

Christianus mihi nomen est Catholicus vero Cognomen."-(Christian is my Name, but Catholic my Surname)-St. Pacien, 4th Century

VOLUME XXXVI.

LONDON, CANADA, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1914

The Catholic Record counsels. Not in a day or a year,

LONDON, SATUBDAY OCTOBER 10, 1914

PATIENCE

This is not the time or occasion ing's flash and the thunder's roll are when historical reminiscence is the prelude to a long day of summer most welcome. The average reader busies himself with the daily details of military and naval happenings which feed the flame of patriotic excitement. We are very human in days like these, primitive in our passions and narrow in our sympathies, The old Hebrew canon, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor and hate thine enemy," is the echo of the natural man's instinctive attitude when once swords are drawn and guns begin to speak. The harrying of foreigners and all the troubles and annoyances of those propensities of man. They are willwho happen to be sojourners in ing to believe that the Son of God strange lands should arouse our neighborly feelings : we have only to put ourselves in the place of those so overtaken, and the suspicions that rise so readily and often work to all who are not blind. so violently will be kept under due control. But such feelings are more likely to be chastened by recollections of previous crises. Among these the South African War is vividly present to many of us. We recall the disillusions of the earlier stages, the mistaken and costly rectifications in the later ones, and the happy settlement that followed after the long and heavy trials borne with so much fortitude. We can only hope and pray that the present troubles may be handled as reasonably and alleviated as wisely.

ous kind.

PERHAPS

The popular love for even a monarch like the Kaiser may turn to contempt and hatred. There is an excellent prospect that Germany,

Austria and Russia may be temporarily sick of their rulers' part in Welt-Politik. Tottering thrones, which depend on the widely instilled sentiment that real democracy is possible without casting off old dynasties, may face a reaction of revolutionary flerceness. But the field is one for speculation, not prediction, and speculation, too, of a cauti-

ON THE FIRING LINE

How can we, the interested spectators of this terrible conflict-suffer.

ers, too, in a multitude of ways, some more tragic than others, but all contributing to a fellowship of sorrow-how can we bear an honorable and effective part in lessening the sum of pain and privation which this war must needs spread, in widening circles, among all the classes who are not raised above the need of actual participation in the conflict or made helpless by its ruinous effects ? Those sunshine, when earth will yield bounteous harvests. THE AUTHORITY military power and confound its but ere time has long run its course, the common sanity will rule.

Though the sky be dark, the lightn-

Many without the fold are ready to acknowledge humanity's debt to the Church. They extol her charity and her inflexible opposition to the enemies of civilization, but they look askance at any manisfestation of authority. They grow indignant at any law opposed to the natural came on earth with a message and gave to none any authoritative power of interpretation. The absurdity of this should be manifest

ALWAYS TRUE

There are natures in which if they love us we are conscious of having a sort of baptism and consecration : they bind us ever to rectitude and purity by their pure belief about us : and our sins become that wicked kind of sacrilege which tears down the invisible altar of trust.

FATHER FABER

Says Father Faber : "The eye that is quick to see a fault, and the ear that loves to listen to criticism and the tongue that brags-these will be the signs of a praying soul when the rainbow comes to be the emblem of despair-and not before."

A THOUGHT

Has it ever occurred to you, says an author, that the saints must have been considered in their day as rather dead dreams. disreputable people. Leaving violent persecution out of the question what a raising of eyebrows and shrugging of shoulders, and how many indignant smiles and looks of mild surprise and gentle dismay and polite disapprobation they must have occasioned. If I had my will every nose that poked itself into other people's affairs would be cut off. But in that case how many men and women would be incapacitated for taking snuff.

THE FIREBRAND

When we see the clerical firebrand with his tools of slander trying to uproot the Church we remember Edmund Burke's reference to the shadow of the British oak :

THE LAVMAN'S AGE

ring

"Because half a dozen grasshop pers under a fern make the field with their importunate chirp, while thousands of great cattle reath the shadow of the Revolution will paralyse the arms of port but by advice and the knowledge which he gleans from the world. And when one resolute, enthusiastic Catholic is let loose in any community he is very apt to provoke thought. to stir up the apathetic and to arouse the opposition of the critics who talk endlessly about our deficiencies. The sparks may not fly at the outset but pounding away always achieves re-

KATHERINE TYNAN

Those who have been led into the green pastures of Katherine Tynan's novels will be well aware of the iridescent atmosphere through which she views her lrish characters, their words and their ways. As she says : 'But of Ireland one loves all Irish things so much that Irish face or voice might have drawn one from my dreams into sociability. Irish faces went by the carriage window and I heard the dear brogue by fits and starts." She then describes an invasion of harvest men and adds : "I feel bitter against these poor country.

sults.

men of mine for cutting such a figure in English eyes. It was not quite a mean feeling. My bitterness was in proportion to my love of my native land and my impatience of English superiority." The touch of a fanciful mysticism qualifies the witty reproductions of peasant life and frolic which render her pages so bright and readable. In the tale of a village genius she reflects that the Round Tower knew that like the seasons everything returns ; there is never a lack of golden heads at the cottage doors: nor birds to sing in the boughs in the spring after the snow and the frost; nor apple blossoms though the last fell in showers ; nor delicate pale leaves though the autumn swept such a mound of dead leaves down the village street to creep and whisper about the feet of the Round Tower like little ghosts of

THE ROSARY

Father Faber has beautifully said that as the Holy Eucharist is the testament of Jesus, so is the Rosary the testament of Mary. And as a testament the Church has received it lovingly and gratefully, and has added to its riches inceseantly from the reasure-house of her indulgences. It is an old fashioned devotion New devotions arise in the Churchit is to be expected in a living Church -but after the devotion to Our Lord there is none to compare with that of the Rosary. While no Catholic will consider as insignificant any devotion which the Church approve yet even in approved devotions there are grades of excellence. It shows a lack of appreciation in those Catholics who will devote themselves almost exclusively to

of the Church. Another great to honor Mary is by means of the Rosary. Now what is the Rosary that it is so excellent? One might call it the epitome of our Catholic faith. There is the Cross of our Redemption, faith in the creed ; there is the prayer which Christ Himself put upon our lips, the Our Father ; there is the Hail Mary, that prayer of praise and invocation to her who is our inter cessor with our Redeemer. And these prayers which are the essence of perfect prayer are all bound to rether with the chain of mysteries of Christ's dealings with man. In the Rosary we witness the glorification

Look at it as you will you find the Rosary a perfect devotion. Surely it was not a man-made devotion. It is very easy for us to accept the story of its revelation. So perfect is it that we do not wonder at its becoming a very part of the Catholic life.

The Rosary has been called the unlettered man's prayer book. But it is more than that. It is a prayer book for all from Pope to peasant. Even the greatest intellects in the Church have told their beads with all the loving simplicity of the child who knows no other book but this one of our Lady herself. Even the of our human nature.

hereon we recite our profession of some saint, for instance, to the neglect of devotion to her who is the Queen of all Saints. To do so is to members of a Catholic family to gather together to say the beads. It is too beautiful a custom to let die out, for a family must surely be lessed that so reverence the Mother of God. To train the little ones alone it is invaluable. It is a happy memory when one gets older to look back to these even-ings of simple devotion. Who knows what strength those rozaries have country : Peningular War and Waterloo right up to last year Ireland had furnish They comforted and given us. They comforted and strengthened our ancestors in the faith and in the blood ; it was not to the army a large quota by far in proportion to her population than England or Scotland. In 1885 the merely a bit of poetical sentiment that made a great preacher say that number per thousand of the male the Rosary had kept the faith in Ire-land, that land which always had such a tender, chivalrous devotion to Mary. And it will also keep loving and childlike the faith of us and our children. October is the month of the Rosary. would be the Irish record now, when the sentiments of the whole Irish Every Catholic should do something people were with Great Britain? In this war who had not been moved by to honor Our Lady in a special man ner during these days. By assisting at the special devotions in the churches, by morning Mass, by the family recitation of the beads, by the recent stories of the Munster Fusiliers, the Dublin Fusiliers and the Irish Guards ?"-The Globe more frequent Communion - there are many ways to make the time a season of special grace. And it is a poor Catholic that will give a deaf TRUE TO THEIR TRADITIONAL ear to the Church who is urging him to honor the Queen of the Most Holy

Rosary.-Boston Pilot. WILLIAM O'BRIEN WOULD BURY ALL DIFFERENCES

William O'Brien and Maurice Neal. Parliamentary representatives Cork City called a public ting of their constituents, the of meeting of their construction without distinction of party, practical without take immediate practical action to save our country and the civilization of Europe from the fate with which we are threatened by the progress of the German hordes." Mr. O'Brien spoke of the great danger in which they all stood and said if they remained with their hands folded much longer, they might bring to their own beloved land the scenes of massacre, spoilation, and nameless horrors which were devastating the brave little nation of Belgium. He was there that night prepared to bury as deep as the ocean any quarrels or controversies of the past whether between North or South or between Nationalist and Protestant. Every man, whatever his politics, should be red to stand united in defence of their very existence as a nation and in defence of every principle of liberty and humanity which made life worth living. It would not do for them to say they were willing to fight for Belgium or Poland or France. They have got to go furtherdand say they were willing to fight for England as well, and in England's way, with out putting a tooth in it. He closed his speech by proposing "That this meeting of citizens of Cork, without any distinction of party or section, declares our abhorrence of German Atter the war, what? Here are a few of the changes. A re-mapped Europe, largely along racial lines. A reconstructed Germany—either a republic or a strictly limited constimilitary despotism, which is scourg ing Europe by a war already rendered infamous by inexplicable injustices, cruelties, and abominations, and we egard it as a most solemn duty to Ireland and humanity to tender to His Majesty's Ministers, the assur-ance that the manhood of Ireland is at their command in this emergency.'

IRELAND AND THE

it must be borne in mind that the nations back to the land, as the only Ireland of the South has always given permanent source of wealth, and least disturbed by wars and rumors a larger proportion of her fighting men to the British army and that of war. Thrift found again and practised as a real virtue. A great 50,000 of them joined the colors on the outbreak of war. In his recent spiritual awakening-more reliance speech in the Commons, in reply to Mr. Bonar Law, the Irish leader put on the comfort of religion and the power of faith, the whole civilized world having passed through the valley of tribulation. — Toronto these illuminating facts before the "From the days of the valley of

Saturday Night.

THE "LIBERATOR"

Toronto Saturday Night It appears that General Carranza population from twenty to forty five years of age who joined the army Constitutionalist" dictator of Mexico, "is feeling his oats" to an regulars and special reserves were : Irishborn, 176; British born, 42 excessive degree. A Washington despatch states that he was only re-Last year the figures were: Irish-born 42; British born, 32. What strained by the wise counsel of the United States government from kick. ng the British Ambassador out of Mexico. It might be well for Carranza to remember that, though at the present time Great Britain is elsewhere engaged, there is in the office of the Foreign Secretary. Sir Edward Grey, a rather bulky pack age of documents marked "re Mexi can atrocities." These concern murder and other serious crimes committed against British subjects by the Constitutionalist army. Some day the package will be taken from The stories which are coming in. its nigeon hole, dusted, and peruse writes T. P. O'Connor, are especially once more. It is quite probable that gratifying to Irishmen. The Irish-men have had some of the hottest when that day arrives Great Britain will have enough ships left and corners to defend, and they have beenough prestige left, to collect its haved with a splendid bravery that has won the admiration of all other races and has, incidentally, of course, little account.

advanced the Irish cause. In one of the first encounters be-HORATIUS OUTDONE tween the British force and over-whelming German odds, the Germans ONE HEROIC HIGHLANDER HELD had been directing their force to The BRIDGE UNDER FIRE

Special Leased Wire from United Pres officers in command of the guns were mowed down by the artillery London, Sept. 26.-A Paris des-patch to the Daily Mail describes the fire, and at last it seemed cruelty to exploit of a lone Highlander who was one of a party of 150 detailed to However, the Irish Munsters were hold a bridge over the Aisne. determined that the guns should be "A German attack," says the corre-"I saw," writes an English soldier, "a handful of Irishmen throw themspondent, "was not expected at that point, and the detachment was selves in front of cavalry trying to meant to act rather as guard than as cut off a battery of artillery. Not one of the poor lads got away alive, but they made the German devils a force to defend the bridge. Sudden ly, however, the Germans opened fire from the woods around, and a pay in kind and the artillery got strong force came forward at a run toward the bridge. The Highlanders opened fire at once, and for a time held the enemy at bay; but the numbers of the Germans were so Every man of us made a vow to avenge these fallen Irishmen. Latter they were finally avenged by great that the attacking force crept their own comrades, who lay in wait for the German cavalry. The Irish lads went at them with the bayonet, constantly nearer, and under cover of a heavy fire a dense column of troops was seen advancing along the road that led to the river. which they least expected. Some of them howled for mercy, but I don't think they got it. In war mercy is only for the merciful."

"Then one of the Highlanders jumped up from cover. The maxim gun belonging to the little force had ceased its fire, for the whole of its crew had been killed, and the gun stood there on its tripod, silent amid a ring of dead bodies. One lone Highlander ran forward under a bullet storm, seized the maxim, swung it, tripod and all onto his back, and carried it at a run across the exposed bridge to the far side, facing the German attack. "The belt of the gun was still

Hungary into its original elements. The disappearance of Turkey from charged, and there absolutely alone, the soldier sat down in full view of European politics. A defensive alliance of Western Europe against enemy and opened a hail of the bullets upon the advancing column. the possible aggressions of Russia. Under the tempest of fire the column A moderately regenerated Russia, with local Home Rule for Poland and wavered and then broke, fleeing for Finland, full rights for the Jews, and cover to the fields on either side of

CATHOLIC NOTES

1877

A government census return just issued in London shows a decline in the number of clergymen of the stablished Church and an increase in the number of Catholic priests.

An order of the day issued by Gen. de Castelnau names 6 nuns who, under an incessant deadly fire, continued to attend to 1,000 wounded in their establishment at Gerbeviller in France, although the population had evacuated the village.

It is stated that Italy has cancelled her promise to participate in the Panama Pacific Exposition to be held at San Francisco in 1915, on account of the European war. If this is true, it will probably rid this country of the incubus of ex-Mayor Nathan as Italy's representative at the Exposi-

Catholic missionary Sisters are doing wondrously in the foreign missions. They are angels of consolation and peace ; they carry in meekness and with motherly love the Gospel of Charity among the pagans. The pagans say: "They are not The pagans say : "They are not women of this earth, but women who came down from heaven."

Baron O'Brien, Lord Chief Justice of Ireland since 1899, died in Dublin on Sept. 8. Peter O'Brien created a baronet in 1891 and first Baron O'Brien in 1909, was born June 29, 1842. He was Solicitor General for Ireland from 1887 to 1888 and At-torney General the following year. He was the fifth son of the late John O'Brien, M. P., of County Tipperary. Probably for the first time in history men in military uniforms re-cently slept in the cells of the monks of the Grand St. Bernard hospice, 8.110 feet high, in the Alps. Under the command of an Italian colonel more than 200 future officers in the Italian army from the military academy at Turin arrived at the hospice. The hospice has only 125 beds for the public and there are always many travellers there, but the Abbot was not upset by the invasion and welcomed the officers. Three more converts are to be added to the steadily lengthening roll. The latest are the Rev. R. M. Brown, an Anglican rector, well known in London, and an M. A. of Oxford, who has been received into the Church at Farm street, and two laymen, who occupy prominent positions in two High Church Societies known as the Catholic League " and the " Living Rosary." Their names are, re-spectively, Mr. H. F. Hickes and Mr. Bainbridge, and they were received into the Church by Father Wondacot, an erstwhile friend, who is now stationed at Deptford.

A letter written by a Jesuit priest who escaped from Louvain before the destruction of the city by the Ger-mans has been received by the priest's father in London. The priest says: "All our people escaped ex-cept eleven scholastics. One of these was shot at once, as he had a diary of the war on his person. The others were taken to Brussels, where they were to have been shot, but the American minister stepped in and stopped it. He told the Germans that his government would declare war if any of these persons were shot.' New York's first free Catholic High school opened Monday, Sept. 16. It is on the same b who are charged with the solemn duties of the hour in high places are British oak chew the cud and are silent, pray do not imagine that making abundant provision for every those who make the noise are the emergency on a scale that should only inhabitants of the field, that silence faction and raise our people's they are many in number or that they are, after all, anything better hopes to the highest pitch. It remains than the little shrivelled, meagre for those of us who stay at home and hopping, though loud and trouble are permitted to pursue our ordinary some insects of the hour.' avocations to play some useful part in the great work of equipping the community for a hand to hand conflict This is the layman's age. They are with the dire foes which beset the men, women, and children who are doing splendid work on some lines -work that takes toll of energy, doomed to suffer pangs and to be money, self-sacrifice, and which must shaken by terrors that are no less achieve enduring results. They are awful than those which haunt the preaching the sermon of truly Cath beleaguered fortresses, the devastated olic living. And that sermon falls towns, and the battlefields where shot, like balm upon hearts bruised from shell, disease and cruelty lay brave the stress and storm of life and is combatants low. And the indirect always listened to however the world issues, the effects which none can may affect deafness and scorn. If foretell, how can we prepare to meet there is one thing more than another them, haply to profit by them, though that the average man respects it is loss and grief be the portion of all, in fidelity to principle, the courage varying degrees ? This war, just of one's convictions. He may deem and unsought in our view, is still like all wars-it blots out the fruits it on some occasions unbusinesslike, but in his heart he reverences the of progress, robs labor of its hire, man who, before politics or worldly quenches the scholar's lamp and the interests, places his duty to God and artist's vision, dulls even the pious who walks the highway of life with hopes that sustain us in sorrow and clean hands and pure heart. Such a in death. The glories that subsist upon human woe leave behind them a long and bitter trail of hatred : the desolation of fair provinces, the deadly destruction of the best and brighest in art and culture, and all the inconceivable miseries of sacked cities, mutilated bodies and blasted lives. Happily the human world is not devoid of spiritual guidance ! Sursum Corda is the watchword of operating more and more the priest the morning. This nightmare will to whom he can flive invaluable come to an end, perhaps speedily. assistance not only by material sup-most eloquent book of prayers is gladly laid aside to take up the old rosary that seems like part of one's man is an antidote to cynicism, a well-spring of courage to the weak soul. The devotion to the Rosary is not and faltering. And the Church history failing. Now more than ever in its raises this breed of man. He is in does it appeal to Catholics. But still one must deplore the pass the open to-day fighting current ing of certain good old customs in connection with it. The custom of errors. He is going in for combination and using up to date methods to make smooth the way for the driving home of his principles. He is co-reciting the Rosary in common in the Catholic home is not so wide.

spread as it used to be. Yet the time was not so many years ago when dur-ing the month of October and again during the Holy Season of Lent it was the ordinary practice for the

WAR

They mistake the temper of the British peoples throughout the Empire who imagine that the ungracious and untimely utterances of Sir Edward Carson reflect to any appreci-able extent the spirit of the times or the sentiment of most thinking people in regard to the Irish question. A true sense of proportion and of what is due to the Empire has led the great bulk of Irish Unionists to accept in a generous mood the evi-dences, so clearly discernible, of the rise of a new Ireland, at one with Britain in its intelligent grasp of the vital issues at stake in this war, and in its tenacious adherence to the common cause of liberty and democracy. The threats of Sir Edward Carson to revive dissensions, now silenced in the trenches where Irish soldiers, Unionist and Nationalist.

are facing death side by side, and adding fresh laurels to their fame, do not add to his reputation as a statesman or strengthen the hands of Kitchener in his pressing task of recruiting. The faculty for saying the wrong thing at the right momen seems to be equally shared by Mr. Bonar Law and Sir Edward Carson. So changed is the whole situation in Ireland that thousands of Union ists in the South are joining Red-mond's Volunteers, all their fears of Nationalist disloyalty having van-ished in a night. Troops for the front pass through the Irish capital accompanied by the National Volunaccompanies by the National Volun-teers and cheered by the Catholic citizens. The outrages on Belgium —linked by closest ties with Ireland —have stirred the whole Irish race question.

A universal jettison of water-logged stocks. Healthier business with feelings of revenge, and the decimated ranks of the regiments at conditions-the whole world determined to earn an honest living, at least for a time. Credit arrangethe front tell their own tragic tale of the front tell their own tragic take of Irish valor and endurance. The taunt has been made that the Nation-al Volunteers have not recruited as largely as the Ulster Volunteers, but a growing sense of free citizenship mong the rest of the people. Japan's hegemony in Asia practic conceded, and her place among the great Powers established.

Increased solidarity of the British Empire-the colonies drawn close to the Mother Country than fifty years of argument could accomplish and the fealty of India enormously strengthened. An amicable settle ment of the Irish Home Rule ques tion, the suffragette movement an other vexed matters, along with some halting in Lloyd-George's land

AFTER THE WAR

After the war, what? Here are tutional monarchy, but no Hohenzol-lerns. The breaking up of Austria.

REPUTATION

canture some British guns.

sacrifice more men.

saved.

awav

reform movement, due to the fact that the land-holding classes shed their blood courageously on the field of battle. More money for social, industrial and educational reforms in Great Britain and Ireland, due to the diminished expenditure necessary for armaments. Less diclike to con-scription among English speaking

A closer reapprochement between England and the United States as the two greatest upholders of demoideals, possibly a treaty becratic tween them as a sort of moral supto the Monroe Doctrine, and port Cecil Rhodes' dream of an Anglo-Saxon confederation several milestones nearer. The revival of the United States' mercantile marine. A great influx of men and money, mostly from war frightened Europe, to Canada. Canadian securities viewed with increased favor by the

The Dublin Fusiliers, who have British investor. Canadian objecagain covered themselves with glory, tions to Governors General from the coast a record for foreign service unique among British regiments. Royal Family forgotten. Canada's defence policy no longer a party Though raised more than two centuries ago, the first time the regi ment, as a regiment, saw the shores of England was in 1871. Their name is writ large upon the history of India, where they figured in almost every battle of importance from Plassey to the Mutiny; but the storming of the Boer position at Glencoe was their first engagement out of Asia.

the road, leaving the scores of dead charges as parochial schools. Catholic Church and the city indebted to Jesuit Fathers that the maxim had mowed down. "Almost the moment afterward the Highlander fell dead behind his gun, this very important advance. They have built one of the finest High schools in America, cost-ing fully $600,000. The leader in where in the open road he had checked the advance upon the bridge and reinforcements came doubling up to line the river bank in such the enterprise is Rev. David W. Hearn, umbers that the Germans soon rewho came here from Boston five years tired, and gave up the attempt to ago. He is the rector of the church gain the bridge. "The Highlander had thirty bullet of St. Ignatius Loyola in Park avenue, but the new High school is not for this parish only. It is for Catholic students of all parochial schools of the vounds in his body when he was city.

More than 10,000 persons assembled recently in the square before Notre Dame Cathedral, Paris, and the inside of the cathedral itself was filled, the occasion being a special service presided over by Cardinal Amerte, Archbishop of Paris, at which prayers were offered for the wounded and prayers of thanksgiving for the repulse of the Germans. The ceremony was most impressive. When the hymns were being sung inside the cathedral the crowds in the open took up the airs. Women were in the great majority. These who wore light colored gowns were conspicuous because most of the congregation was dressed in mourning.

The senate of Cambridge University has invited the Catholic University of Louvain, Belgium, to move to Cambridge, England, there to con-Cambridge, England, there to tothe tinue its own separate studies, grant degrees and generally to pursue its activities as if at home. Cambridge ctivities as if at home. University would supply the technical facilities for carrying out this work. Owing to the war the number of students at Cambridge has been reduced for the present, so there would be ample accommodations for such students at Louvain as would e able to avail themselves of the invitation. It is believed that this is the first time such hospitality has been offered by one university to another.

picked up."

Kikuyu controversy on the English establishment in expediting conversions-and it promises large result -the coming over last year of the Caldey Benedictines has been very truitful. Rectors, curates, vicars, to the number of twenty four or twenty ive already have entered the Church, originally loosened from their false positions by that spectacular event. Nearly all are celibates, and most of them are making seminary studies at Beda College, Rome, an institution designed especially for this class of converts. THE DUBLIN FUSILIERS

THE ROMEWARD DRIFT

