THE DISCOVERER.

BY W. B TAPPAN. We know not who-On Pitys's tower

A watchman took the world's survey.

And saw it captive to the power,

Sought, link by link, to trace the ill ,

Was brought to the devouring still.

But only by the Moderate Use,

While Gratitude is named below,

We know him not-and yet his name Among the best and Greatest rings,

To him! or what her jewelled kings !

And, led by truth's unerring laws,

And learned, 'twas not the Cup's abose,

That thus a gracious purpose crost, .

While Virtue's throned above the skies.

And what are all earth's chiefs of time

What shall we give him'-he's a shada .

Or mortal-gold and geine are dust ;

I'u form his chaplet who's unknown,

By lifting up the child of wee.

To svery continent and sea, Till every tear of grief is dried, And the fast world again is free

TO DOLLY FISHER OR FOWLER

Dog my buttons ! darn my hide ! Drat my skin and taller ! I'll have you Dolly for my bride,

For you're my blossom yaller.

Like CHINKAPINS your eyes appear-

Your lips like sweet potatoes are,

Clean washed just after grubbin

Your waist is like a pumpkin round Your hand is soft as mush is ! Your heart is tender I'll be bound, And temper smooth as slush is

You are a girl of EM-BON-POINT,

And do not wear a bustle! Firm and flexible each joint, Supplied with lots of muscle.

Youre nose is like a nubbin

His principle shall be applied

We'll raise each drooping flower we know. We'll place him on the highest throne.

Let loftier recompense be paid For Himmon all Discoverers, first.

The noble world of God was lost We know him not ; suffice to know

Who, reasoning from effects to cause,

That holds exterminating sway

Many of the escaped convicts became pirates and banditti, whilst others endeavored to deserve well of society by industriously gaining their living in their own way. A-mong the most notorious of the former was one Michael Howe of Tasmania. He at first joined a party of bushrangers, which spread terror and desolation through the country. His indomitable courage and fertility of re-ruthless himself, the society of other villains was distasteful to him, and he separated from parts of the Province of setting up their pau-pers at public auction, and selling them like Twice, disgusted with his own mode of exisdumb brutes — which he designated as un-christian, unfeeling, and inhuman—(hear, life should be spared; but the lawless impulse was to strong within him to be quieted, and he After some further remarks from hon, member's the Chairman reported the draft as agreed to, with some few aggendments. land and elsewhere, for the repair and protec tion of banks against the sea, the fagots being packed closely, and, for a considerable thick-ness, against the ship's side, and up to the le-vel of the decks, secured with rods run vertically through the mass, and chains laid hori-zontally, and hinding the whole tightly to the ship. If these measures are adopted, Mr. Brunel believes that the Great Britain will remain uninjured by the sea. With respect to the various plans for floating her off, he is of opinion that the safest and cheapest mode will be to lift her by mechanical means, to ay ways under ther of meenanical means, to lay ways under ther, and to haul her up suf-ficiently far to be safe from the sea, to repair her, just sufficiently to make her water-tight, then to launch and bring her to Liverpool or Bristol

OCEAN NEARNESS .- The Atlantic and Pacific rivers of South America flow from the Andes, and the sources of streams which find the ocean thousands of miles apart are almost within a stone's throw of each other. Dr.

Tschudi in his Travels in Peru, thus mentions a case of this sort : At the pass of Antarangra, 15,600 fee above the level of the sea, Dr Tschudi foundt two small lakes, scarcely thirty paces asun-der. One of these is the source of the river San Mateo, which flows westward, passes Lima under the name of the Rimac, and dis charges itself into the Pacific Ocean ; the other sends its water through a number of small mountain lakes to the river Pachachaca and mountain faces to the river ranacca as diminutive tributary of the mighty Ama-zon. The worthy doctor confesses that he could not resist the temptation to disturb the order of pature, by transporting a jug-full of the water intended for the Atlantic, into the lake communicating with the Pacific.

GENEROSITY .- We have pleasure in recording the fact, that during the past week, a number of natives of Ireland, residing in this City, have made praiseworty efforts for the relief of their friends at home, by remitting through the Banks sums of money, faom five pounds and upwards , and so far as we have learned, these acts of benevolence have been performed by thoes who, judging from appear-ances, are the least able to afford much-thus verifying the truth of the remark, that when relief is required, 'an Irshman's heart is al. ways in the right place .- New Brunswicker

Friday Jan. 29. Mr. Boyd presented a Petition praying for aid to erect a Bridge over the Waweig stream the former one having been carried away by the ice. Upon this the question arose whe-ther it should be received or not, the House having for some years past, adopted the prac-tice of having all grants regulated by the Road Committee. Some discussion took place, and several hon. Members requested Mr. Boyd to withdraw the Resolution. But upon the Speaker's suggestion it was decided that the duestion should be taken upon its reception or rejection, which should be taken as a precedent upon all similar occasions in future. The question was then taken, and the petition rejected. The House was engaged in discussing the support of the source taken place in your exports in this country, that you ship off perhaps dou-ble the quantity required in our markets, with be the quantity required in our markets, with of the wants of the trade; thus not only bringing ruin on many of yourselves, but the poole here frequently suffer seriously also if on the excess. thrown on them over con-sumption—by having recourse to the fright-ful yarding system.
