Wonder That the Argonauts, of Toronto, Do Not Benefit by Their Defeat at Henley Regatta.

London, July 5.—The defeat of the Toronto Argonaut oarsmen at Henley yesterday is followed to-day by considerable criticism of the Canadians style. One expert describes the contest which the Australians won as a real stalling race. After being behind to the half-mile mark, Australia went ahead and won by a length and a quarter. The Canadians went away at forty-six a minute, as fast a stroke as has been pulled at Henley for a number of years. The Australians were content with six less, and at this were able to show their best, for their bodies and oars moved like one man. When the Canadians swish-stroke commenced to slacken the Australians began to gain, and when once they had levelled up, the race was never left long in doubt. It was by no means an easy win, both crews being much exhausted. The time, 7 mins., 4 secs., was fast, but conditions were quite good.

Another expert commenting on the race, says: "The Argonauts have been frequent visitors to Henley, but I always wondered why they don't benefit by their continued defeats. Their style hasn't altered one whit, and until it does, and they can learn to get a real hard sharp beginning and eliminate the terrible hoist at first, the chances of victory are small."

A Suggestion.

If the men who save the nation in the old accustomed way, piling up, without vacation, heaps of language day by day, would forsake the verbal wars, and do stunts upon the highways, we'd have splendid thoroughfares! Better roads in all directions—that is what this country needs. But we do not make connections with the sane and useful deeds; half the energy expended in conventions and the like would see shameful highways ended if exhausted on the pike. Hosts of Windy Jims have thrived on Chicago's pleasant shores; hosts of Windy Jims have blundered through their stunts at Baltimore. That's the way men save the nation in these foolish, futile years, holding a big convocation where they bawl like brinded steers. All their platforms are delusion, all their pledges are hot air; all they give us is confusion and a chance to brood and swear. Ah, it is a thousand pities that we thus so long have sinned! One good road connecting cities beats a thousand years of wind! Politics is mostly pillage when it isn't foolish noise; a good highway to our village would be better for the boys than recall or referendum or a change in Schedule K. Catch the Windy Jims and send 'em out to the drag the broad highway!

Loss of the Schr. Empire

Captain Benson, Mate R. Francis, Cook J. Sutton, Bosun Jas. Button, and Seamen Ned Snow and Frank Reardon, of the ill-fated schr. Empire, arrived in from Cape Breton on a construction train at 3 a.m. to-day. To the Telegram Capt. Benson said that the Empire was out 30 days from Oporto to St. John's with sand ballast and wine, and had head winds but fine weather until Sunday, the 30th of June, when a dense fog enveloped the ocean. At 1 p.m., while the captain was below, with Bosun Button at the wheel and the fog horn blowing and the vessel running at an 8 knot clip, she struck an immense dead sulphur bottom whale stem on, and reeled from the shock. The collision took the stem completely out of the ship in torrents. The pumps were immediately manned and some of the crew kept bailing with buckets out of the forehold, and from then until Thursday, the 4th July, they kept hard at work keeping her afloat. By that day the crew were entirely exhausted, had to give up pumping, and provisioning their boat and taking some of their effects they left the vessel. Before doing so Capt. Benson threw kerosene oil about the cabin and fore-castle and set fire to the vessel. The boat being small and the weather bad, shortly after leaving they had to throw their effects overboard to make room and lighten her. The accident occurred 400 miles S. E. of Cape Spear, and all Thursday it was foggy with a gale of S. W. wind and heavy sea. That night they had to leave to with a sea anchor out, and with varying gales all Friday they sailed towards Newfoundland on a N. W. course. Friday night, the 5th, they saw a steamer in the distance, burned flares and signalled her, but she took no notice and held on her course to the westward. Saturday at noon, when all felt most depressed, the Lunenburg banker Lucille B. Creaser, apt Arthur Creaser, loomed up out of the fog, coming directly towards them and taking the shipwrecked men on board treated them with every kindness and landed them at Cape Breton. Fred Ring, a young chap of farve & Co's. office, who was across in the vessel on a health trip, Capt. Benson says proved himself a plucky ad. He had learned how to steer on the voyage and also the use of the compass, and while the men pumped & steered, but for which they might have been forced to leave the vessel earlier and in bad weather, and could risk their lives. Fred Ring is son of Mr. Wm. Ring, keeper at the Lunenburg Asylum, and he never murmured at his position though he was frenched to the skin for hours owing to wearing faulty oil clothes. Capt. Benson only saved a sextant, and all the crew as well as himself lost their clothing and effects.

Will Make Hair Grow

Every up-to-date woman should have radiant hair.

There are thousands of women with arsh, faded, characterless hair, who not try to improve it.

England and Paris women take pride in having beautiful hair. Every Canadian woman can have lustrous and luxuriant hair by using SALVIA, the Great American Sage Hair Tonic. Murdoch & Co. sells a large bottle for 50 cents, and guarantee it to finish Dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in ten days, or money back.

"I Didn't Leave the Ship."

The grandest flash of literature in all the published records of the Titanic disaster was the dialogue between Charles Herbert Lightholder, second officer of the doomed vessel, and United States Senator Smith:

"What time did you leave the ship?" asked the senator.

"I didn't leave the ship," Lightholder answered.

"You mean the ship left you?" said Senator Smith.

"Yes, sir," the second officer replied.

Then Lightholder briefly told the story of going down with the ship and coming up beside a lifeboat into which he was drawn. It was a fine, heroic story, simply told, and revealed the second officer to be a good representation of that noble race of English seamen.

The General Conference.

Hon. H. J. B. Woods, P.M.G., left town by last night's express for Toronto to attend a meeting of the Special Committee of the General Conference of the Methodist Church. The chief business to occupy the attention of the Committee is the recent ballot on Church Union, and to consider what further action should be taken in the matter. We understand Mr. Woods is the only lay representative for Newfoundland and the Maritime Provinces. He is accompanied by Mrs. Woods, who will pay a visit to her daughter, Mrs. (Rev.) P. Bryce, residing in Toronto.

Methodist College Hall To-night.

To-night an opportunity of hearing the renowned pianist will be given, when Adela Verne gives the first of her two farewell recitals in the college hall. The C.L.B. Band is to assist her. Under Bandmaster Snow they have already achieved prominence and success. To-night they come trained by Adela Verne herself. It is true that this is July, when the open air most attracts, but the visits of Adela Verne are far between, and the opportunities of hearing such a mistress of the Art Divine, so rare, that a filled house is reasonably sure. To excel previous efforts will be difficult indeed, but those who have listened to the rehearsal say that an even greater treat is in store to-night.

The Police Court.

Two drunks were discharged on payment of cab hire.

A man charged with assaulting a little girl was fined $10 or 14 days.

A dispute between two fishermen of the Battery as to a trap berth was settled by the defendant undertaking to remove his trap to-day and to pay costs.

In the Central District Court several civil matters were heard, chiefly cases of debt.

Wolgast Wins With Aid of Referee.

Strange to Say the Defeated and Victor Were Both Knocked Out in the Final Round.

Vernon Arena, July 4.—Ad. Wolgast, with the aid of Referee Jack Welsh, retained his claim to the lightweight championship to-day in the Vernon Arena, when he was given the decision over Joe Rivers of Los Angeles in the 13th round. Rivers had a slight shade. In the 12th round Wolgast, tired and bleeding profusely, suddenly struck Rivers a vicious left in the groin. At the same instant Rivers' right landed flush on Wolgast's jaw, and the champion went down and out. Disregarding claims of foul made by Rivers' manager, Referee Welsh counted the Mexican youth out, and then turning, picked up the unconscious Wolgast and declared him the winner.

"It was the worst case of robbery in the history of the American ring," said Manager Levy. "Never before have I seen a referee pick up a man and then give him the decision. The foul blow struck by Wolgast was seen by every man near the ringside. It was the fourth or fifth foul the champion had landed on Rivers. The sum total of it all is that Wolgast knew he was whipped and resorted to his foul tactics to save himself."

No one connected with Wolgast's camp would say a word, and all of them jumped in an automobile and quickly left the pavilion. Welsh declared all bets off.

Colored People Celebrate.

Chicago, July 5.—News that Jack Johnson had won in the Las Vegas championship fight was the signal for the beginning of a celebration by hundreds of negroes in the neighborhood of the champion's home here. The delirium of joy gained such momentum that a riot call was sent to the police, and the negroes who had begun a parade through the streets were routed by a small army of blue coats. One of the negroes grew enthusiastic enough to fire a revolver several times in the street, and he was promptly arrested. Another Johnson admirer carried a long pole with a side of bacon at the top, signifying "Bringing home the bacon." The returns were received in nearly every cafe, saloon and theatre in the "Black Belt."
