During his many years o iservice on the diamond, Arthur has in turn been a star player, a first-class manager, a college baseball coach and a successful scout. It is perhaps as a scout for the Highlanders that he is best known to the present generation of fans, for it has been said that he discovered a larger number of miner leaguers who have made good in the big show than any other major league Columbus.

As a player Irwin holds the unique record of being the only man who played on pennant-winning teams in the old American Association, the National League and the ill-starred Players' League.

Trade continues brisk at the horse exchange this week and a large number of horses changed hands. The stock on hand at the beginning of the week has practically all been cleared away, giving place to the fresh horses continually arriving from our country shippers. There is a keen demand for heavy horses just now, due to the fact that the farmers are commencing to use them in opening up the land. The wise man in need of horses will realize the need of securing those horses now when prices are lower than they will be for some time to come. Some of the buyers present weré: M. T.
