BENEATH HELVELLYN'S SHAD

Notes and Sketches in the Valley of Aythburn.

By SAMUEL BARBER.

"The general reader will find much in the way of custom, tradition, folk-lore, in its nicely printed pages."

"To Lakeland tourists the book should prove especially interesting, as well as to all those who delight in the study of folk-lore and local customs. Notes upon natural history are not wanting, and one chapter is entirely devoted to the record of observations upon bird-life."—Field Club.

"Mr. Barber is a man of strong natural history tastes and keen habits of observation: he is also a sympathetic nature, and gifted with good literary tastes. He can hardly have gone anywhere to have studied the birth, life, and death of clouds, or the habits of wild mountain-birds, or the strange tricks of geology. His charming little book includes all these subjects, as well as notes on the folk-lore, habits and customs of the natives, local archæology, etc.: and three valuable chapters on clouds. It is an entirely readable little book, which we strongly recommend."—Hardwicke's Science Gossip.

THE POPULAR MONTHLY MAGAZINE OF BRITISH ENTOMOLOGY.

THE ENTOMOLOGIST'S RECORD & JOURNAL OF VARIATION

Edited by J. W. TUTT, F.E.S.

Vol. IV. commenced Jan. 15, 1893.

Vol. I., 360 pp., price 7s. 6d. unbound. Vol. II., price 7s. 6d.

Vol. I. is illustrated by three Chromo-litho, and one Litho Plates, with Woodcuts, and contains Scientific and Popular Articles by leading British entomologists, notices of all additions to the British Fauna, and Records of the principal captures of rarities during 1890, Practical Hints to collectors, and Scientific Notes. It also contains more Notes on Variation, including records, probable causes, etc., than all the other entomological periodicals combined.

LORD WALSHINGHAM, M.A., F.R.S., in his Presidential address to the Fellows of the Entomological Society of London, says: "Already we have to welcome a new publication, 'The Entomologist's Record & Journal of Variation, edited by Mr. Tutt. . . . An especially interesting line of enquiry as connected with the use and value of colour in insects, is that which has been followed up in Mr. Tutt's series of papers in 'The Entomologist's Record.'"

To be obtained post free by annual subscription (for twelve current numbers), payable in advance, 6s. be forwarded to ALBERT J. HODGES, 2, HIGHBURY PLACE, LONDON, N.
