ITALY WILL NEVER FLINCH

Lord Robert Cecil Speaks of Italy's Unity and Courage

LONDON, May 23—Italy will not flinch from the task of fighting shoulder to shoulder with her allies for satisfying and promoting the civilization of the world, declared the Marquis Imperiali, the Italian ambassador, in answer to a toast at a luncheon yesterday at Mansion House to celebrate the anniversary of Italy's entry into the war. Italy, he added, was a warm advocate of the principle of nationality and would fight for it to the bitter end.

The ambassador recalled the visit of King Victor Emmanuel to London, in 1855, and said that the sentiments of friendship, which England then expressed were those that animated the Italy of today.

Lord Robert Cecil, minister of blockade, who spoke for Foreign Secretary Balfour, said that Italy had come out of the trials of the war with clearer unity and self-confidence, and, if possible, greater courage, than she had before.

FALLS PRISONER

WASHINGTON, May 23—Definite announcement that Commander Pellegrini and his men, who torpedoed an Austrian battleship in the harbor of Pola, May 14, were taken prisoners was contained in a cable despatch to the Italian embassy today, from Rome.

AMERICAN MISSION

NEW YORK, May 23—While the workers of Great Britain and France are loyal to the principles of liberty and freedom, French industrial political leaders, "are more reckless in their desire for conferences with the Germans," and the American trade union "win the war" mission, has served to counteract this danger according to a cablegram sent from London by Chester M. Wright, a member of the mission, the American alliance for labor and democracy here.

The American labor movement, with its clear, understandable policy, devoid of any possibility of two interpretations, has proven an inspiration to the rank and file of the trade union movements of Britain and France," said Mr. Wright. Declaring that these workers had refused to follow politicians who sought to lead them into a dishonorable peace, the American delegate said it was in that direction that the chief danger still lies.

"Once away from political leaders," he cabled, "and this hectic flush dies out in a solid, fearless, almost tranquil population living a work-a-day life intent upon wringing from the soil and machinery the last ounce of productivity."

MONT BLANC'S ANCHOR ACROSS THE ARM

A Mathematician Did Some Figuring Regarding the Force That Carried It

HALIFAX, May 25—The residents of Haddenhurst and Armadale had a strenuous time Monday night in raising the anchor of the Mont Blanc. It took the combined efforts of over a score of men with block and tackle to pull it out of the hole, which had been dug around it as it lay embedded at a depth of about nine feet.

Naval men in the party said it was a Smith steeple anchor and one of them, mathematically inclined, figures out that to break off the anchor at the shank must have taken a pressure force of 950,350 pounds. Its length is 5 feet 9 inches and its circumference 2 feet, 8 inches and its weight 1,207 pounds. Measured on the chart, and as the crew flies, the anchor travelled a distance of two and a quarter miles and based on the angle at which it was imbedded, it must have gone from a mile and a half to two miles in the air on that fateful morning of December 6th.

DEATH OF MRS. H. G. BISHOP.

A Bridgetown Resident Passes Away Suddenly While in Lunenburg.

The whole town appeared to be saddened Friday when it was learned that Mrs. Caroline, wife of Mr. Horace Bishop, had passed away while visiting her daughter, Flossie, wife of Mr. L. B. MacLeod, editor of the Lunenburg Daily News, her sudden death occurring during the early morning of the 24th. Mrs. Bishop went to Lunenburg about four weeks ago to visit relatives and enjoy a short rest. Mr. Bishop arrived there Wednesday evening from Kentville, to spend the holiday with his wife, intending to accompany Mrs. Bishop to her home in Bridgetown on Saturday morning.

The deceased was sixty-four years of age and had retired in her usual good health, but was found unconscious at four o'clock in the morning. Dr. DesBrisay was immediately summoned and on his arrival found life extinct, death being due to heart failure.

Of a very kind and charitable disposition few women could have more friends than Mrs. Bishop. She was a general favorite with all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance and her hospitality in her home at Bridgetown will long be remembered by many.

She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Oldham Whitman, of South Williamston, and is survived by three brothers, David, William and Benjamin, of South Williamston, and four sisters, Mrs. George Cook, of Bridgewater; Mrs. Phoebe Roch, of Yarmouth, and the Misses Minnie and Josephine, of Lawrence town. Beside her husband, three sons and three daughters are left to mourn the loss of an affectionate wife and mother: Mrs. Freeman Corbett, of Clarence; Miss Annetta C., of Sydney Mines; Mrs. L. B. MacLeod, of Lunenburg; Harry D., of Berwick; Horace W., of Medford, Mass., and Ross A., of Bridgetown.

The funeral, which was very largely attended, was held from her late home Sunday afternoon, the remains having arrived here via Saturday's express. The services were conducted by Rev. A. R. Reynolds, assisted by Rev. C. Jost, D. D., and Rev. M. S. Richardson.

The officers and members of Autumn Leaf Rebekah Lodge, I. O. O. F., of which the deceased was a member, also conducted a very impressive service at the grave. The members of the Women's Auxiliary of the Methodist church attended in a body.

All the members of the family were present with the exception of Horace, who was unable to get here in time from Medford, Mass., owing to the withdrawal of the passenger steamers from the Yarmouth route.

The pall bearers were J. I. Foster, A. C. Charlton, C. L. Piggott and W. R. Longmire.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful, including Pillow, from the family; Wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bishop; Crescent and Crown, from the Rebekahs; Cross, Women's Methodist Auxiliary; Cut Flowers, Misses Josephine and Minnie Whitman, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Whitman.

The MONITOR extends its deepest sympathy to the bereaved ones.
