

DINEEN SEALSKINS

It isn't possible for a furrier to be expert in his business in one year or in ten years. We've been 47 years buying pelts and selling fur garments.

The Dineen sealskin jacket we sell represents the result of all our knowledge in making garments of good fur.

These are like no other jackets we know of. They can be measured by no other standard.

There is the personally selected skins of cub seal—the expert cutting and tailoring—the individual style of the garment that reflects good judgment in dress.

Every price according to the length of the jacket.

HILDA'S BOILERS EXPLODED PASSENGERS HAD NO CHANCE

Captain Made Mistake as to Signal
Lights—Victims Number 128.

London, Nov. 20.—The London and Southwestern Railway Company today received an official report from St. Malo, France, stating that the total number of persons aboard their steamer Hilda, which was wrecked off that coast, was 128. The bodies of fifty-nine victims of the disaster have been washed up on the beach at St. Cast, near St. Malo. All of the crew of twenty-six men belonged in Southampton, and only three of them were married.

Boilers Exploded.
Paris, Nov. 20.—Special reports received here of the wreck of the Hilda give graphic description of the disaster. Owing to the rough sea, together with a thick snow storm, the captain of the Hilda probably took the light on the rocks for St. Malo light-house. He gave signals which were not seen by harbor employees, and the steamer proceeded slowly towards the light. When she struck the rocks, the steamer's boilers exploded and she was cut in two, giving the passengers no time to save their lives.

A Survivor's Story.
St. Malo, France, Nov. 20.—James Gunter, the only man saved of the wrecked steamer Hilda, says the ship was not in danger of sinking until she struck the rocks. He says the ship was not in danger of sinking until she struck the rocks. He says the ship was not in danger of sinking until she struck the rocks.

Work on the Guns.
The Hilda first struck at 10 o'clock Saturday night. She was going dead slow at the time. Seven minutes later the ship broke amidships, and her crew were swept back, with the exception of the few survivors who clung to the mast. They were rescued by the steamer Adra, after having endured 12 hours of agony.

65 CARS AT UNION YARDS BETTER TONE TO MARKET

Butchers Make Slight Gains—Supply Not Equal to Demand—Export Trade Picks Up.

It has remained for the Union Stock Yards to chronicle the first real genuine revival in the cattle trade, and for the first time in a long while was there active and well-sustained inquiry which leaves no doubt as to the improved condition of this great and growing industry. Receipts at the Union Stock Yards yesterday were only moderately heavy, some 65 cars all together, comprising 1307 cattle, 15 sheep and 4 calves. Now as to the quality of the cattle. While as usual there were some of the inferior types, there were on the other hand a number of cars, probably 8 or 10, which might fairly be classed as of a superior quality and the type which would command a ready sale at all times. For this grade the demand was active and some idea of the trend of the market may be inferred when it is known that a very large proportion of the trade was over before daylight. So the market was a better one than it has been for some time. But while there was a better tone, it may be said that the market has been somewhat quiet and the question of active prices is contingent upon better cattle.

Exporters—in exporters, William Leveak was a heavy buyer. For export cattle Mr. Leveak's order was running from $2.50 to $4.50, the latter for a few extra choice lots. Altogether, said Mr. Leveak, the market was fairly good, brighter than for some time, and marked by the arrival of some really good cattle. For the time being, however, the market was slow. The only limit to the trade yesterday, said Mr. Leveak, was the want of more really good stuff, and the market was in such a condition that more of this class would have sold readily if they had been offered.

Butchers.—The market for good butchers' yesterday was much improved over that of the past few weeks. First-class butchers' yesterday for the trade, brought all the way from $3.75 up to $4.40. Fair to medium, $3.75 to $4.00; common butchers', $3.50 to $3.75; rough and inferior, $3.25 to $3.50. Good butchers' are scarce and a number of the local butchers' are $3.25 to $3.75. Good butchers' are scarce and a number of the local butchers' are $3.25 to $3.75.

In much cases there were not many offered, but any that were offered, were sold readily taken at good prices. From $3.75 to $4.50 was the prevailing figure.
