REAL ESTATE IMPROVING.

Dealers Report That the Market is Growing in Confidence.

The real estate dealers report that the market is improving and as a result the confidence of the public is growing. The last week was the residence of W. H. Ray, 30 Beatty-avenue, to Mrs. Margaret Gordon, for $2000; 145 Dunn-avenue, owned by William Scott, to Benjamin Northcote, for $2000; the lot being 5 x 125; 167 Close-avenue (25 x 125), from James Murray to Dr. William Sloan for $4500; 185 Davenport-st. 50 x 150, from R. O. Dickson to Rev. Mr. Hossack, for $5000. Lot at southwest corner of Leppell and Jameson-avenues, 70 x 140, from Arthur Nelson to Levi Parson for $8000. In all instances the exchange was for cash.

MILK PAY CASH FOR MILK.

The Milkdealers' Exchange Decides to Abolish All Credit at Once.

At a general meeting of producers and dealers of milk held in the Albion Hotel on Saturday afternoon the prospects of the recently-constituted Milk Exchange were discussed. The objects of the Exchange are stated to be mutual aid in exchanging reliable information between parties concerned in the trade; the securing of a better knowledge of the financial standing of buyer, seller and consumer; the finding of a better basis on which to trade; and the securing of the most favorable terms of system of cash payments, as many losses have occurred by cash-debited credit system. The Exchange is not for the purpose of buying and selling milk, but to coordinate the conditions of bargain and sale, and give information to its members regarding the same, and to interest themselves in any matter that may be brought before them by any member of the Exchange.

Continuance of this prospectus it was resolved upon the motion of Messrs. Third and Fourth. That is the opinion of the meeting the credit system of paying for milk should be discontinued, and that the system of cash payments must be established from this day.

Some discussion took place upon the resolution, in which Messrs. Clark, Adams, Woods, Ward and Moore were the principal speakers. The opinion was expressed that the latter had a right to demand cash payment. One member believed that when ever a man failed in any other business and was without money he had no right to milk business, obtaining milk on credit. The framing of the motion would effect the present plan.

Six Days Shall Thou Labor.

From the Petrolia Advertiser.

The Lord's Day is to be kept holy, but the Commandment adds, "Six days shall thou labor." The command to labor is as imperative as the command to rest. How, then, can the laborer who insists that all human creatures shall comply with their idea of the observance of Sabbath recon- cile their consciences with failure to do six days' labor each week of the year? They go to Swiss lakes and the Black Forest. They are found recreating themselves in all attractive spots the world over. He is an ill-placed preacher in the world who does not commend in addition to the handsome salary leave of absence at least ten weeks in the year. The laborer and recreation day is in and day out in defiance of the command that six days shall thou labor upon the promise upon which the God of the mountains or the Black Forest, and say to them that there is an American Sabbath which compels them to rest just as the preacher would have them. They cannot determine for themselves the day of recreation that God has provided for them shall be passed. Back from the Black Forest or the Swiss lakes comes this preacher, who has defied God's law by idling the six days that he should labor, and interpreting the command to the great multitude who have but one day to themselves.

A Question for Mr. Nordheimer.

Editor World: I noticed your interview with Mr. Nordheimer, and was glad to hear that my opinion of the present state of affairs in Germany was freely communicated by me to my friends in Toronto, especially as to the great prosperity prevailing in that country, has been substantiated by so high an authority as your worthy fellow-citizen, the Consul of the German Empire, who from his large commercial experience should be entirely fitted to fill the position he at present occupies. The closing remarks of the interview were, however, surprising to me and decidedly in contrast with the former company. I feel confident that never have been uttered in the presence of the Emperor, to whom we are told Mr. Nordheimer had been bound, judging by his last speeches, out, east what it may. Perhaps Mr. N. will favor your readers with further details of the many good and necessary reforms the socialistic agitator is endeavoring to bestow upon an ex-proclaimed nation, which have only yesterday that I noticed a speech delivered by a Minister of the present French Government, who represents similar views to those of the German Emperor, and wherein he calls Socialists the worst and most to be dreaded enemies of free and liberal institutions, to whom no quarter is to be given, who are to be combated with all the powers at the disposal of the Government. The united views of the Minister of the French Republic and the German Emperor, however, differ by different political leanings, should a moderate socialist movement be after all nothing but communism favor and simple. I hope Mr. N. will now acquaint your readers with further information on the subject which is now agitating two continents and perhaps may enlighten.

DR. SIMS ON CAUSES OF SUICIDE.

The Strain of Modern Civilization Largely Responsible for the Wave of Self-Destruction.

Suicide is the product of worldliness was the fact which Rev. Dr. Sims deduced from a consideration, at Bond-street Church last night, of the wave of self-destruction which has been raging of late. He took his texts from both the Old and New Testaments. They were:

"And the keeper of the prison awaking out of his sleep and seeing the doors of the prison open, he drew out his sword and would have killed himself, supposing that the prisoners had been fed." Act xvi, 27.

"All the days of my appointed time will I wait, till my change come." Job 14, xiv.

Dr. Sims took the example of Job, who, crushed beneath an avalanche of misfortune, longed for death, but chose to fight through to the end. He represented the saint-like attitude, whereas the Roman soldier, whose story is narrated in the first text, represented the pagan attitude. A carnival of suicide confronts us to-day. There have occurred in Toronto in two weeks. Statistics show that in Ontario 173 persons took their lives in two years (1888-90). Chicago has had 2026 in twelve years. In Europe 60,000 people take their lives annually on an average. Since 1880 in the New England States the percentage in proportion to the total number of deaths has been from 30 to 40. Rationalist Germany has the greatest average of all, athletic France comes next; and Christian England stands third. In an unprogressive country like Spain, the average is small, as it is in poverty-stricken Ireland. In Ontario the average is five times that of Quebec. Poverty and misfortune do not cause suicide. Neither do ignorance and social deprivation. It is plain. Speaking generally, he might say that the increasing prevalence of self-destruction was due to the increasing strain of modern civilization. We are living too fast for our vitality. Our speed is killing us. If you translate this form of statement into the language of religious discourse, it means that the cause is worldliness, pure and simple. According to St. John, worldliness consists in "the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eye and the pride of life." The answer of Christ is "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all things shall be added unto you." The speaker illustrated his view with the stories of the three Biblical suicides: King Saul, who, when worldly power slipped from him, fell upon his sword; Ahiathophel, David's adviser, who, when he overreached himself in his own treachery, hanged himself; and Judas Iscariot, who betrayed our Saviour through lust of gold and then suicided from remorse.

The fact of insanity must be considered. Sometimes men killed themselves when they were not themselves, and it is our judgment of individual cases we should keep this in mind. When our forefathers buried all suicides in some lonely place with a stake through the heart, and when our contemporaries deny them Christian burial, the office of the Supreme Judge is anticipated. Nevertheless, we must not blind ourselves to the fact that suicide in general is the fatal outcome of a life lived apart from God. The world may take on a thousand forms. In any of these forms it may be allowed to usurp the place of God in the heart, and where the world is master there is bound to be strain, heartache, disappointment and very possibly heartbreak. In its acuter stages it produces suicide.

Special collections for current expenses were held at Bond-street Church at both services, and over $100 was contributed.

Married a Woman Married Before, Says Rev. G. K. Adams.

The largest crowd that ever attended a service in the Grand-street Methodist Church was there last night to hear the first half of Rev. G. K. Adams' sermon on "The Model Wife." The text was taken from Prov. xviii, 22, "That whose findeth a wife findeth a good thing." The preacher dwelt lengthily on the caution to be observed in choosing a wife, and advised the male portion of the congregation to pray that God may deliver them from marrying a woman whose idea of marriage is "plenty of money and nothing to do." Mr. Adams went on to say that the ideal wife was the homemaker, and not merely a money spender, a dressmaker's fashion plate or a milliner's show case. The good women were eulogized to the greatest extent, but the preacher handled the undesirable ones without gloves. He would advise you to get married to a woman who has been married before, but the preacher handled the undesirable ones without gloves. He would advise you to get married to a woman who has been married before, but the preacher handled the undesirable ones without gloves.
