URIC ACID IN MEAT CLOGS THE KIDNEYS

Take a Glass of Salts if You Back Hurts or Bladder

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush our kidneys with salts occasionally, say a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to dush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Surgeon, Driven Desperate By Rejection, Went to War

Stunned by Shell and Captured, He DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP Tended Wounded Germans-Sweetheart Relented After She Heard False Report of Death

New York, Jan. 9—Harold Sloan, a surgeon of Sandusky, Ohio, arrived yesterday on the Atlantic transport liner Minnehaha after serving at the front in field hospitals under two flags, and after having been reported dead by the British War Office. Dr. Sloan went to the war because he was in love with Miss Edith Lesher of Sandusky, who refused to wed him. Now all is well with the surgeon, and he is hurrying home to be married.

"When the war started," said Dr.

Baking Powder Biscuits

Sift together 1 cupful of flour, 1 teaspoon of baking powder and 1-4 teaspoon of salt. Mix into the flour 1 large tablespoon of lard, then 1-2 cupful of milk, stirring in milk with knife. Roll out the dough on a floured board and cut into shape with a cutter. Bake in quick oven about 15 minutes.

"When the war started," said Dr. Sloan, "Miss Lesher was staying with friends at Trouville, France, where she had intended to pass the summer. I was in Sandusky, where her father is in business, and when no replies came from his daughter to his cable messages, he began to be anxious. On August 4, Mr. Lesher was so worried that he sent me abroad to find Miss Edith and bring her home.

"I met her at the Hotel Savoy in London and escorted her around the city for a week and then proposed. She not only declined my proposal, but implied that the voyage home would be pleasanter if we sailed on different ships.

"After that I made up my mind that I would go to the front, and I hoped for a bullet to end my misery, as I had nothing else to live for. Leaving London with the first British Medical Corps, which crossed the Channel on August 24, I was at Mons in the battle and the retreat; then at the Aisne, and in the engagement before LaBasse. One morning I was dressing the wounds of an English artillery man when a big shell exploded close by us, and then all was oblivion.

Three Days Without Food.

Three Days Without Food.

"When I regained my senses, I was lying on my back in a German field hospital inside LaBasse. It was the concussion that knocked me out. After I had been confined in the City Hall for three days without any food, a German surgeon came around and asked me to assist him in caring for the wounded, which I did cheerfully for fourteen days, and was then passed through the lines. On my arrival in London I discovered that my name had been posted in the official list of killed at the War Office and cabled to Sandusky by the consul. I was alive and well, I received a reply which read.

"Thank Heaven that you are saved. Come home to me."

"It was signed, 'Edith,' and I am on my way."

Dr. Sloan went on to say that the British troops were splendid fighters in the open, and that one Tommy was equal to four Germans, but that they could not stand the work in the trenches. Numbers of the English soldiers went crazy and others succumbed to typhoid, which was very prevalent, as vaccination with anti-toxin was optional, and the soldiers it would injure them for life.

Charles Walter, of the Canadian government service, returned today on the Minnehaha from London, where he went with the militia in September. As a result of his investigations, forty-three German spies were rounded up and arrested in the ranks of the Canadian troops.

The second one is not tacked, as it works back and forth like the plunger in a bicycle pump.

In figure 2, which is the disk with the handle on the end, there are four leather flap valves, like "V." They are on the inside and open in a way from the handle. Each flap valve is simply a piece of leather tacked or glued to the wood. Fig. 3 shows the size and shape of the pieces from which the funnel (Fig. 4.) is fashioned.

The funnel disk fits tightly but is removable so that the fire of smudgy rate may be placed in the fire space. It may be held by nails, which fit loosely enough to be removed by the fingers. "H" is handle made of a strip of metal and reinforced with wood.

The smoker is worked by pushing and pulling the handle, thus driving the smoke out the funnel end.

If tobacco stems are used in the fire space, it will make an ideal implement for smoking off lice from rose bushes and other plants. It may also be used for fumigating chicken coops and pigeon lofts.
