted. The report says that Dr. Arthur Hansen, of Bergen, has found the leprosy bacillus, but its antagonist is not yet discovered. The Icelanders are declared to be inconsiderably imprudent, the sick people using the same beds, eating and drinking utensils as the healthy.

KING EDWARD'S HEALTH. British Paper for First Time Asserts Monarch Suffers from Cancer of Throat.

London, Oct. 27--Reynold's Weekly Newspaper is the first British paper to assert that King Edward is suffering from cancer of the throat. In today's issue it declares that since his majesty's accession three operations have been performed for the removal of papilloma on the left vocal chord and that one was removed from the right vocal chord last week.

"Assistance was hastily summoned," says this journal, "as his majesty was breathing with difficulty and an immediate operation was performed. But it was regarded as only temporary relief, the injured epithelium now having become a cancerous growth and serious developments are expected."

ANIMALS WILD AND TAME. Lecture by Eminent Scientist Before Brooklyn Institute--Interesting Statements of Animal Characteristics from Real Life--The Carrier Pigeon.

New York, Oct. 24--Prof. Ernest Selton-Thompson, the well known naturalist, lectured before the Brooklyn Institute to a large audience on Saturday evening, on Wild Animals in Captivity. Has man a right to hold animals in captivity? What ever may be the answer it is an assured fact that an animal will thrive under kind treatment and thus amply repay his owner. The wonderful instinct of the carrier pigeon is well known. Suppose a pigeon is taken on a railway journey north to Albany, then westward to Buffalo, southward to Pittsburgh, east to Philadelphia and northward to some point within easy distance of New York--say Trenton, N. J. Would not the bird, when released, complete the circuit by flying direct to his home on the Hudson? He would still find his way. This interesting habit of the carrier pigeon was related to the lecturer by the officer who was again placed on the course, again he baffled his pursuers and exhausted them. Fresh hounds were brought and he tired them too. Then the inhuman brutes, apparently no farther off than the dog, were beaten by a rabbit, turned in a split of boys, who with sticks and stones, speedily finished off the plucky little animal.

A friend of the lecturer, a country editor, owned a pet monkey which regularly appeared at an appearance at the office daily, at 9 a. m., one hour later than his master. This monkey was treated with great respect by the dogs of the town and never molested. If a country dog of an inquisitive turn pursued his investigations too closely, Jack would turn around and raise a threatening hand with a "thus speak no further" frequently accompanying the refrain, We Won't Go Home Till Morning.

The superintendent of a zoological garden revealed a "very dangerous" monkey in a box labelled "very dangerous." An examination of its body revealed marks of ill usage. A few days of kind treatment and the monkey was in three months in the best of health. One day a visitor with a senseless and inexplicable indulgence in a most human bug, while No. 3 revealed those "dear old pals" tramping around arm in arm, with upraised hands, their appearance strongly suggesting that they were clean shaven and frequently accompanied the refrain, We Won't Go Home Till Morning.

Manchester Robertson & Allison GOLD PRODUCTION OF THE WORLD LAST YEAR Less in Value by 49 Millions Than in 1899 -- South African War Affected It.

Washington, Oct. 28--Director Roberts, of the mint, has prepared a statement showing that the production of gold in the world for 1899 was 12,457,287 ounces, of the value of $257,514,700, a loss in value of $49,070,000 from 1898. The loss was mainly in the Transvaal fields, South Africa. The principal gain was $8,115,000 in the United States and $6,006,000 in Canada. The United States again heads the list. In the United States the principal gains were by Alaska, Arizona, Colorado and Utah. The silver output of the world amounted to 178,706,796 fine ounces, the largest ever known. It exceeds the production of 1899 by 11,872,213 ounces.

The United States again leads all other producers with a slight excess over Mexico. There was an important advance in the price of silver during the year, the price ranging from 51.1c per ounce in January to 66.3c in the last month of the year. The chief factor in the advance was the purchases for the account of the government of India. Silver rupees still constitute the common currency of India and are rapidly being demanded for its fiscal year ended March 31, 1901, of 6,083,000 pounds sterling, which at the average value of the year would net the purchase amount to nearly 30,000,000 ounces. This would seem to restore India to somewhere near her old position as a customer for silver.

FAMOUS VESSEL BURNED. Sol. Jacob's $28,000 Schooner Consumed at North Sydney. --Crew Ran in Fear.

Sydney, C. B. Oct. 25--(Special)--The clipper auxiliary fishing schooner Helen Miller Gould, owned and commanded by the famous fish killer, Sol Jacob, caught fire at North Sydney this afternoon and became a complete loss. She is said to have been worth nearly $20,000. She was fitted with a gasoline engine and had on board in tanks a large quantity of gasoline. Her crew deserted her as soon as the fire started, leaving an explosion. The cause of the fire is unknown. The schooner was at anchor in the harbor when the fire broke out. She now lies a charred, smouldering hulk on the beach. The fire started in the engine room from a leak in the gasoline apparatus and the flames soon licked up everything in sight. The tank contained 2,000 gallons of gasoline. At dark this evening the burning vessel presented a brilliant spectacle, the burning sails flapping in the wind, the flames leaping to the mastsheads. When it was thought all danger of explosion was past a tug took hold of the Gould and beached her. The captain and one of the crew were burned slightly. The schooner carried a crew of 20 men and cost $28,000. The gasoline outfit cost $7,000 and is only partially insured. This night two years ago Sol Jacob's schooner Ethel M. Jacobs, was wrecked on the Irish coast. When the fire started on the Gould and the crew started to abandon her Sol urged his men to stand by her and try to save her, but they refused. Had they stood by him, he says, he is sure she could have saved.
