Seven Ministers Resign, With a String to It.

The Decapitation of Premier Bowell the Object.

Montague Now Confesses the High Tax Party Has Gone to Pieces.

He Pretests That Caren's Grave Accusations Against Him Are False.

RESIGNED WITH A STRING. Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 6.- The talk of the city today is the resignation of seven of the members of the Bowell Cabinet. Those who have tendered their resignations are as follows:

Foster, Minister of Finance; Ives, Minister of Trade and Commerce; Tupper, Minister of Justice: Montague, Minister of Agriculture: Haggart, Minister of Railways; Wood, Minister of Customs, and Dickey, Minister of Mil-

Four Ministers remain faithful to Sir Mackenzie Bowell. They are: Caron, Postmaster-General; Ouimet, Minister of Public Works; Costigan, Minister of Marine at d Fisheries; and Daly, Minis.

ter of the Interior. Coming so soon after the statement that Sir Mackenzie Bowell had resigned, this report, which appears to be well founded, has set everyone asking, 'What next?" There is utter demoralization in the ranks of the folowers of Sir Mackenzie Bowell, and this is only one of the symptoms of it. The report that Premier Bowell had resigned was circulated by Conservative kickers in and out of the Ministry, who, finding the party going to pieces, are willing to effect any change, in the hope that it may prolong, for even a short time, the life of the Administration. Some of them seem to think that the aged Tupper, who is loafing around here, though paid many thousands of dollars to represent Canada in Britain, would be able to rescue the high tax party in the crisis: but those who favor that course ignore the fact that no Tupper leadership can prevent that change of men and measures which recent bye-elections show that the country demands. The undermining and political assassination of Premier Bowell by the conspirators would only open up a new series of troubles. It is felt here that the resigned Ministers never intend to resign, but merely threaten their leader so that they may compel him to get out and give ambitious men a chance to try their hand. He charges treachery against some of his own principal supporters, and being a proud man, he is likely to die hard. price offered him to resign is the High Comimssionership in England. THE DIVIDED GOVERNMENT

The Montague-Caron feud is one of the exciting topics here. The Citizen has an editorial entitled "The War of Ministers," which says: "Dr. Montague is accused by a colleague, Sir Adolphe Caron, of having treacherously at-tempted to ruin him by writing anonymous accusations against him to his Excellency the Governor-General. The charge was that Sir Adolphe was paid for promoting the passage of a private bill, a charge which he emphatically denies. The handwriting in the letters he believes he has conclusively established to be that of his fellow-Minister. The obvious result must be an investigation of the indictment laid against the Hon. Dr. Montague. Until this investigation is made it would be premature to form a judgment upon the merits of the case, but it is inevitable that one or other of the Ministers must resign."

Caron's charges against Montague are sterling proofs of the demorafization that prevails among the high tax leaders.

The Citizen also says editorially: "The unsettled state of the political atmosphere for many months past has been aggravated recently by rumors of all kinds concerning dissensions in the Cabinet, prospective changes and suggested reorganization under a new leadership."

The opinion here is that the end of it all will be an early dissolution of Parliament.

DR. MONTAGUE'S CONFESSIONS. In reply to a question Dr. Montague aid: "You may say that the whole thing is a tissue of falsehoods. is a lie from beginning to end, and no amount of expert evidence as to handwriting will prove the contrary. I had before the publication of this writ-ten to the Premier demanding that his Excellency should be informed of the mention of my name in connection with it. Why was this matter given to the press before I was called on to answer the charge? The whole object is that one or two men about to fall are trying to drag me down with them. The Conservative party is done for, fought hard to save it."

but they cannot say other than that I It is said by those who know that Premder Bowell and Sir Adolphe Caron are the men alluded to as those about to fail. In any event it is admitted here that the end not only of the Bowell Administration but of Conservative rule has arrived. ANOTHER RESIGNATION.

It is said here than Hon. T. M.
Daly, member for Marquette, Man. knowing he cannot be re-elected, clamoring for a judgeship. Mr. Daly is tired of politics, and is ready, it is said, to accept a position in the judi-clary of Manitoba. He wants the po-sition without delay, for, like many others, he fears that the Administration must soon fall.

WHAT OF THE BILL? It is said that Hon. John Haggart's opposition to the Goternment's bringing in of its coercive Manitoba bill is so strong that he has warned his leader that, at the caucus that is to be held next Thursday, he will make a speech against the proposed policy of the Administration. He will pic-ture defeat for the Government in Ontario if the bill is brought in.

SIR BOWELL IS YET KING.

As long as Sir Mackenzie Bowell views the matter from his present standpoint he is king of the situation. The Premier can dismiss all his Ministers at his own sweet will, but his colleagues have no control over him. To start with, Sir Charles, the older, has no constituency. Some of those who are wanting to see him Premier that he could be placed in the Senate. But who is to put Sir Charles in the Senate? Not Sir Mackenzie Bowell, by any means, for he has no use for the Tuppers.

MORE TO BE TOLD.

Dr. Montague's alleged plottings against his colleagues of the Cabinet has been in my possession for some time. The portion which was telegraphed to some of the papers last night, is probably the most sensational, but there is a great deal more to be told. Everyone in the Press Callery knows how Dr. in the Press Gallery knows how Dr. Montague has been cultivating the correspondence of some of the most bitter critics of the Government. It is not a secret where much of the informawas obtained, for Dr. Montague has been quietly booming himself at the expense of his colleagues ever since he entered the Ministry. The caucuses and cabals intended to destroy Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Sir Adolphe Caron, and Sir Hibbert Tupper can be traced almost without exception to the present Minister of Agriculture. Pending the investigation which is likely to be held, it would perhaps be unfair to say more. The like of the scandal which may be caused will have no counterpart in the history of Parliamentary Government in Canada." (Continued on Page 6.)

Preparing for a Siege.

Havana Surrounded by the Patriots Ready to Fight-Attempted Train Wrecking.

Havana, Jan. 6 .- Soon from all sides except oceanward the siege of Havana will have been begun. Though the city can hold out for a period against the enemy it puts DeCampos and his thousands of Spanish troops in the very foolish light of being trapped and cornered by untrained and ignorant rebels, whom they could not subdue in the open field. Besides there are fears of a seditious uprising in the city itself, or that the light or water supply of the city would be cut off by a sudden raid of the insurgent forces. The idea of the city being left in total dark ness, for the unseen working of plots and sedition, is itself enough to work a panic in the nervous condition of the public mind. Special preparations for the defense of the works that supply these have been made, and artillery has been placed to command them against all probable sources of attack. All possible recruits have been lenlisted for the defense of the city, and the available ground about the city has been filled with batteries of artillery, which are manned day

The insurgents then attempted to capture the train, but were prevented from so doing by the arrival of a detachment of Spanish troops. would be fortunate and honorable. Were the modern and rational form of the Monroe doctrine firmly estab lished by this treaty Great Britain would have no cause for regret. It should be remembered that Lord Salisbury in his note to Sir Julian Pauncefote did not scout the Monroe doc-trine as a whole, but denied its applicability to the Venezuela affair. also appears to have formed the idea that Mr. Olney had enlarged the doctrine, whereas more mature reflection must have convinced him that Mr. Olney has distinctly and in an import ant particular modified it. There are many reasons why Great Britain should selfishly wish to have modified Monroeism established in international law. The chief of this is that her possessions in the Americas are greater than those of all other European powers together. The principle of "no acquisition by force" would therefore preserve the status quo as respecting the vast British interests just as it preserved it in protection of the in-terests of the United States. It would, for instance, keep Russia's hands off these continents and give Great Britain assurance that no Russian rivalry, territorial or military, was to be sions in the western hemisphere. All England wants in America, according and all America—a pledge which will do more than any other single action, in this way no objections thereto will be urged in Washington.

AN INDIAN TIGER STORY.

In This Case Quite True and Somewhat Out

Our Mysore correspondent writes:

There was considerable excitement here

recently. One of the Maharajah's tigers

Mysore. During the time of the late the menagerie, and also during his fort a whole day, going in and out of people's houses, but, strange to say, on none of these occasions has any one been injured. The tiger in the present instance is one which is kept in his Highness' dairy to keep away the 'evil eye'

from the cattle. He was netted for Lord Lansdowne to shoot when his Excellency visited Mysore a few years ago, and is a splendid brute. The dairy is a very large yard, with open sheds all round in which the cattle are tied, the tiger's cage being close to one end and a fountain near the other. The tiger got out about 7 p.m.

and calmly strolled around, the place being full of cattle and people at the

To the Editor of the "Advertiser":

Britain May Buy the Whole of the Disputed Venezuela Territory.

days and weeks ago, for it has been a well-known fact for that length of time that I was a candidate in No. 2 to be the outcome of the Venezuelan affair? This is a question which I have heard discussed in high official ward. I am charged with bringing outside labor, bricklayers and laborers from Strathroy and elsewhere to do circles. It is believed by men who are in admirable position to know what work for me, when plenty, willing to do same, were to be had in London. I is going on that the end of the whole matter will be found in a treaty of ardeny this charge. I have never yet bitration between the United States turned my back on London workmen, and Great Britain. According to this treaty, if the project now talked of be and have through all my contracting given every preference to our own citizens, and this I always will do worked out to completion, Great Britwhere competent and trustworthy workmen are to be had. "A Lover of Work" is probably one of the kind who requires the foreman's eye on him ain will agree to submit to arbitration, not only of all the boundary disputes which she may have with this Gov-ernment, but all those arising between not able to say that any proposition looking to this end has been made, States. In fact, I am sure that no such proposal has been formally made known to the art of diplomacy an in-timation has been received in Wash-Great Britain may propose such method of settling not only the Venezuelan dispute but all legitimate contentions concerning territory in this hemisphere. Whether these intimations are in the form of "feelers," and intended as a means of providing Lord Salisbury with a graceful means of retreat from his present predicament, or whether they are the outgrowth of a general belief that arbitration is becoming a part of the higher international law, and that application to it of all American disputes would work to the advantage of Great Britain by saving her annoyance and cost, is, of course,

If it shall turn out that this intimation foreshadows the method of settlement to be adopted in the Venezue lan case, the Administration and the American people will be able to view the proposal with serenity. I have warrant for saying that such a methwholly satisfactory to the President and to the State Department. This is so because Great Britain's agreement to arbitrate all boundary dis-putes in the Americas would of itself give recognition to the Monroe doctrine and secure to this country every advantage which it had been contending for. It would not, of course, give assent to the extrme form of the Monroe doctrine, which forbids any European power to acquire new territory in the Americas by peaceful means, but it would sanction, vivify and fully establish the rational, modified doctrine, as set forth by Mr. Olney, that resistance to acquisition by force is essential to our own preservation. By agreeing to submit all such questions is to find force and make for It is also pointed out here that a general arbitration treaty, such as that suggested in this dispatch, would afford the Marquis of Salisbury an opportunity for retreat without very much loss of dignity, and without casting any imputation upon the Brit-ish national honor. Though he has contended that the territory in dispute in Venezuela is British soil, and therefore not open to arbitration, the treaty need not mention this particular affair by name, and by merging the Venezuela case in the general scheme of American arbitration, an accusation that Lord Salisbury had marched up the hill and then down again, would not have much ground upon which to stand. At any rate, British public opinion would doubtless applaud him for so much of a retreat as might be necessary to establish the arbitration idea, which is popular in England, and which has received the indorsement of a nearly unanimous vote in the House of Commons. From both the Ameri-

planted next door to English possesto the protestations of her statesmen, is what she already has, and the Monroe doctrine will help her to preservation of these holdings better than a great navy, for, with the "safety line" once set up and clearly recognized we shall have the equivalent of a pledge of perpetual peace between all Europe within the view of international statesmen, to preserve the prestige of the British Empire.

Another possible method by which settlement of the Venezuela dispute may be reached I have heard suggested in official circles. It is that Lord Salisbury will endeavor to come to some understanding with the Vene-zuelan Government by which Great Britain is to purchase all or a large part of the tract in dispute either or without a previous effort by a joint boundary commission to arrive at a basis for negotiations. If Salisbury can get out of his predicament
