eans of a rope, ed." nd indeed the

from the Falls 1 to strangers. y of the natuwith historical and desolation. ston mountain, or beauty and pellucid Niafeet, as calmly own the turbure is the deep bosom studded ker, but more pelled by the ; there is the es, the whiteminable forest y of distance.

&c.

rry, it will be sed Ferryman venience arivhen the wind not the least n the Canada v of the Falls house within where, by the ormerly menens, petrifacpay a visit to the "Burning Spring," which is about a mile South of the Falls, where a well is enclosed in a small wooden building : and you are here, as at the other points of particular attraction, accommodated with a guide, who takes a lighted candle with him, on applying which to the orifice of a metal tube fixed in the bottom of an inverted wooden vessel which covers the spring, a bright flame is emitted. A writer, who examined the place minutely, says, "There are two other similar springs some distance farther up the river, the sites of which are known to but few. Therefore, from the consideration that a large quantity of this sulphureate hydrogen gas is emitted from a comparatively small quantity of water, it is probable that a sufficient body of gas might be collected to be applicable to purposes of utility." There were once grist and saw mills on this spot; but they were destroyed during the last American war, and have never been rebuilt. There are also sulphur springs oozing from the rocks behind the "Sheet of Water."

Conclusion,

We might protract our intercourse with you ad libitum, if we were your professional guide; but we leave you in charge of the initiated, who will tell you all about the battle grounds, &c. in the neighbourhood of the Falls. The history of this frontier is more deeply written in blood than that of any other portion of Upper Canada. Even recently it has been the theatre of numerous acts of conflagration and robbery, and one atrocious murder—that of Capt. Ussher, who was roused from his bed at dead of night, by masked assassins, and deliberately shot in his own house. All these deeds of violence are supposed to originate from the late unhappy and insane attempt of a portion of the people of the province, led on by a few turbulent and ambitious demagogues, to dissever the connection of these Colonies with the Mother Country. We might tell you about the occupation of Navy Island by Mackenzie and his band of outlaws; the burning of the Caroline, and a number of other matters of local interest; but they are recorded in the journals of the day, and will doubtless in due time appear