

THAT OVERBOARD CONVERSATION.

The New York Papers Comment Thereupon.

From the Morning Journal.

"It is reported from Toronto," said a reporter to O'Donovan Ross yesterday,

"that a plot to blow up the American legation and the American Consulate in London has been discovered."

"The story goes that a gentleman heard two Englishmen talking over the telephone of a plot to receive £4000 for executing the plot. The explosive was to be placed in a box containing a safe and made to open it an explosion would take place. Have you heard anything about this?"

"Not a word. That, I hadn't heard that anything was printed," answered Ross, bending a knowing look upon the reporter.

"What object could be accomplished by blowing up American institutions in Europe?"

"We could break England. We could break English insurance companies. I go in for blowing up, burning and destroying everything on top of the ground in London, no matter who gets hurt. When we have frightened English insurance companies that they will have to take the government will have to take Ireland go."

"I don't believe in preaching home rule and getting down on my knees for it. I don't believe in Ireland pay for it. Then Ireland will be free."

"But why attack the American legation? Why the Exchange, where innocents travel? Why the houses of the American people? It is enough that the decree shall be attended."

"But you know, Mister Ross," put in Joyce, suspending his pipe pot operations and looking up again, "you don't wish to injure Americans?"

"No; we don't want to injure Americans if we can help it. Let them keep out of the way and they are safe."

From the Sun.

Mowbray Sul of the American Exchange in Europe said yesterday that the Toronto dispatch regarding the explosion of the American legation in London by dynamite was believed to be a Washington Hawley telegraphed from a Washington expressing the same opinion.

How the Address was Paid For.

Editor World: Would you insert a few lines in your paper referring to a portion of a letter which appeared in your issue on the morning of Saturday, the 17th, signed H. H. As secretary of the Parkdale fire brigade I wish to inform him that the address which we presented to our chief was not paid for at the public expense, as he would lead people to believe, but with our own private funds which we make by giving entertainments and giving prizes for the money. It has been subscribed anything to our last concert and does not feel satisfied if he will forward me his address I will return him what he subscribes out of existence. That has not taken place yet, and if it is muffed out as soon as he might imagine, as we are capable of meeting the requirements of the village for some time to come, and it is quite possible the present brigade will be kept on the same as Riverside until the city is prepared to invest in the end. Now, Mr. Editor, if your correspondent H. H. wishes to write any more on this matter I would kindly ask him to sign his name in full like a man of the night. I don't know who we are dealing with. I have given below the names of the committee appointed to get up the address: C. Gaudin, chief; C. T. O'Neil, secretary; P. Parsons, secretary; W. Stewart, Treasurer. W. P. Parsons, sec'y. P. F. B. Parkdale, Jan. 22.

The Rankin's Star Company.

Mr. and Mrs. McKee Rankin, who enjoy great local popularity, will open at the Grand Opera House Monday night with the combination which recently created such a strong impression at their own.

Now Mr. Editor, Frank Mordant, D. H. Harkin, Theodore Hamilton, Alma Stuart Stanley and the Rankins themselves have all starred independently and with success. J. J. Wallace, C. G. Ry and Miss Agnes Harkin are artists of excellent reputation. The plan of this organization is to make individual interest quite subordinate to the strength of the cast. All stand upon an equal footing, good and bad parts are accepted without question by any member. "Notice to Quit" is the play to be presented here. It is a very strong English melodrama by Conquest and Pettit. Its success in New York was instant and emphatic. No new play in its class has had equal success. It will not only be magnificently acted, with such a cast, but will be richly mounted. The scenic and mechanical effects are entirely new, and are the work of leading New York artists. The Rankins and company go from here to Chicago and thence to San Francisco for three months engagement. They have a repertoire of five plays.

A Septennial Disease Among Rabbits.

The Battledore, N.W.T., Herald says: "It is a curious, and so far as we know, an unexplained fact that rabbits are periodically—about once in seven years—affected with a disease which nearly exterminates them. For years past they have been increasing in numbers until they threatened to become a nuisance, but those killed recently bear evidence of the return of this disease, and it is as fatal as usual very few will be seen for years to come. The glands in the throat swell just as they do among men in cases of 'mumps,' and few seem to survive an attack. At present they are in unnumbered numbers in all the wooded parts of the country, and are being snared by Indians at the rate of thousands in a day."

Great Slaughter in Dress Silks at the Bon Marche.

A Wise Sparrow.

From the Cornwall News.

The fact that the sparrow is a bird which can easily be domesticated was verified a short time ago in a residence on Gloucester street in this town. One little fellow became a regular visitor at the house at intervals, he satly his appetite from the crumbs which were strewn over the floor for his special benefit. At length all appearance of shyness forsook him, and he became a regular attendant of the house, and made himself comfortable in his new quarters, apparently, disregarding the idea of again going out into the cold and stormy world, where his less fortunate comrades are compelled to contend with the vicissitudes of a Canadian winter.

OLD-TIMERS AT THE PAVILION.

Third Annual Reunion of the Volunteer Fire Brigade.

Toronto's old fire brigade is getting proud. Three years ago the boys held their first re-union in St. Lawrence hall and everything was gotten up as in the old days. Now, however, they must put on style and go to the pavilion in claw-hammer coats, boiled vests and white shirts.

The girls too must now appear in the latest ball-room rig, with all the flimsy trimmings and scollops of the period. Nothing but a waxed floor, classical music and the best spread in the city will do them now. However, as the citizens remember the old fire brigade with gratitude, the World will forgive them and hopes they may all be able to attend many more reunions such as they held last night.

It was a "real nice gathering," as they would say down in New Hampshire. The world was gay with flags and flowers and you let everyone enjoyed themselves.

Prominent among the old-timers present were Alex. Jacques (the Old Man) of Ottawa, who has been in town a week waiting for the ball, Major J. Bennett, Chief Dick Archibald, Assistant Chief Dick Archibald, Tommy Reid and Bill Vickers (now of the paid department), Ben Jolly, ex-Ad. Paper, Mont. Mortimer, John London, G. Pearson, J. Mills, W. C. Morrison, H. E. Hamilton, Turnbull, Smith and many others.

Chairman of the fire and gas committee, Ald. James and Ald. Piper were present, and were got up regardless of time and expense. The program of dances will prove interesting.
