The International baseball season is billed to open here this afternoon (weather permitting) between the new Richmond club and the Leafs. Forecasts by the weather man gives the probabilities clearing and cool, which means that devotes the probabilities of the miseable of the probabilities.

the weather man gives the probabilities clearing and cool, which means that despite the miserable weather yesterday that the fans will likely be able to see the opening as scheduled.

Both teams will arrive here this morning, and along with the Leafs will come a former Toronto player in Bradley Kocher, who has been one of the Providence catchers for the last two years. Manager Clymer yesterday notified President Mc-Caffery that he had secured this catcher from Providence. Kocher is a pretty fair catcher and a good hitter.

With the Richmond club will come Tim Jordan, Charlie Pick and Paul Krichell, all members of the Toronto club last year. Incidentally during the coming series it would not be surprising if Tim pickled a few over the bleacher fence.

The 48th Highlanders' band will discourse music from 1.30 until the game commences at 3.15. Just who the batteries will be is not known, altho McTigue will likely do the pitching for the Leafs. The reserve seat plan is at 33 King street west.

In a Connaught Cup game at Harris Park on Saturday afternoon British Imperial gave Sons of Scotland a rather stiff application of the kalsomine brush by beating them to the tune of 4 to 0. The game was fast and furious and the heavier forwards of the winners wore down the Scotchmen early. Sons of Scotland should have won if penalty kicks are to be counted. At least they had a dozen, but they failed to find the net at any time. They were, however, shaded badly in the play.
