The Church, in the formula of episcopal consecration, prays: "Whoseever says evil of the Bishop or maligns him may be be accursed; and whoseever speaks well of him and blesses him may he abound in blessings" Qui maledizerit et sit ipse maledictus; qui benedizerit et benedictonsbus impleatur." Cooperate, therefore, dearly beloved brethren, with your good Bishop, uphold his hands and give him your sympathy and your moral and material support in his labors and work amongst you; give him hands and give bim your sympathy and your moral and material support in his labors and work amongst you; give him also the benefit of your prayers. St. Paul frequently requested the prayers of his people, for he knew the intercessory prayers of his devoted children availed much with God. Pray, then, that the prince of pastors may bless, direct and protect your young Bishop, so that he may be the pattern of his flick from the heart, that his life amongst you may be the "good odour of Christ unto salvation, like the fregrance of a plentiful field which the Lord hath blessed," that his episcopal career may abound in every good work, may be fruitful in a rich harvest of graces and blessings for his diocese, may be effectual in building up and extending the kingdom of God within its bounds, in promoting the divine glory and the eternal salvation of his flick, and may be crowned at last by the reward exceeding great which the Son of God never falls to give to His faithful workman: "Well done, good and faithful servant, because thou hast been faithful over few things I will place you over many, enter into the joys of thy Lord."

I would not do justice to my own feelings on this occasion, nor indeed to yours, did I fail to congratulate the Right Rev. Dr. Dowling, Bishop of Hamilton, on the happy and blessed results of his labors amongst you. To his episcopal administration of this diocese I might apply the words of scripture: "consummatus in brevi coplevit tempora multa" It was short but tration of this diocese I might apply the words of scripture: "consummatus in brevi caplevit tempora multa" It was short but fruitful and effective and crowded with good works. The valuable church property, consisting of the Bishop's palace, the presbytery and spacious grounds, which he acquired, and almost entirely paid for, the noble and spacious hospital which he planned on a traly Catholic basis and which is now being built on the heights of Asburnham in the midst on the heights of Asburnham in the midst of beautiful grounds, his labors and visitations in the country parishes, his kindly relations with his clergy—all prove him to be a prudent and wise administrator, a kind, fatherly and firm ruler, good, the country and a story whose solo laborious and zeslous Bishop, whose sole aim and whose life's ambition is to promote the glory of God and the eternal pastoral care. The memory of Bishop Dowling will be long treasured here with esteem and affection and his name will be mentioned with blessings.

Special to the CATHOLIC RECORD. The popularity of the Loretto Convent, Mount St. Mary's, is constantly on the increase. It is situated in the most beautiful and healthy portion of the city, on an eminence overlooking Burlington Bay. It has been long noted for the refused, moral and intellectual course of education imparted by the cultured ladies who preside over it. Many of the leading Protestant ladies of Hamilton eceived their education within its sacred received their education within its sacred walls, their religious feelings being always scrupulously respected. After the presentation of the address came a vocal duet—"Erin, the Tear and the Smile"—sung by Miss Daffer and Miss Heffernan, with a harp accompaniment by Miss Nelligan. Then followed the prettiest teature of the afternoon, some forty or fifty little girls—some of them very little—trooped out in pairs from behind the painted scene, and arranged themselves in order on the platform Nearly all were dressed in white, and the little fairles in the front row carried. the little fairies in the front row carried bouquets and baskets of flowers. These floral tributes were all for the bishop Very beautiful and fresh and fragrant they were, but not half so sweet and pretty as the wee buds of humanity that bore them. A greeting chorus was sung by the children, and then followed the presentation of the flowers. This was quite an elaborate ceremony. The bouquets and baskets were ar-ranged in groups of twos and threes, each group being made up of the same kind of flowers. The dainty little flower maidens advanced in groups little flower maidens advanced in groups successively, and, after having made a low obeissnee, recited a few lines of poetry descriptive of the flowers which they bore; they then came down the steps and either placed their offerings in the bishep's hand or laid them in a large wire basket before him, then gracefully retired and made way for the pext retired and made way for the next group. It was a charming scene After all the flowers were presented, Miss Taompson and Miss Nelligan played a duet for piano and harp—an arrange-ment of Irish airs. A vocal duet fol-lowed—"Holy Mother, Guide His Foot-tone" by Wallace. This was heautifully steps," by Wallace. This was beautifully sung by Misses Heffernan and Maddigan, both of whom have excellent voices—the former a light soprano of very pleasing quality, and the latter a rich mezz) There was another chorus by soprano. There was another chorus by the little ones; and a well-rendered semi-chorus, "Protect Us Through the Coming Night," brought the musical pro-

OFFERINGS BY THE YOUNG LADY PUPILS.

DISHOP DOWLING then addressed his youthful entertainers in a very happy speech. He said that he heartily appreciated the very great honor they had done him, coming as it did from the chief educational institution of the diocese. He rejoiced to see so many pupils of Lorette the circle transfer. of Loretto : the sight recalled men of many young ladies who had passed from that institution and had been a credit to their teachers. It would always be a delight for him to visit Loretto wishes by presenting him with beautiful natural flowers, emblems of the virtues that sweeten and ennoble human character, and also in providing such a pleas-ing musical treat, rich in beautiful ing musical treat, rich in beautifu melodies that would never die. He con gratulated the children and also their parents upon the educational advanparents upon the educational advan-tages offered them in this institution— upon having such efficient teachers as the ladies of Loretto, who not only trained their minds but surrounded them with an atmosphere of refinement and culture and fitted them to take their hanging the gravel walks and redolent places in social life as accomplished with the fragrance of the flowers and young ladies. It was his duty as bishop manifest, over the entrance being a one of his delights as well as privileges to streamer with the motto, "Welcome to our Bishop," over the door leading to the music room, 'Caed Mille Faitha." The had been wisely said that "he who interior was beautifully and artistically decorated with streamers of different he who educates a girl educates a colors elegantly blended with flags and family." He was certain that the ladies destoons of evergreens, with various of Loretto fully appreciated the responsibility of their important office as teachers, and that while they were cultivating over the beautiful drop scene were the words, "Bene lictus qui venit. In Nomini Domini." A temporary throne was placed in the centre opposite the platform for His Lordship. On his right sat Mayor Doran. The following clergymen and laymen were also present: Very Rev. E. Mayor Doran, by special invitation, delivered a short and pleasing address expressing the great pleasure it afforded him to be a participator in such an intellectual, literary and musical enter-tainment such as the ladies of Loretto are now famed for. He was rejoiced when His Lordship was transferred to Hamilton and he had no doubt but the community would look to him as an expression. community would look to him as an example of all virtues, moral and spiritual.

Mayor Doran has, by his courteous, gentle and unassuming demeanor during his term in office, created a host of triands.

Major Moore made a few ielicit ious remarks, and the proceedings closed with "God Save the Queen" played as a minon solo.

The good ladies of Loretto were overwhelmed with congratulations upon the success of the reception.

THE SPECIAL COMMISSION.

Before the Special Commission, Mr. Before the Special Commission, Mr. Parnell's evidence has been most straightforward, creating a very favorable impression. Sir Richard Webster's manner in cross-questioning him on the other hand has disgusted the public, even the Tories. The Cable despatches

"The opinion is generally expressed that Mr. Parnell's complaint of the hard-ship be has been compelled to endure from Sir Richard Webster's method in cross examination is abundantly justified. The Attorney General's manner throughout was gratuitously offensive, and a great many Conservatives unhesitatingly ex-press their disgust thereat, believing that whatever may be the final decision of the Commission, Sir Richard's con-duct of the prosecution has had a bad effect upon public opinion, where a good impression is most needed at this time."

Mr. Parnell's demeanor has been calm. and his statements confirm what was always believed, that his policy was not to be closely identified with that of the more thorough going men of his party. This attitude has now found justification by the fact that he is able to make wholesale denials of very searching interrogatories. So far nothing serious has turned up against Mr. Parnell. He admits association with men who, at a later period, were found to be extremists, when he remonstrated with several of them. There was considerable sensation when

Mr. Parnell, on being questioned, ac knowledged that a statement attributed to him as having been made in the House of Parliament was untrue or at House of Parliament was untrue or at least exaggerated, viz., that secret societies had completely disappeared from Ireland owing to the influence of the League. They had not entirely disappeared though they had been much diminished in number. Really, it were a matter of small importance that the Lich leader in a moment of enthusiasm. Irish leader, in a moment of enthusiasm, and at a time of bitter controversy on the beneficial influence of the League, should have boasted of greater success than it had actually achieved. It could be no more than a rhetorical exaggerano more than a ractorical exaggera-tion or hyperbole such as could not be accepted as literally true, yet no one would be deceived thereby. Such hyper-boles are of frequent use among orators, and there can be no more blame to Mr. Parnell for making use of the figure, than for any one else in similar circumstances

Parnell for making use of the figure, than for any one else in similar circumstances.

But Sir Richard Webster's temporary triumph, small as it was, was of short duration. When at leisure the Hansard was looked into it sppeared that Mr. Parnell spoke of Ribbon Societies and not secret societies generally. It was a fact that Ribbon Societies and not secret societies generally. It was a fact that Ribbon Societies and wirtusly disappeared at the time, so that his words were really true.

Archbishop Walsh was then called to the stand.

He testified that facts that had come to his knowledge proved that the League tended to dimnish crime. There had been a general decadence in the secret societies in Ireland since 1866. He was aware the League had advised tenants not to enter the Land Court after the passage of the Act establishing that Court in 1881. Subsequent events had justified that advice, He only knew of one instance where the League had been indiscreet; this indiscretion consisted in the passage of a resolution by a branch of the League to publish in its district a list of persons not members of the League to publish in its district a list of persons not members of the League to publish in its district a list of persons not members of the League to publish in its district a list of persons not members of the League to publish in its district a list of persons not members of the League to publish in its district a list of persons not members of the League to publish in its district a list of persons not members of the League, He protested gainst this action and the publication of the list was abandoned. As the League was strong in that district. The only sease, the Archbishop said, in which beyociting were few although the League was strong in that district. The only sease, the Archbishop said, in which beyociting kept the country free from outrages, Witches did not approve of refusing to self the country free from outrages, Witches did not approve of refusing to self the country free from outrages, with the co heartier reception anywhere in his diocese, and certainly not such a pretty one, as he got yesterday afternoon from gave us the flowers to teach us lessons the pupils at St. Mary's Loretto convent.

The event took place in the main school.

Mrs. Guyett, Galt.

Mrs. Guyett, Galt.

Died, at St. Joseph's Hospital, Guelph, on Friday evening, May 3rd, Mary O'Loughlin, the beloved wife of Joseph Guyett, in the 3th year of her age.

Not feeling well for some time past, she wished to pay a visit to her kind friends, the Sisters of St. Joseph, and enjoy a few days rest from household cares, and was about returning home, when she took a chill, in-dammation set in and death soon followed. Fortified by the last sacraments of the church, she died a most peaceful and happy death. When the sad tidings of her demise reached Galt, many a face grew sorrowful, many a tear was shed, as she was highly esteemed and loved for her amiable disposition and her pious, virtuous life. Her remains were conveyed to her late residence in Galt on Saturday morning. The funeral, which was largely attended, took place on Monday at 10 a. m., a solemn Requiem Mass being sung by the pastor, Rev. J. F. Lennon, for the eternal repose of her soul. She leaves a sorrowing husband, aged parents and a grief-stricken sister and brother to mourn her loss. Requiescat in pace.

Mr. Daniel Haragan, Kinkora.

It is, indeed, with deepsst regret we are obliged to announce the death of Daniel Haragan of the parish of Kinkora. be was born in Cork and came to this country with his parents forty years ago. By sheer industry, frugality and strict attention to all the duties of a truly devoted Cairelle and a good citizen, he was sooked upon by all who had the happiness of knowing him as a model in the parish. Quiet and inoffensive in his dealings with others, he was slways ready and willing to give a helping hand where his service was required, God blessed his every undertaking and as a consequence in the end of his mortal career he had not only acquired an independence in his old age, but also the great gratification of his sons and dangiters comfortably secured in their own respective homes. He lived with the respect of the entire community and died fortified and consoled with the rites of Holy Mocher Church. He leaves a wife and four sons and three daughters to mourn the loss of a dear and loving parent. May he rest in peace.

The Messrs. Ernest Girardot & Co., o Sandwich, being good practical Catholica we are satisfied their word may be relied on and that the wine they sell for use in the Holy sacrifice of the Mass is pure and un adulterated. We, therefore, by these presents recommend it for altar use to the cierge of our diocese.

ents recommend it for all a for the of our diocese.

† John Walsh, Bp. of London. CHURCH PEWS SCHOOL FURNITURE.

The Bennett Furnishing Co., of London Out., make a specialty of manufacturing the latest designs in Church and School Furni ture. The Catholic Clergy of Canada are respectfully invited to send for catalogm and prices before awarding contracts. We have lately put in a complete set of Fews in the Brantford Catholic Church, and for many years past have been favored with contracts from a number of the Clergy in other parts of Ontario, in all cases the most entire satisfaction having been expressed in regard to quality of work, lowness of price, and quickness of execution. Such has been the increase of business in this special line that we found it necessary sometime since to establish a branch office it Glasgow, Scotland, and we are now et queed manufacturing Pews for new Churci es it that country and Ireland. GENTS. - Having used MINARD'S LIN. | alie IMENT for several years in my stable, I attest to its being the best thing I know Wo for horse flesh. In the family we have used it for every purpose that liniment is adapted for, it being recommended to us by the late Dr. J. L. R. Webster. Personally I find it the best allayer of neuralgic pain I have ever used. B. Titus, Proprietor Yarmouth Livery Stable.
