One of the Latest Martyrs of Science

Meeting a Heroic Death-Edifying Details of His Untimely Passing Away From Earth.

The Seciety of Jesus has given great names te all departments of science ; but it is notable, as Aloysius L. Cortier in his sketch of London Month, points out that its pre-emi nent scientific distinction has been won in Society. in 1773, we find the names of Cla-vins. Scheiner, Biccoll, Grimaldi, Mayer, Hell, Boscovitch, Suhall and Verbiest ; and the foundation, by Jesuits, of the observa-tories of Vienna, Mannheim, Tyrnan, Prague, Gratz, Wilea, Milan, Florence, Parma, Ven-Ice, Brescia, Rome, Palermo, Lisbon, Marsellier, Avignon. Lyons and Pekin. After the restoration of their society the Jesuite founded the existing observatories of Rome, Louvain, Kalocsa, Zi-ka-wei, Mauilla, Cuba, Antaninarivo, Puebla, Calcutta, Stonyhurat, in England, and Georgetowo, at Washington, D. O., in the United States. Among the astronomers whom they have given to the nineteenth century are the Italians, De Vice and Seochi ; the Englishman, Father Perry, with whose last scientific expedition we are concerned here ; and, it may not he amise to add, the Irish-American, Father James Curley, who died a few months ago at George--town.

FATHER PERRY'S BARLY CAREER.

Stephen Jeseph Perry was born in London In 1833 ; studied for the priesthood at Dousy College and at the English College, Rome ; his superiors de termined to allow him to give himself wholly to science. He attended the lectures of Da Morgan, in Londen, in 1858, and those of Bertrand, Lionville, and Larry, in Parls, in 1859, and at the London Matriculation Examination took the sixth place in the mathematical list. In 1860 he was placed in charge of the observatory at Stonyhurst.

THE YOUNG SCIENTIST BECOMES A JESUIT PRIEST.

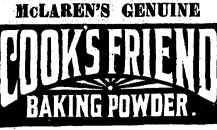

This scientific career was interapted from 1863 66 for his special studies for the priesthood, to which he was ordained September 23d of the latter year; and for the year of probation, previous to his solemn yows as a Jesuit, which he made in 1871. With these exceptions, his life was given to astronomy Stonyhurst was his home, whence he went on his various scientific expeditions and whither he returned always victorious; fxcept from the last and most successful of all, which gave him his grave in far-away Demerara.

HIS SCIENTIFIC EXPEDITIONS.

Among the expeditions which he headed for the English Government was the transit of Venus expeditions in 1874 and 1882, and that of Carriacan for the total eclipse of the sun in 1886. The last one was to the lies de Sault, near Cayenne, to observe the solar eclipse of December 221, 1889.

THE FATAL VOYAGE.

Father Perry and his companion, Brother Rioney, sailed from Southampten, England, November 14:h, en the R. M. Steamship Tagus. Changing, after a brief rest, at Barbadoes, for the man-of-war Comus, Capt in Atkinson commanding, they reached their

Here he chilled. It was a death chill. Nevertheless, he carried out all his plans and conducted the final rehearsal.

HIS LAST ASTRONOMICAL OBSERVATION.

Oa the morning of the eclipse he was so ill that he had to ask Lieutenant Thierens for a man to help him back and forth from the observatory, Let the correspondent of the Manchester Guardian continue:

"The sun rose in a clear sky, but at seven o'olock all looked very black, and at 7.20 a beavy shower of rain tell for about three or four minutes. After this the sky began to brighten up. At this time Father Perry arrived at the observatory, locking very nawell and leaning on the blue-jacket. As soon as Consider and at the English Consider, Rome; and Franking on the onder-roket. As soon as but, at about twenty years of age, feeling a strong desire to be religious as well as a priest, returned to England and entured the Society of Jesus at Stonyhurst. Early in his scholasticate the scientific bent of young Desry and Franking on the onder-roket. As soon as the entered the camp he asked Mr. Rooney if all was ready, and, having been told that all was quite ready, he walked round to see that every man was at his post. Thesky was now much brighter, with a large patch of blue part the sun. A faw minutes later the sun Perry's mind was so strongly manifested that near the sun. A few minutes later the sun appeared, it being then a little more than half collpsed, and aboutseven or eight minutes before totality commenced. The sun was well out into the blue patch, and as soon as totality commenced the signal was given, and the plates were all successfully exposed secording to the programme drawn up by the Solar Eclipse Committee of the Royal Astro-nomical Society. Captain Atkinson, of the Comus, also observed with a smaller telescope. The corona stood out magnificently, and was very much like the American one of January, 1889.

" Totality lasted one hundred and twentyn'ne seconds. When the observations were faished, Father Perry walked over to Mr. Rooney, and asked if al had gone right at his instruments, and on being told that every-'This is the most satisfactory, he remarked, 'This is the most successful observation of the kind that I have ever had anything to do with.' He then asked Captain Atkinson to get three cheers for the successful observatien, and three hearty cheers were given. He ment could clamation. met."

THE GREAT ASTRONOMER'S LAST DAYS ON EARTH.

He was taken back to the hospital and failed so fast that the last Sacraments were administered. Then came a transient rallying, during which he was got on board the Comus, for Demerara. The improvement continued, and his devoted companion. Brother Rooney, and his associates in the expedition, became hopeful. But the respite was brief. We wish we could quote for our readers all of Brother Reoney's touching record of these last days. Christmas night the fatal onange came. Brother Rooney entered Atkinson commanding, they reached their the dying man's cabin shortly after midnight, destination December 7th. It would be hard the dying man's cabin shortly after midnight. telegram for Greenwich, giving the result of the expedition. But he could not form the letters. Then he diotated it to his faithful companion, and bade him send it off as soon as they reached Demerara. His mind wandered now and then, and thinking himself at the supreme moment of the scientific mission, with which he had been obarged, he gave places whither his scient fic expeditions) brought him, or to give the last Storaments to some poor dying sailor. But we set out simply to portray the Ohristian man of science, who believed his chosen pursuit to be his surest way of promoting God's glory, and who had publicly declared his willingness to lay down his life in the cause of antronomy, Bis msgnificent services to science are the best recent refutation of the persistent slander that the Church is hestile to scientific investigation, or that religion narrows the intellectual range.

A PROTESTANT'S TRIBUTE.

Let us conclude with a brief word from a Protestant, writing in the English Mechanic, to show how this plous Jesuit and eminent scientist impressed those of a hostile creed : "No more single-hearted, earnest servant of scionce than he was, ever existed. . - He was a very religious man, but utterly and abse-Intely without any cant or pretension. It always seemed to me that Stephen Perry lived to give the lie to the conception of that monstrum horrendum, the typical Jesuit of the Rock and the Record."

The further details of the life and lybors of Father Perry, premised in the Month, will be awaited with interest on both sides of the

THE MODUS VIVENDI EX-TENSION.

The Reasons of the Dominion Government for the Step,

OTTAWA, Apail 9 - The notice given last night of the introduction of a bill by the Minister of Marine and Fisheries means more than the mere title conveys. It means the extension of the modus vivendi for another year. The bill is entitled "An act respect-iog fishing vessels of the United States of America." The advantage which have followed from the operation of the modus vivendi during 1888 and 1889, the favor with which the arrangement has been met by the New England fishermen, more particularly last season, and the prespect of negotiations for the settlement of Atlantic fisheries questions being shortly resumed, have induced the gevernment to take this step, and doubtless the action will be approved by the country. The provisions of the bill are exactly the same as the old one. The extinsion will date from the present time until Feb. 15, 1891. The chief change of the old enactment is as follows:

For the purpose of carrying into effect the protocol set forth in shedule "B" it is hereby enacted that pencing the exchange and ratifications, and for a period not exceeding two years from the 15th of February, 1888, the privilege of entering the bays and barbors of the Atlantic coast of Canada shall be granted to United States fishing vessels by annual licenses, at a fee of $1.50 per ton, for the following pur-poses: The purchase of bait, ice, seices, line and all other supplies and outfits, tranship-ment of catch and shipping of crews. If, during the continuancy of such arrangement, the United States remove duties on fish, fresh oil, whale oil and seal oil, as well as on the neces-sary casks, barrels, kegs, cans and other usual and necessary coverings containing them, such licenses shall be issued free of charge by such officers and in such form as the Governor and Council may determine.

It was further provided that this arrangement could be revoked at any time by pro-

Eviction in County Cork.

A remarkable incident in connection with the eviction of Mr. Patrick Shinnick, P L G., has come to light. A sub-tenant, named Leahy, was also evicted, and in his case no notice of eviction was served on either himself or the relieving officer. In consequence he, his wife, and five very young children, the eldest about eight years old, and the youngest a more infant, were thrown on the roadside, where they had to remain all night expessed to a piercing easterly wind, without any protection. This proceeding will be made the subject of inquiry.—United Ire-

Le Canada, looked upon as one of Mr. Chapleau's organs, under the heading of "Let us respect our aclves," says: "The friends of Mr. C. H. MaoIntosh are having requisitions signed acking him to become a candidat; t, reflace the late Mr. Perley. Mr. MacIntosh has already filled some important positions in Otawa, and he is well known by the public. We have already had occasion to condemn bis conduct towards our compatriots after bis defeat in Russell. Unfortunate words fell from his lips and regrettable articles were published by his paper, the Citizen, both of which were insults to the French-Canadians. We therefore declare now that there must be ne misunderstanding. We will not support Mr. MacIntosh if he should be the only Conservative candinate, unless a public apcl ;gy be made to our fellow Nationalists. The fanaticism raised in the whole country against us is trying to deprive us of acquired rights. Several of our political friends have gone back on us and joined our oppenents on questions which touch us very closely. Let us know how to make ourselves respected."

Atraid of the Working Olasses.

LONDON, April 13 - Apprehension is felt throughout the continent as to the working-men's celebration of May lat as a general holiday. In most of the capitals the officials are taking extensive precautions against rioting. The workingmen, on the other hand, are swelling with indignation at the suggestion that disorder is possible as the result of their proposed demonstration. A deputation of workingmen paid a visit to the headquarters of the police at Buda Pesth to-day and specificially informed the authorities of their plans, declaring that they, themselves, would guarto find an unhea thier spot than one of these mis-named Iles de Salut. The sanitary arrangements were the worst possible, and the efflovium almost unbearable to new-comers. There were other disadvantages, but the sum total of the horrible environment in which Father Perry rendered his last inestimable services to science at the cost of his life, may be best gathered from a letter of his, appended, to his sister, a nun of Notre Dame orders, etc., as during the collipse. in England :

At present I am living partly on board the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, 1 preached to the Cathelic convicts. A convict serves Mass each morning at 6 A.M. and all our surroundings are convicts and warders. Every evening the Arabs may be in worship, but I have not as yet learned where the Chinamen pray. The vice in the islands is fearful. Dogs are everywhere, and revolvers in the hands of all the warders. Two convicts were executed last week, and two or three others are already sentenced. This morning one poor fellow, who had died in the hospital, was given to the sharks, which swarm in these waters. Our station consists of three islands-- Royal Island, on which are the worst oriminals ; St. Joseph's, where the prisoners are condemned for life, but not to perpetual hard labor ; and The Devil, where the poor lepers are kept. Food is sent to these twice a week, and the doctors visit them occasionally. They are all in the last stage of misery, and I see them orawling about as best as they can. The captain, officers and men of H.M.S. Comus are all kindness. and the officials on shore are doing every-thing possible for us. The French Government sent orders that we were to be treated with all kindness, and the Governor of Oaycane has sent the most pressing invitations to Cantain Atkinson and myself. ILL, BUT YET AT WORK.

Had he slept on board the Comus, as Captain Atkinsen had desired, he would have been better able to resist the dangers of daytime sojourn on the island, and his precious life might have been spared. But his fear of giving trouble to others, and his anxiety for the success of the expedition, kept him day and night on the island.

The observatory was approached from the hespital by a steep ascent of half a mile over very rough ground, and this was tra versed back and forth on foot four times every day.

General rehearsals for the supreme moment of observation took place from December 16 till December 31, inclusive, Father Perry, of course, directing all, and giving, besides, a lecture on board the Comus by way of further useful instruction to those who were to assist at the instruments. There were four assistants at each instrumentthree officers to take down the times given by the observers, and one fisst-classs petty officer to hand plates, etc.

On December 18 rain began falling heavily. drawing up sickening effluvium from the soil. On the night of the 20th the sky cleared, and Father Perry spent the night in the observa-

THE DEATH BED SCENE.

Dr. MacSweeney, a Catholic, by the way, was trying to proleng his patient's life by inseen in every part of the island prostrating jections into the arm, as it had been said were he die on the passage he would have Writes Brother to be buried at sea. Rooney :

"The doctor prepared to repeat the injec tion, but he noticed it, and said, 'No; no more injections, let me die making acts of love of God.' I put the crucifix in his hands again, and he asked me (it was now about 3 P. M.) to repeat the prayers for the dying. This time, too, he answered in a clear, steady voice. After the prayers he held up his crucifix, and made an offering of all his sufferings and at his life at the foot of the Cross. rising himself entirely to the holy will of God ; and he made his profession of faith again. I asked him if there was any thing he would like me to do for h'm, any message he would like to send to Stenyhurst or elsewhere. He answered : 'In this supreme moment one should think only of one self, He exhorted the dector and himself to love Ged with our whole hearts, saying that we could not love Him as we should, but we must have a great desire to love and serve Him. He remained very quiet for some time after this, making acts of love, semitimes in English, sometimes in French. At about 3 15 he locked up and asked whether there would be any difficulty in landing his body for burial. The doctor said there would not. Father Perry replied, 'You do your part new, and then Brother Rooney will take charge of everything, and look after the funeral ar-rangements.' I assured him that I would do He seemed very much pleased and gave 80, me his blessing. I replaced the orucifix in his hands, and he kissed it very tenderly, as in fact he always did."

At 3.35 he became unconcious, and within the hour his soul passed quietly away.

HIS FUNERAL.

The Governor and F ther Scoles, who had been expecting Father Perry to give an astronomical lecture at Demerara, were waiting for him as the stamer came in ; and were shocked to find themselves not clasping the warm hand of their friend, but following in his funeral procession to the Cathedral. The remains were interred with all honor, Bishop Builer and the priests of Demerara officiating.

ROME, April 13 .- Owing to the freedom with which the press of Rome have indulged in critic isms on the bankrupt condition of the Eternal Oity, the municipality has ordered the exclusion of all representatives of the press from sources of official information. The result has been that the papers are more than ever determined to ventilate the incompetency and corruptions which have led to the humiliating condition of things, and they declare that in addition to the general deficit of 1,500,000, there are 8,000,000 lire owed on account of annuities.

British Expedition to Central Africa.

LONDON, April 14-It is now no secret that the British East Africa Society has decided and has already begun preparations to send an expl dition from Malbassa to the debatable Lake l'erritory in the interior of Africa in advance of the proposed German expedition, to be headed by Emin. The various sbories concerning the purpose of Emin's return to the interior have aroused the anapicions of the British East Africa people that it is not the philanthropy of the Egyptian Equatorial Provinces of his employers that induced Emin to re-enter the interior, but rather a desire to forestall the British in the actual occupation of the Lake country, the most fruitful and desirable of any of the territory. The suspicion has grown into conviction, and it has been resolved to antici-pate the German movement. Of this expedition it is asserted that Stanley will assume the leadership at a later date, and the fact that he has declined a number of invitations to banquets, etc., lends color to this statement, assuming that Stapley has declined these boncrs because they would interfere with his preparations to return to Africa. Commenting on these reports the Pall Mall Gazette says the day of discovery and explora-tion in Africa is over, the "Dark Continent" has passed from the traveller into the hands of the financier, and finances will henceforth devel-op what has been discovered and discover what remains to be developed.
