LIEUT. HARDY'S TRAVELS in the INTERIOR of MEXICO, in 1826, 1827, and 1828.

'This work is certainly one of the most curious and valuable that has ever appeared on the subject of this interesting country. It seems that the author travelled far into the interior, and explored many parts never before visited by any European. The inexhaustible resources, productions, and capabilities of this mighty Empire, have indeed, we feel persuaded, never been properly known or appreciated. Treasures of natural wealth, beauty and curiosity—climates of every kind, yet all singularly propitious to the products of the earth—immense lakes, great rivers, springing from the undiscovered depths of forests, untouched since the Creation—mountains containing gold, silver, and precious stones—trees of a magnitude beside which those of the European forests seem but dwarfs—such are the natural objects that Mexico presents to the wonder and admiration of the traveller; and these Lieutenant Hardy has succeeded in vividly and forcibly delineating.'—Court Journal.

'An exceedingly entertaining book, abounding in miscellaneous information and anecdote.'—United Service Journal.

MEMOIRS and CORRESPONDENCE of THOMAS JEFFERSON, Late President of the United States. With a Portrait, and an engraved Fac-simile of the Original Declaration of Independence.

'A work of extraordinary interest—a work full of acute observation, and of the materials of political knowledge. Mr. Jefferson, it is well known, was a man of great shrewdness and imperturbable temper, and as Minister at Paris, for several years before and during the French Revolution, he enjoyed opportunities of studying the characters of public men, and the influence which particular tempers have exercised upon the destinies of their country, such as no other man perhaps could avail himself of, before or since.'—Standard.

'These volumes must be read with intense interest. They teem with profound philosophy. They will form the code of future legislators. They are worthy of transmitting a great name to immortality.'—Atlas.
