Mr. Stratton the Best Man

Speculation is busy with the selection a new man for the Ontario Cabinet when the changes following upon Sir Oliver Mowat's resignation take place Oliver Mowat's resignation take place There is every probability that Mr. J. R. Stratton, of Peterborugh, will be the choice of the Government, as he undoubtedly is the faverite of the public for the position. Mr. Stratton is a man of much ability and great energy. He is so fre of from partisan and class projudices as to stand well in the esteem of mon of all shades of opinion. Mon of thus stamp are needed in the high places of political life in Ontario. (Commune From Fago 1.) there in 1856, I had the Brothers with me. I will say this, also, that the Catholics of Teronto show they have been well trained. Without flattering them I will maintain that there are no no men mero fearless in the profession of their faith to be found in Canada than the Catholics or Teronto. (Applauso, They are not ashamed of their religion, but are proud of it, while they do not wish to give the slightest offence to their neighbors of other religious denominations.
That is their training. Then as regards patriotism:

Breathes there a man with soul so dead Who never to himself has said:
This is my own, my native land?

Who never to himself has saut. This is my own, my native is and. This is my own, my native is and. Applauso, It is a country to be proud of (Applauso). It is a country magnificent in its physical proportions, sublime and beautiful in many of its scenes which are the aim and object of tourists from every nation of the world. We can almost hear the thunder of sublime Niegara in our ears where we now are. Canada is a great country to live m; a country whose proportions show that it is intended to be the home of a great and mighty people hereafter. (Applauso). Our boys are taught to love this great country, to be Canadians in heart and soul, put Canada first, last and in the centre (applauso), while at the same time I hard adout that boys of Irish parentage will always love the home of their ancestors. And the old home having their warm sympathy I have no fear that

Will once more wake the songs of liberty in its dear old native land. (Loud applause.) Therefore religion and patriotism must be taught in our schools so that our boys will stand up for their country, and fight for it if necessary.
(Applause.) And now for science. We know very well that boys are sent to school to fit themselves for the various callings of life. The Brothers are well qualified to advance the boundaries of knowledge and cultivate the minds of their pupils. The Brothers are a religious order and they do not advertuse themselves as much as others. You have all heard from Dr. May proof of the merit of Brother Maxentus, who, I may say, was prevailed upon only with the greatest difficulty to go upon the latform this afternoon. The Brother is modest; he has a beautiful soul, the soul of an artist. I can only compare and gentlemen, I am glad to be present here, and I am glad to see so much interest taken in our boys who are to be the fature men of this country. I am also glad to see you take so much interest in the work of the Brothers. Toronto is loyal to the Brothers. (Applause.) No matter what others may do, Toronto will stand by the Christian

Mr. Bowen Rowlands, the well-known English Q.C., has joined the Catholic Church. His wife and daughter are Catholics, and Mr. Rowlands hopes that certain relatives of his will also soon enter the Church.

Li Hung Chang, the great Chiuese statesman, who is now on a tour of the European capitals, is a man of seventy-four. He is, over six feet high, propor-tionately broad. His moutsache and beard are nearly white, and he wears spectacles.

We hear from Rome, writes The Tablet, that the objection which had been raised to Catholic ecclesiacies going to Uxford and Cambridge for the purpose of higher studies, has been considered and decided by the Holy See, and that the decision overrules the objections.

The Roman Post remarks: An esteemed American Catholic contemporary publishes very interesting weekly notices on 'Footprints of the Irish in London.' In a recent number it speaks of Oliver Plunkett, the saintly Archibishop of Armagh, executed in London, stating that the body at present lies with the head in Armagh. Dom Aidan Gasquet, the learned Benedictine who belonged to the Commission on the validaty of Anglican Orders, assures us that the body lies in the Benedictine Monastery of Downside, England."

According to the Rome correspondent of L'Univers, the Pope is enjoying the best of health, despite the lassitude produced by the summer heat. "He displays," says the correspondent, "I a wonderful clasticity of mind and body," His medical attendant makes only a formal call once a week, and then has simply to record the wonderful energy of the Holy Father. His Holiness kept the 75th anniversary of his First Communion on the 21st inst., $S. Aloysius Day. The Catholic schools of Italy prepared to celebrate the anniversary, and a monument is to be placed in the Church of $St. Ignatius, at Viterbo, at the high altar of which the venerable Pontiff first communicated as a child.

An interesting correspondence has passed between Mr. Swift MacNeill, M. P., and Mr. Gladstone.

lightfully appreciative article on the career of Sheridan, says he thinks one passage in it bears somewhat too severely on the memory of Mr. Fox.

In reply, Mr. Gisdatone said:—"I am sorry to find from your letter that I have misted you, and may have misted others. I had not the smallest intention of conv. ying such a meaning as that Fox rectred upon the Union, but his plan of withdrawal provided him with a sort of excess, and a very bad one. Commenting on Mr. Gladstone's letter—on the subject of Christian Reunior, The Tablet says: It is, perhaps, not excessive to assume that if Reunion, on a sort of uti possidetis basis, is the ultimate object which Lord Halifax and his friends have in view, the more immediate purpose for which they desire a recognition of their Orders is to stay the course of individual conversions. Even in the present stage they are saying to those attracted towards the Church: "Wat a while. They are on the point of recognizing our Orders, and when they have got into the way of making concessions they will soon concede that we have said occasions that it is the said occasions that we have a said occasions in their favor should ensue, they would urge this consideration all the more although that is no reason why the favorable decision should be withheld if it wore really required by the facts. Would they not also in the same spirit make the most of the non-promulgation of a decision sayanst them? Might they not persuade themselves, for instance, that such a non-promulgation implied a want of confidence in the possibility of its eventual reversal? And might not floreer spirits go further and confidently maintain that what the nost of the hops with the proved was the imprognable strength of the Anglican case, but that Rome, as such, not having the honesty to own her past misdeeds, was taking refuge in concealment?

A REMARKABLE CASE.

Mrs. Sarah Browning, an estimable resident of the Ambitious City, was for twenty years a sufferer from acuterheumatism, and her restoration to health is so remarkable that we present the case for the benefit of our readers, many of whom are doubtless sufferers from this painful complaint which arises from blood poison. Mrs. Browning says: "I used only one bottle of Scott's Sarsaparilla and received such benefit that I continued taking only as intervals for continued taking only as intervals for any other than the same of the same than the sam Says Mr. John Morley: "Had the Irish members failed to record their vote for a proposal (bettering of Catholic schools) which in their hearts and conscionces they believed to be right in principle, they would not have won the respect of honest men."
