

That such measure of Home Rule has not been granted to the Irish people, but, on the contrary, there has been introduced into the Imperial House of Commons by Her Majesty's Government a Bill enacting the most stringent coercive measures for Ireland, by which the Irish people will be deprived of rights most dear to all British subjects.

That this House has learned with profound regret of the introduction into the Imperial House of Commons of the Coercion Bill above mentioned, and earnestly hopes that a measure so subversive of the rights and liberties of Her Majesty's subjects in Ireland may not become law.

That this House again expresses the hope that there may speedily be granted to Ireland a substantial measure of Home Rule which, whilst satisfying the national aspirations of the people of Ireland for self-government, shall also be consistent with the integrity of the Empire as a whole.

That the granting of Home Rule to Ireland will fittingly crown the already glorious reign of Her Most Gracious Majesty as a constitutional sovereign, will come with special appropriateness in this Her Jubilee year, and, if possible, render Her Majesty more dear to the hearts of Her already devoted and loyal subjects.

That the present Resolutions be forwarded to the Right Hon. the Marquis of Salisbury, Prime Minister, to the Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone, M.P., and Charles Stuart Parnell, M.P.

House divided on motion of Mr. Curran :

Motion agreed to.

Mr. TROW. I noticed the hon. member for Russell did not vote.

Mr. EDWARDS. I did not vote for the reason I have already given, I have paired. Had I the opportunity I would have voted for the resolution.

THE FISHERY QUESTION.

Mr. MITCHELL. I should like to know when we will get those fishery papers. It is about time we had them.

Mr. FOSTER. I cannot add anything to what I stated this afternoon. All despatch is being used, and they will be brought down as soon as possible.

Mr. BLAKE. Is it possible the hon. gentleman has made no enquiry as to how long it will take to bring them down? On Friday it was promised they would be brought down yesterday.

Mr. FOSTER. I suppose the hon. gentleman wishes me to set a definite time so as to have another opportunity of saying what he has already said, that I cannot keep a promise.

Mr. BLAKE. Is it possible the hon. gentleman has made no enquiry?

Sir RICHARD CARTWRIGHT. My hon. friend has a perfect right, after the promise was made across the House by the Minister, that very important papers should be laid here yesterday, to know whether that Minister does or does not know, or has made any enquiries as to when they will be here. If he was in a position to promise them on Monday, the bulk of them at any rate might be in our hands to-day.

Mr. FOSTER. I had promised that the papers would be brought down on Friday, or at the latest Monday, but, as the leader of the Opposition knows, permission was only obtained on Friday to bring down the second portion. Since then I have made no statement as to when the papers will be brought down. The leader of the Government told the House they would be brought down on Monday, but it was impossible to lay them on the Table on that day, except in manuscript, and in that case hon. gentlemen would have had 800 or 1,000 pages of manuscript before them for a few moments, of which no use could have been made, as they would have almost immediately to be sent to the printer. I thought it was better they should be printed before they were laid on the Table, when the whole House would have easy and instant access to them.

Mr. MITCHELL. Have you any idea of the probable time when they will be ready.

Mr. FOSTER. I could not say definitely.

Mr. MITCHELL. Within a week?

Mr. FOSTER. I make enquiry every day, and the answer I get is that a certain number of folios are being printed each day, and they are going on with all possible despatch.

Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD moved the adjournment of the House.

Motion agreed to, and House adjourned at 1:10 a.m., Wednesday.
