Glen Urquhart Plaids In the Front for Smart Dressers

This popular plaid is at the head of the procession this season. It has caught on quickly as the very newest with the man who is never behind in style—either of material or make-up. And this house is always first with both.

Made to measure in every case, in a style to suit the taste of various men, and offered at prices that are all moderate for the quality involved.

At a meeting of the Canadian Racing

Associations here yesterday, President

J. E. Seagram in the chair, it was resolved that the entries of J. W. Hendrick horses should not be received pending his suspension by the Jockey Club and until the ruling of the Jockey Club of March 26, debarring Joe Knight and Jockey P.

Wolfe from the privilege, will be sustained here during its effect by the Jockey

Club.

The next meeting of the C.R.A. will be held May 20, and trainers and jockeys intending to participate in Canadian racing this season must have their applications for licenses in then, or they will not be granted.

Curling Reminiscence

A copy of a February number of The Brampton Conservator of 1883, displayed here for inspection yesterday, has a half column story of a nip-and-tuck game of curling between opposing types of that town, Banner v. Conservator and Times, these being the papers then doing business. The combination skipped by Dave Blair won by 14 to 11, and who do you think piloted the opposing side? Bert Nichols. That was 32 years ago, and on any winter's day at the Granite Club he is still a black-headed boy leading for one of the Rennie's. Can you beat it? His other players were A. V. Dick, C. Maguire and J. Bunting, and for Blair, C. W. Tye, Sam Charters and Joe Moore.
