TO THE PUBLIC.

THE KENT COUNTY ANNUAL AND ALMANAC is again laid before you. It will be found an improvement upon that issued for 1881—a new feature being the fine illustrations, and the local events in the Calendar columns. That the work for 1881 was appreciated, particularly, as an advertising medium, is evidenced by the increased size of the advertisements which fill the spaces in the present. The circulation has also been very materially increased, the number issued—distributed under the complete mode followed last year—being sufficient to enter more than every second house. It will be continued next year, and will cover additional territory.
