THE GREAT RELAY RUN. Utilizing the Bicycle to Carry Military

Experiment.

Chicago, May 18.—The 1,000-mile fast dispatch relay run commenced here at noon to-day and will end in New York. The start was from the Pullman building, on Miles' head-quarters, and was made by E. A. Lumsden and E. C. Bode, both well known local cracks. They carry a dispatch from Gen. Miles addressed to Gen. Howard at New York. Two chieste are in your as a series. to-day and will end in New York. The start was from the Pullman building, on Michigan boulevard, Gen. Miles' head-quarters, and was made by E. A. Lumsden and E. C. Bode, both well known local cracks. They carry a dispatch from Gen. Miles addressed to Gen. Howard at New York. Two objects are in view—an agitation for better roads and the testing of the utility of the bicycle for American military purposes. All along the route bicycle organizations are prepared to join the flyers over their respective ten or fifteen-mile courses. The route is through South Bend, Ind.; Toledo and Cleveland, O.; Eric, Pa.; Butlalo, Rochester, Syracuse and Albany to New York city. The entire distance is expected to be covered in 90 hours or less.—a rate of fifteen miles an hour or better. Covered with mud from head to foot. Arthur Lumsden, the crack cyclist, dashed past the Illinois Central track in South Chicago at Grand Crossing this afternoon bearing General Miles' dispatch to General Howard in New York. As he went past that point at full speed H. A. Githens, the first relay man, wheeled up abreast of Lumsden, and from him received the dispatch and sped towards Kensington, the relay station.

The initial run of the great race was not made in as good time as expected, owing to the rain-flooded roads. E. C. Bode, who started with Lumsden, was distanced before they finished. Githins reached Kensington one minute ahead of time, and vaulting from his machine threw the grey silk cord of the precious rubber ponch over the neck of R. Hoagland, who whisked away toward New York. Fully 1,000 people, including General Miles and an umber of his staff, witnessed Lumsien start.
