

Plumes

Latest Style
Ostrich Plumes

Our great Canadian factory has been busy for months copying the latest novelties in ostrich plumes. Every possible new color and style is being made. Inspection invited.

NOVELTY OSTRICH MOUNTS
$1.00, $2.50, $3.50, $5.00.
NOVELTY OSTRICH PLUMES
$7.50, $10.00, $12.50 to $25.00.
FRENCH AND WILLOW PLUMES
$2.50, $5.00, $7.50, $10, $15.

NEW FEATHER AND HAT CATALOGUE MAILED ON REQUEST

LONDON FEATHER
COMPANY, LIMITED

144 YONGE STREET

MONTREAL

TORONTO

WINNIPEG

UNDERSTUDIES AT
NEW YORK THEATRE

Principal Characters in "Honey-moon Express" Taken by Minor Stars.

Just to prove that if Gaby Deslys, Al Jolson, Ada Lewis, Melville Ellis, Harry Brice, Yancy Dolly and the remainder of the principals in "The Honey-moon Express," at the Winter Garden, should all become ill at the same time the entertainment could nevertheless be presented as usual, a special performance for a company composed entirely of understudies was given one afternoon last week at the Winter Garden. The stars sat in the audience and watched themselves being imitated on the stage by their understudies, most of whom are regular members of the chorus.

Yancy Dolly, one of the principals, appeared in the role created by Gaby Deslys, and made a sensational hit. She reproduced each familiar gesture and action of the famous French girl. Harry Brice, who usually plays a part of minor importance, appeared in Al Jolson's guise and was liberally applauded. Doyle and Dixon, the dancers, had "straight" parts, and proved themselves capable of delivering lines as well as of dancing. The presentation is said to have originated over a bet made by Al Jolson to the effect that he would not be possible to give an entire understudy performance. Miss Marjorie Lane, one of the chorus ladies, understudies, appeared to Ned Wayburn, the general stage producer for the Winter Garden, who offered his aid, with the result that Mr. Jolson now has to admit his defeat.

Mon. W. T. White Will Speak. A. Claude Macdonell, M.P., will address the Centre and South Toronto Conservative Club (Monday) evening at 8.15 in the club rooms, 190-1-3 Simcoe street. The speakers will discuss the naval aid bill and the situation at Ottawa, and doubtless Sir Wilfrid Laurier's manifesto will receive full attention at the same time. The ladies' branch has signified its intention of being present and the meeting will be open to friends of the Conservative party.

Cancer Research. LIVERPOOL, March 22.—John C. Madden of Philadelphia, has completed arrangements for the opening of this city in May next of an important institute for conducting researches into cancer and other contagious diseases. He sailed for New York today on board the Mauretania.

WHISKEY HOLDS ITS VICTIMS.

Until Released by Wonderful Samaria Prescription.

Liquor sets up inflammation and irritates the stomach and weakens the nerves. The steady or periodic (epree) drinker is often forced to drink, even against his will, by his unnatural physical condition. Samaria Prescription stops the craving, steadies the nerves, builds up the general health, and makes drink actually distasteful and repulsive. It is tasteless and odorless, and can be given with or without the knowledge of the patient.

Thousands of Canadian homes have been saved from misery and disgrace by some devoted wife, mother, or daughter, thru this wonderful Canadian remedy. The money formerly wasted in drink has restored happiness, home comforts, education, and respect to the families formerly in want and despair.

Read the following, one of the numerous unsolicited testimonials received:

"I can never repay you for your remedy. It is worth more than life to me. My husband has been offered liquor several times, but would not touch it. He said it had no effect on him now. May God's choicest blessings rest on you and yours, as my prayers ever have. No one knew it but those who have tried it. As soon as I can, I will see you. If you have any more of your remedy to stop their husbands from drinking, I will give them your address."

"Mrs. K. Davidson, Alta."

Name withheld on request. Now, if you know of any family needing this remedy, tell them about it. If you have any more of your remedy to stop their husbands from drinking, I will give them your address."

"Mrs. K. Davidson, Alta."

Name withheld on request. Now, if you know of any family needing this remedy, tell them about it. If you have any more of your remedy to stop their husbands from drinking, I will give them your address."

"Mrs. K. Davidson, Alta."

Name withheld on request. Now, if you know of any family needing this remedy, tell them about it. If you have any more of your remedy to stop their husbands from drinking, I will give them your address."

"Mrs. K. Davidson, Alta."

Hats

French and New York Millinery

Our importations of smart New York and French Hats are arriving daily—hats that mirror the latest vogue—all at London maker-to-wearer prices.

FINE MILAN HATS
$2.50, $3.50, $5.00 and up.
FRENCH TAGEL HATS
$2.50, $3.50, $4.50, $5 and up.
PANAMA AND LEIGHORN HATS
$5, $7.50, $10 and $15.

NEW FEATHER AND HAT CATALOGUE MAILED ON REQUEST

LONDON FEATHER
COMPANY, LIMITED

144 YONGE STREET

MONTREAL

TORONTO

WINNIPEG

HOTEL PROPRIETOR
BURNED TO DEATHMan Weighing Three Hundred Pounds Perishes in Flames at Desbarats.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., March 22.—Caught in an upper apartment, which was cut off on all sides by the flames, Samuel Roach, proprietor of the hotel at Desbarats, a few miles east of here, was burned to death last evening in a fire which reduced the hotel to ashes. It originated in the kitchen and had been extinguished. Apparently Roach, who weighed about 300 pounds, had been down fighting after his efforts to subdue the first fire, and it broke out again. The remains were recovered this morning with bed springs burned into the flesh. The hotel was a wooden structure, owned by William Roach, his brother, a C.P.R. engineer of the Soo. Several other occupants also had narrow escapes. Roach was married and leaves a widow.

THE BUFFALO SPEED BOYS ARE COMING TO THE BIG
DALE ROLLER RINK.

On Wednesday night, March 26, the Riverdale roller rink will have the biggest night in its seven years of steady catering to the masses, when the Buffalo speed boys go up against the best of Toronto in the game of speed skating on the little rollers, and Toronto has one extra good one in the person of Willie MacMichael, the champion of Canada, now living in this city. There will be continuous music for the public skating until 9.30, after which the races for three handsome prizes; also a ladies' orange race; the first prize being a beautiful diamond ring. This is ladies' free night; and a special invitation is out for the mothers to come, and bring the boys free, as all boys like racing, and the management want to make this the one big night of the history of the rink.

This popular rink is having a good patronage. The equipment of the best, and the floor conceded one of the nicest in the world. The rink is one of the few extra roller rinks of the world, catering to the masses at popular prices; and always giving its patrons the best. On this night, Prof. Johnson, the world's greatest skater, will give an exhibition, and perform some astounding feats, such as jumping into a barrel backwards; also expert fancy work, unequalled by any performer in the world. All free to the ladies and children, and the management are desirous of showing up the beauty and value of this exhilarating recreation of roller skating.

Four More Motor
Bandits ArrestedNew York Police Have Stiff Fight
Before Making Capture.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Hold-up men who tried to escape in a taxicab after robbing an east side cafe today, were captured by the police when the machine crashed into a building amid a volley of rifle shots. With the recent arrest of a dozen motor car bandits, the police believed they had brought an end to the city's newest crime wave. This morning apparently supplied the first intimation that several gangs of automobile highwaymen have been at work.

The bartender was held up at the point of revolvers by five men. A sixth man remained in the car. When the men made off in their machine the alarm was given. There was an exchange of shots as a patrolman gave chase on foot. The cab swung around a corner. Another policeman stepped into its path, driving at the swaying car. Shots from the cab passed thru his uniform. At this moment it swerved into a building and was wrecked. Two of the six men escaped.

Yorkshire Society. The Yorkshire Society held a successful social and dance at the Sons of England Hall, Friday night, over 200 ladies and gossams from the Broad-shire taking part in the many old country and Canadian dances, all of which they thoroughly enjoyed. During the evening Miss Thompson, Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Robinson, and Mr. Jack Williams gave various songs, which were greatly appreciated by all.

U.S. SUFFRAGETTES
DON'T LIKE METHODS
OF ENGLISH SISTERSAmerican Campaign For the Vote More Effective Because Militancy is Unknown.

A STUPID BLUNDER

Was the Blowing up of Lloyd
George's House Which Aroused Spirit of Resentment.

NEW YORK, March 22.—The effectiveness of the American campaign for equal suffrage, as compared with the English method of obtaining the same end, was shown in bold contrast at suffrage headquarters here today.

"In America," said a prominent suffragette, speaking on English and American methods of furthering the cause, "there has been no militant tactics, no brick throwing, no calumnies, no threats, and the cause of equal rights has progressed steadily, until today there is bright prospect of winning over the remainder of the states which still bar women from the polls."

In support of the contention that the quiet method of campaigning in America was more effective than the militancy of England, a list of the suffrage outrages committed in the latter country was drawn up. It follows:

Assaults on Ministers.
Sept. 7, 1909—Prime minister hustled at Lympne Castle, Folkestone.
Nov. 14, 1909—Mr. Churchill struck with a dog whip at Bristol.
Nov. 23, 1910—Mr. Birrell mobbed. Horse Guards parade.

July 18, 1912—Hatchet thrown into carriage in which the prime minister and Mr. John Redmond were driving thru the streets of Dublin. Mr. McKenna assaulted at Caerleon, near Newport.

July 20, 1912—Prime minister assaulted at Chester.

Raids on Parliament.
Feb. 11, 1908—50 women arrested after raid on house of commons.

June 30, 1909—28 women arrested.
June 30, 1909—112 women arrested.
Nov. 31, 1911—223 women arrested.

Attacks on Property.
Jan. 18, 1908—Prime minister's house raided.

March 1, 1912—$20,000 damage done by window smashing in Westminster and west end.

July 12, 1912—Explosives found in Mr. McKenna's room at the House of Commons.

July 18, 1912—Attempt to set fire to Theatre Royal, Dublin.

Nov. 29, 1912—Paraffin placed in letter boxes all over the country.

Jan. 30, 1913—Six windows broken at Lambeth palace, and many in the west end.

Feb. 3, 1913—Case smashed in jewel room at Tower of London.

Feb. 19, 1913—Attempt to blow up home of Lloyd George with dynamite bombs.

Meetings Stopped.
Nov. 13, 1908—Mr. Birrell howled down at City Temple.

Dec. 7, 1908—Rowdyism at Mr. Lloyd George's meeting in Albert Hall.

Nov. 29, 1911—Prime minister howled down at City Temple.

Against this list of outrages on person and property the record of America's fight for equal rights is practically spotless. It was explained, however, that this does not mean that there are no militants in the ranks of the American suffragettes.

Several young American suffragettes have gone to England, and have enlisted under the Pankhurst banner. These have taken their part in the window smashing campaign, and have done their little stunt in jail. But the vast majority of the American suffragettes are in sympathy with the English methods.

A Stupid Blunder.
The most stupid blunder of the entire campaign was the blowing up of Lloyd George's house, which aroused the spirit of resentment.

English campaign, according to the American point of view, was the blowing up of the home of Lloyd George. It was pointed out that Lloyd George was most favorably disposed toward equal suffrage, and, furthermore, that he was immensely popular. The attack, therefore, is believed to have had the effect of estranging a powerful advocate of the cause, and at the same time of arousing a spirit of resentment among Englishmen generally, which may ruin the women's chances of forcing their reform thru parliament.

This change in attitude, say American workers for the cause, has been evidenced in the past, and will be further evidenced in the future by hostility on the part of the authorities. They say that the "hunger strike" is decreasing in its effectiveness as a means of releasing the women from jail, that there is a strong disposition on the part of many Englishmen to let the women starve in jail, if they want to, and that the sentiment of the entire country has undergone a change.

In sharp contrast to the indifference shown by Englishmen generally, in England have brought to light, suffragettes here pointed to the prompt sympathy elicited from all parts of the United States, when it became known that the suffrage parade in Washington on March 3 had been invaded by hoodlums.

English campaign, according to the American point of view, was the blowing up of the home of Lloyd George. It was pointed out that Lloyd George was most favorably disposed toward equal suffrage, and, furthermore, that he was immensely popular. The attack, therefore, is believed to have had the effect of estranging a powerful advocate of the cause, and at the same time of arousing a spirit of resentment among Englishmen generally, which may ruin the women's chances of forcing their reform thru parliament.

This change in attitude, say American workers for the cause, has been evidenced in the past, and will be further evidenced in the future by hostility on the part of the authorities. They say that the "hunger strike" is decreasing in its effectiveness as a means of releasing the women from jail, that there is a strong disposition on the part of many Englishmen to let the women starve in jail, if they want to, and that the sentiment of the entire country has undergone a change.

In sharp contrast to the indifference shown by Englishmen generally, in England have brought to light, suffragettes here pointed to the prompt sympathy elicited from all parts of the United States, when it became known that the suffrage parade in Washington on March 3 had been invaded by hoodlums.

English campaign, according to the American point of view, was the blowing up of the home of Lloyd George. It was pointed out that Lloyd George was most favorably disposed toward equal suffrage, and, furthermore, that he was immensely popular. The attack, therefore, is believed to have had the effect of estranging a powerful advocate of the cause, and at the same time of arousing a spirit of resentment among Englishmen generally, which may ruin the women's chances of forcing their reform thru parliament.

MISHA PRENZO, IN THE TITLE
ROLE IN "ROBIN HOOD," COM-ING TO THE PRINCESS THE-ATRE, WEEK OF MARCH 31.

English campaign, according to the American point of view, was the blowing up of the home of Lloyd George. It was pointed out that Lloyd George was most favorably disposed toward equal suffrage, and, furthermore, that he was immensely popular. The attack, therefore, is believed to have had the effect of estranging a powerful advocate of the cause, and at the same time of arousing a spirit of resentment among Englishmen generally, which may ruin the women's chances of forcing their reform thru parliament.

This change in attitude, say American workers for the cause, has been evidenced in the past, and will be further evidenced in the future by hostility on the part of the authorities. They say that the "hunger strike" is decreasing in its effectiveness as a means of releasing the women from jail, that there is a strong disposition on the part of many Englishmen to let the women starve in jail, if they want to, and that the sentiment of the entire country has undergone a change.

In sharp contrast to the indifference shown by Englishmen generally, in England have brought to light, suffragettes here pointed to the prompt sympathy elicited from all parts of the United States, when it became known that the suffrage parade in Washington on March 3 had been invaded by hoodlums.

English campaign, according to the American point of view, was the blowing up of the home of Lloyd George. It was pointed out that Lloyd George was most favorably disposed toward equal suffrage, and, furthermore, that he was immensely popular. The attack, therefore, is believed to have had the effect of estranging a powerful advocate of the cause, and at the same time of arousing a spirit of resentment among Englishmen generally, which may ruin the women's chances of forcing their reform thru parliament.

This change in attitude, say American workers for the cause, has been evidenced in the past, and will be further evidenced in the future by hostility on the part of the authorities. They say that the "hunger strike" is decreasing in its effectiveness as a means of releasing the women from jail, that there is a strong disposition on the part of many Englishmen to let the women starve in jail, if they want to, and that the sentiment of the entire country has undergone a change.

In sharp contrast to the indifference shown by Englishmen generally, in England have brought to light, suffragettes here pointed to the prompt sympathy elicited from all parts of the United States, when it became known that the suffrage parade in Washington on March 3 had been invaded by hoodlums.

English campaign, according to the American point of view, was the blowing up of the home of Lloyd George. It was pointed out that Lloyd George was most favorably disposed toward equal suffrage, and, furthermore, that he was immensely popular. The attack, therefore, is believed to have had the effect of estranging a powerful advocate of the cause, and at the same time of arousing a spirit of resentment among Englishmen generally, which may ruin the women's chances of forcing their reform thru parliament.

This change in attitude, say American workers for the cause, has been evidenced in the past, and will be further evidenced in the future by hostility on the part of the authorities. They say that the "hunger strike" is decreasing in its effectiveness as a means of releasing the women from jail, that there is a strong disposition on the part of many Englishmen to let the women starve in jail, if they want to, and that the sentiment of the entire country has undergone a change.

In sharp contrast to the indifference shown by Englishmen generally, in England have brought to light, suffragettes here pointed to the prompt sympathy elicited from all parts of the United States, when it became known that the suffrage parade in Washington on March 3 had been invaded by hoodlums.

English campaign, according to the American point of view, was the blowing up of the home of Lloyd George. It was pointed out that Lloyd George was most favorably disposed toward equal suffrage, and, furthermore, that he was immensely popular. The attack, therefore, is believed to have had the effect of estranging a powerful advocate of the cause, and at the same time of arousing a spirit of resentment among Englishmen generally, which may ruin the women's chances of forcing their reform thru parliament.

This change in attitude, say American workers for the cause, has been evidenced in the past, and will be further evidenced in the future by hostility on the part of the authorities. They say that the "hunger strike" is decreasing in its effectiveness as a means of releasing the women from jail, that there is a strong disposition on the part of many Englishmen to let the women starve in jail, if they want to, and that the sentiment of the entire country has undergone a change.

In sharp contrast to the indifference shown by Englishmen generally, in England have brought to light, suffragettes here pointed to the prompt sympathy elicited from all parts of the United States, when it became known that the suffrage parade in Washington on March 3 had been invaded by hoodlums.

English campaign, according to the American point of view, was the blowing up of the home of Lloyd George. It was pointed out that Lloyd George was most favorably disposed toward equal suffrage, and, furthermore, that he was immensely popular. The attack, therefore, is believed to have had the effect of estranging a powerful advocate of the cause, and at the same time of arousing a spirit of resentment among Englishmen generally, which may ruin the women's chances of forcing their reform thru parliament.

This change in attitude, say American workers for the cause, has been evidenced in the past, and will be further evidenced in the future by hostility on the part of the authorities. They say that the "hunger strike" is decreasing in its effectiveness as a means of releasing the women from jail, that there is a strong disposition on the part of many Englishmen to let the women starve in jail, if they want to, and that the sentiment of the entire country has undergone a change.

In sharp contrast to the indifference shown by Englishmen generally, in England have brought to light, suffragettes here pointed to the prompt sympathy elicited from all parts of the United States, when it became known that the suffrage parade in Washington on March 3 had been invaded by hoodlums.

English campaign, according to the American point of view, was the blowing up of the home of Lloyd George. It was pointed out that Lloyd George was most favorably disposed toward equal suffrage, and, furthermore, that he was immensely popular. The attack, therefore, is believed to have had the effect of estranging a powerful advocate of the cause, and at the same time of arousing a spirit of resentment among Englishmen generally, which may ruin the women's chances of forcing their reform thru parliament.

This change in attitude, say American workers for the cause, has been evidenced in the past, and will be further evidenced in the future by hostility on the part of the authorities. They say that the "hunger strike" is decreasing in its effectiveness as a means of releasing the women from jail, that there is a strong disposition on the part of many Englishmen to let the women starve in jail, if they want to, and that the sentiment of the entire country has undergone a change.

In sharp contrast to the indifference shown by Englishmen generally, in England have brought to light, suffragettes here pointed to the prompt sympathy elicited from all parts of the United States, when it became known that the suffrage parade in Washington on March 3 had been invaded by hoodlums.

English campaign, according to the American point of view, was the blowing up of the home of Lloyd George. It was pointed out that Lloyd George was most favorably disposed toward equal suffrage, and, furthermore, that he was immensely popular. The attack, therefore, is believed to have had the effect of estranging a powerful advocate of the cause, and at the same time of arousing a spirit of resentment among Englishmen generally, which may ruin the women's chances of forcing their reform thru parliament.

This change in attitude, say American workers for the cause, has been evidenced in the past, and will be further evidenced in the future by hostility on the part of the authorities. They say that the "hunger strike" is decreasing in its effectiveness as a means of releasing the women from jail, that there is a strong disposition on the part of many Englishmen to let the women starve in jail, if they want to, and that the sentiment of the entire country has undergone a change.

In sharp contrast to the indifference shown by Englishmen generally, in England have brought to light, suffragettes here pointed to the prompt sympathy elicited from all parts of the United States, when it became known that the suffrage parade in Washington on March 3 had been invaded by hoodlums.

English campaign, according to the American point of view, was the blowing up of the home of Lloyd George. It was pointed out that Lloyd George was most favorably disposed toward equal suffrage, and, furthermore, that he was immensely popular. The attack, therefore, is believed to have had the effect of estranging a powerful advocate of the cause, and at the same time of arousing a spirit of resentment among Englishmen generally, which may ruin the women's chances of forcing their reform thru parliament.

This change in attitude, say American workers for the cause, has been evidenced in the past, and will be further evidenced in the future by hostility on the part of the authorities. They say that the "hunger strike" is decreasing in its effectiveness as a means of releasing the women from jail, that there is a strong disposition on the part of many Englishmen to let the women starve in jail, if they want to, and that the sentiment of the entire country has undergone a change.

In sharp contrast to the indifference shown by Englishmen generally, in England have brought to light, suffragettes here pointed to the prompt sympathy elicited from all parts of the United States, when it became known that the suffrage parade in Washington on March 3 had been invaded by hoodlums.

English campaign, according to the American point of view, was the blowing up of the home of Lloyd George. It was pointed out that Lloyd George was most favorably disposed toward equal suffrage, and, furthermore, that he was immensely popular. The attack, therefore, is believed to have had the effect of estranging a powerful advocate of the cause, and at the same time of arousing a spirit of resentment among Englishmen generally, which may ruin the women's chances of forcing their reform thru parliament.

This change in attitude, say American workers for the cause, has been evidenced in the past, and will be further evidenced in the future by hostility on the part of the authorities. They say that the "hunger strike" is decreasing in its effectiveness as a means of releasing the women from jail, that there is a strong disposition on the part of many Englishmen to let the women starve in jail, if they want to, and that the sentiment of the entire country has undergone a change.

In sharp contrast to the indifference shown by Englishmen generally, in England have brought to light, suffragettes here pointed to the prompt sympathy elicited from all parts of the United States, when it became known that the suffrage parade in Washington on March 3 had been invaded by hoodlums.

English campaign, according to the American point of view, was the blowing up of the home of Lloyd George. It was pointed out that Lloyd George was most favorably disposed toward equal suffrage, and, furthermore, that he was immensely popular. The attack, therefore, is believed to have had the effect of estranging a powerful advocate of the cause, and at the same time of arousing a spirit of resentment among Englishmen generally, which may ruin the women's chances of forcing their reform thru parliament.

This change in attitude, say American workers for the cause, has been evidenced in the past, and will be further evidenced in the future by hostility on the part of the authorities. They say that the "hunger strike" is decreasing in its effectiveness as a means of releasing the women from jail, that there is a strong disposition on the part of many Englishmen to let the women starve in jail, if they want to, and that the sentiment of the entire country has undergone a change.

In sharp contrast to the indifference shown by Englishmen generally, in England have brought to light, suffragettes here pointed to the prompt sympathy elicited from all parts of the United States, when it became known that the suffrage parade in Washington on March 3 had been invaded by hoodlums.

English campaign, according to the American point of view, was the blowing up of the home of Lloyd George. It was pointed out that Lloyd George was most favorably disposed toward equal suffrage, and, furthermore, that he was immensely popular. The attack, therefore, is believed to have had the effect of estranging a powerful advocate of the cause, and at the same time of arousing a spirit of resentment among Englishmen generally, which may ruin the women's chances of forcing their reform thru parliament.

MURRAY-KAY, LIMITED

have pleasure in announcing for MONDAY,
MARCH 24th, and the following days a first complete showing of their

NEW IMPORTATIONS FOR SPRING

OF

Wall Papers and Decorations

ALSO OF

Fabric Wall Hangings

including Taffetas, Cretonnes,
Chintzes, Tapestries, etc.

The collections, although very large, have been most carefully chosen, and are thoroughly representative of the very latest and best productions of the day.

Both the papers and the fabrics are direct importations from leading British and foreign makers, and every design is the personal selection of our buyers.

A very large number of the designs are exclusive with us—no other house in Toronto being able to show them.

All who plan any expenditure on house decorations this Spring should make a point of seeing this exhibit. We believe it to be by far the best collection of high-class wall coverings ever shown in Canada.

Residents away from Toronto are reminded that we undertake the decoration and furnishing of residences, wholly or in part, anywhere in Canada. Correspondence is invited.

MURRAY-KAY, LIMITED

36 and 38 King St., West, Toronto

New York Man Hurt
By His Own BombHenry Klotz Terribly Injured in Explosion—Rooms Like an Arsenal.

NEW YORK, March 22.—Blown up by his own bomb, Henry Klotz, a draughtsman in the employ of the city, lay in the Fordham Hospital today with a shattered leg. It is doubtful if he lives to shed further light upon the accident. Bits of nails, screws and small steel slugs from the exploded bomb were found in more than 30 places, one eye was destroyed and two fingers on his left hand blown off.

The police today continued an investigation of the case. When Klotz was removed to the hospital last night he declared that the exploding bomb was one which he found in a park. When he learned that he had little chance to live he told the police that the bomb was one of his own making.

A visit to his rooms seemed to confirm this, for the place was like an arsenal. There were 12 one-pound cans of black gunpowder, 18 shotguns and rifles, revolvers of all sizes and knives and swords of all shapes.

The police were struck by the fact that the house where the accident occurred, and where Klotz lived with his mother and two sisters on Fulton avenue, was only two blocks from the apartment house where Mrs. Madeline Herrera was killed and two other persons were injured by the explosion of a bomb very similar to that which Klotz was making. J. P. Farrell, weak-minded janitor, who has been held in the Tombs for some time, charged with the Herrera bomb outrage, which was committed Feb. 2, confessed to guilt, but later repudiated the confession.

Irony for Sarcasm.
The Act was (disfellowship).—Twenty dollars a week. Why, whom do you think you are trying to engage?

Manager (of bush repertory company)—Why—er—I beg your pardon, madam, but which New York theatre is named after you?

YOU CAN ENJOY
HEALTH
AND HAPPINESS
BY USING AN OXYPATHOR

The OXYPATHOR is the modern drugless cure for sickness and disease of almost every kind. Investigation will prove this broad statement.

The OXYPATHOR cures disease and keeps you well through the administration of Nature's most valuable agent, Oxygen.

Apply it to your body's needs when sick or ailing, and regain and maintain health.

Send for our FREE 72-page Health Book

The Ontario Oxyphathor Co.,
701 Yonge St. Toronto