ENGLAND'S DEAD FOR 1863.-England has seldom lost in one year so many eminent men as she already has in 1863. The list includes the Marquises of Lansdowne and Normanby, Sir George Cornewall Lewis, Mulready the painter, Sir Cresswell Cresswell, Lord Clyde, Mr. Beriah Botfield the biographer, Mr. Elward Ellice, the Archbishop of Dublin, and Lord Lyndhurst. Lansdowne, Lewis, Clyde, Whately and Lyndhurst are five whose places, we fear, will not soon be filled.

Mr. Spurgeon has had to remonstrate with the young ladies of his chapel, for tainting away so often.

A stylishly dressed young lady recently testified before a Court in Paris that she was well paid for fainting away at the theatre, out of pure emotion, at the tragical moment pointed out beforehand by the author of the play.

The prognostications of Admiral Fitzrey with regard to the weather are not only gen. erally credited by scientific men in the French ports, but they are acknowledged to be of immense advantage. 'A gale was recently experienced on the coast of St. Nazaire of which due notice had been given, and much valuable property was thus saved, by the detention of vessels which would otherwise have put to sea.

PROFESSOR McALLISTER, the renowned and incomparable Magician, is now "exhibiting" through Canada. He has proved houself to be in advance of all compet tors in the prestricting line. Of one thing especially we wish to speak: The feat of "the Elements" which supports the following following the most maryellous of apparently supernatural things. He appears at the foot-lights in a tight bodied coat, and with a handkerchiefa yard square, performs the most maryellous of apparently supernatural things. He throws the hilderchief over his arm, and immediately produces from beneath a a faming globe of fire, the fluxes mounting a foot in height. The same process with the handkerchief, whhout moving from his position, and another flaming globe is brought forth. The handkerchief again, and a glass wise full of water appears; and still another. But the crowning feature is, that while no one has been near him, and after all these unexpected things have been brought forth from this square yard of silk texture, he seizes the handkerchief by the centre, and holding it towards the audience mirabile detail, from its collapsed folds drop half a dozon live doves, chickens, rabbits, &c., and the spectator is obliged to believe in the supernatural, or that the Professor, through some magnetic or pschycologic means has made the eyes of the audience to be a false medium for such belief. The feat is one more surprising than any we have ever seen, and in this the Professor distances all rivalry or competition.
