N. T. R. Debate Resumed.

A. C. Boyce, of West Algoma, then resumed the debate on the N. T. E. report. He said the amendment proposed by Hon G. P. Graham, characterized as "walf" and pointed out that it idd not attempt to state that the evidence upon which the Gutelius-Stannton report had been based had been perjured or unfounded. The country would demand some more tangible objection to the report than its alleged particaship. The commission had been appointed two years ago but it was a notable fact that not "fill now had the ex-minister of railways protested against its personnel." He had voted, in fact, to appoint one member of the commission to a most prominent position in the government service with a large salary.

Mr. Boyce then went into the history of this N. T. R., project and stated that Sir Wilfrid Laurder "had launched it on the people of Canada without the contract of providing cheaper transport of the solid particular in the conception of what the cost was going to be." He had told the country it would cost only $13,000,000. His finance minister, Hon. W. S. Fielding, after consulting Collingwood Schristen, had estimated it would cost $1,250 per mile for a road of high standard, or $81,415,000 altogether.
