Hon. J. Pope, Sir Hector Langevin, Sir John Tho son and Hon. John Carling were present.

Mr. G. M. Clark, solicitor for the Canad Pacific Railway, said that he had prepare case for submission to the Supreme Co which he had handed to Mr. Gorm agent for Attorney-General Martin. Ye day he received from Attorney-General Ma a short letter with the case with modificat which he would be glad to have adopted. case, as submitted by Attorney-General Mar was almost entirely different from that mitted by him. The principal change in case, as he (Mr. Clark) submitted it, wa to whether the act of Manitoba was valid effectual so as to confer authority to c the southwest branch of the Canad Pacific Railway. Attorney-General Mar in his case wished to question the validity certain clauses of the Railway Act, but Clark contended against enlarging the qu tion in that way.

Mr. Gormully said he had no power to sent to any change in the case as submit by Attorney-General Martin. It would for the committee to decide how they would allow the proposals the case submitted by Mr. Mar He argued that the application was cross the Manitoba and South-west Railway, and until they wished to cross main line of the Canadian Pacific Railw the question of whether a railway chartered the Provincial Legislature could do so did arise. So far no application had been m for permission to cross the main line of Canadian Pacific Railway, but application h been made to cross the two branches m tioned.

After some further argument counsel tired and the committee deliberated for so time and finally decided to submit the follo ing case to the Supreme Court:

Attacked by a Bull.

FERGUS, Nov. 2.—James McCrone o Luther, had a narrow escape from being killed by a bull recently. Instead of the stock commonly used, the animal was simply led by a rope attached to the ring in its nose, and when it reached the yard it made a plunge and attacked Mr. McCrone. To avoid the bull's horns the man got a short hold of the rope, holding himself close to the brute's nose. In this way he was dragged and buffeted about for twenty minutes, at one time being caught on the animal's horns and hoisted into an adjoining field, the bull following and renewing the attack before his victim could rise. Mr. McCrone's cries brought assistance and the animal was secured. Several of the victim's ribs were broken.
