8

I can assure you, sentlemen, that no Revolution is intended by the suffy-six members that voted for the Resolutions—it is, in their opinion, to prevent Revolution that they were passed. If there are fifty-six men on the country, that would devote their very existence to preserve the ties that bind us to Britain, I honestly believe, that the fifty-six Members that revoted for the Resolutions are those fifty-six men would be the last that would be found in the colony that would be the last that and most obvious reason, because the country would lose the greatest benefit, that any complained of be unredy determined to expose ress them, and wo thir

hat ton ion

fae