A Peculiar Way to Coast.

It seems odd to think that coasting is possible in the tropics, for when this sport is mentioned one invariably thinks of snow. But it is a fact that coasting affords great amusement to the natives of some of the tropical regions.

They build long sledges and also choose steep hills just as we do, but for their course they have, instead of snow, dry grass, which grows there abundantly. Stones are also used in the building of the courses, which must cost a great deal of labor, but the enjoyment derived from them amply repays for the trouble.

It is an amusing sight to see the natives on their sledges, only about six inches wide, three inches deep and twelve feet long, speed down the course and go quite a surprising distance across the plain.—The Comrade.

PREPARING PLAY—The B. I. S. Dramatic Troupe are now making arrangements for a play which they will produce on St. Patrick's Night. The name of the play is not yet decided on.

Intense Indignation.

People in from St. Mary's Bay to-day say that there is intense indignation all over the Bay and along the Southern Shore over the callous manner in which the family of Peter Ryan, of North Harbour, were treated. Five out of six in the family died with diphtheria of a most malignant type, and our informants say that they were only visited once and then left to their own resources to fight the dread disease. The ages of the children who died ranged from 21 to 19 downwards, and they were without proper medical treatment and had no nurse. The Government showed indifference in the matter and naturally they are exasperated by all the people of that section. Why was not a doctor sent from the city? Mrs. Ryan herself was dangerously ill of the disease but fortunately recovered.

Photographs by Telegraph

In France the transmission of photographs over a telegraph-wire is now practical for newspaper work, and pictures sent in this way appear in the Paris papers. 'L'Illustration' is taking the lead, and one station is installed at its Paris office and another at Monte Carlo. The 'Scientific American' has the following account of the process:

PARIS, To-day.
The rising of the Seine to within six feet of the flood marks, caused by the disastrous inundation of 1911, has caused great uneasiness throughout the low lying districts of the Paris suburb, Bercy, three acres of wine cellars are partially submerged and have suffered most up to the present. Rain has been falling intermittently for a week and still continues causing the affluents of the Seine to be surcharged.

NEW YORK, To-day.
A third Bank President has been convicted within a month at Brooklyn on charges arising out of the panic of 1907. Found guilty of Grand Larceny, William C. Danroy, head of the Home Bank, received with calmness the jury's verdict of guilty on the charge of misappropriating $2,500 of the bank's funds. He will be sentenced on Wednesday, when the Fourth Brooklyn banker and another officer of the Home Bank will be placed on trial.

BALTIMORE, To-day.
President Taft in speaking at the annual banquet of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, defended his administration's attitude on the Panama Canal disagreements. He declared his position was not unpatriotic and dishonorable. He said there was no reason for anyone to oppose the proposal for arbitration before an impartial tribunal. Whether you call it subsidy or not, I am in favor of making transportation rates between the coasts through the Panama Canal lower, said the President. Now the question is can we do that under our international obligations? I think we can and if you read the authorities you will find we may, but if we are bound not to exempt coastwise vessels we can agree to submit the question to an impartial tribunal. I am willing to admit there are arguments on the other side; we are willing, however, to submit our views to arbitration. There is nothing in the attitude of the administration as it have stated, to show we have been dishonorable. There is nothing to show a disposition to evade. We are willing to rest the case with a tribunal that is impartial.

LONDON, To-day.
A Cabinet Council will assemble to decide the momentous question how to deal with the dilemma caused by the Speaker's ruling on the Franchise question. This ruling which was made on Thursday in answer to a question asked by Bonar Law, was to the effect that if the form or substance of the bill were materially changed by the amendment it should be withdrawn and a new bill presented. Such strong conflicting opinions have been provoked by the thorny problem of women's vote that fears have begun to be expressed whether the Government will be able to weather the storm, faced on one hand by suffragists who are calling upon the Premier to redeem his pledge to women and on the other hand by those even some Liberals, who express the opinion that the Government has no right to force through Parliament such a revolutionary reform as giving votes to women without first appealing to the country. Ministers insist that the question cannot involve any Cabinet resignations. Fear of some new militant action on the part of the Suffragettes, if the Bill is dropped causes great anxiety in official quarters. The Scotland Yard authorities are taking elaborate measures to protect the cabinet against possible attacks.

LONDON, To-day.
That the policy of the allies is to gain time is patent and does not deceive anybody. The Delegates have decided the advantages to be derived from resumption of hostilities would not be in proportion to the risks they ran, and that they would not take that step unless absolutely forced to do so. They realize that even a partial reverse would have grave moral and material consequences, apart from the loss of thousands of men. In addition the fact is not overlooked that there is danger of Roumania advancing from the rear, and of Austria imposing on Serbia and Montenegro, her conditions for remaining neutral. The only disadvantage of delaying action is the keeping of large armies inactive and on a war footing for a long time, thus heavily taxing both the financial and agricultural resources of the countries. A Greek project is under examination, aiming to land troops in the Gulf of Saros and occupy the Gallipoli Peninsula. This would give the allies control of the Turkish fortifications of the Dardanelles, enabling the Greek fleet to enter the Sea of Marmora and threaten Constantinople. All this and similar projects are subordinate to the decision of the Powers and to events in Constantinople where many consider a military counter-revolution is inevitable within a short time.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.

Finished His Course.
Word has just been received that Mr. Jack Higgins, who has been studying law at Oxford University for the past three years, passed his final examination very successfully. Jack will be leaving to come home about the 15th of next month. We understand that Mr. Higgins will practice in St. John's.

Once in 95 Years.
Not in ninety-five years has Easter come any earlier in the year than it will be in 1913, and it will not come as early again for another eighty-seven years. Next Easter falls on March 22nd. Not since 1818 did it arrive sooner in the year. In that year it came on March 22nd. Not until after the year 2,000 will it come so early again.

AFTER LONGFELLOW.

Tell me not, with mournful croaking, that this life is but a dream, for the guy is only joking who advances such a theme. All will come for which thou yearnest, all the good things will arrive, if you'll only do your dullest while you're here on earth, alive. In this world's broad field of battle, in the bivouac of life, bump around and make things rattle, hustle for your kids and wife. Not enjoyment and not trouble is our destined end, ay tank, but to put the shining robe safely in the village bank. Lives of rich men all remind us we may well be shining marks, and departing leave behind us pickings for the legal sharks. Pickings that some court and jury will distribute here and there, while our orphans, in a fury, draw a blank and paw the air. Let us then be saving twenty million dollars or the like, so the lawyers will have plenty when it comes our time to hike. Let us practice self denial, so that on a future day, when the case comes up for trial, courts may find the business pay.

Three Companies Worked.

When the fire on Harvey Road started last night, the first intimation received of it at the Central Station was by telephone from Mr. Blatch's residence, Long's Hill. Shortly after box No. 226 was rung in and the Western firemen as well as the Central responded as this box is on Cookstown Road. The East End men also responded so that the three companies were at work at the fire. Just as the Central and Eastern men reached their quarters, all wet and tired as they were, they had to respond to the alarm for the Gower Street fire and they were all used up when they got back this morning.
