What Might be Done.

What might be done if men were wise—
What glorious deeds, my suffering brother,
Would they unite in love and right,
And cease their scorn of one another.

Oppression's heart might be imbued
With kindling drops of loving kindness,
And knowledge pour—from shore to shore—
Light on the eyes of mental blindness.

All slavery, warfare, lies, and wrongs,
All vice and crime would die together,
And milk and corn, to each man born,
Be free as warmth in summer weather.

The meanest wretch that ever trod,
The deepest sunk in guilt or sorrow,
Might stand erect in self-respect,
And share the teeming world to-morrow.

What might be done? This might be done,
And more than this, my suffering brother—
More than the tongue e'er said or sung,
If men were wise and loved each other.
