Social Notes of Interest

The luncheon given yesterday at noon by the Women's Canadian Club proved one of the most enjoyable of the many functions arranged for the delegates to the convention of the Association of Canadian Clubs. Each guest received a souvenir box of candy and a booklet of views of the country. Splendid music was furnished by the orchestra, under the direction of A. E. Jones. Mrs. Blake Ferris was heard to advantage in two vocal solos.

Banks of gladioli in bright rose tints were on the stage back of the head table and, with smaller arrangements of aster and phlox, made a picturesque background for the lovely gowns of the ladies seated there. Mrs. Todd, wife of the Lieutenant Governor, wore an elegant gown of draped silk velvet with silver lace, her hat being of the same material and turned back becomingly off her face with a facing of the lace. Rhinestone buckles appeared on her hat and at the left side of her gown. She wore a long necklace of pretty blue stones to match her gown.

Mrs. E. Atherton Smith, president of the St. John Women's Canadian Club and national vice-president, was charmingly gowned in flowered chiffon of an exquisite shade of blue, with rosy effect in the fabric, shading to amethyst. She wore amethysts in her necklace and jewelry.

Mrs. F. L. Potts, wife of the Mayor of the city, wore a tailored gown of black and white strip silk meteor, blending into grey. Her long scarf was of pink chiffon and her hat was a tailored black velvet one and very smart.

Mrs. George W. Babbitt, president of the Women's Canadian Club in St. Andrews, a special guest of Mrs. Smith, was gowned in a black crepe with lace and black hat with lace and smart jet for trimming.

Mrs. A. W. McLachlan, of Toronto, was very prettily gowned in a black costume, with touches of silver and a grey hat, with touches of black, and wore a grey squirrel tie. Mrs. Huddilston, of Orono, Me., was fashionably gowned in a black and white broadcloth, with sable fur and black satin tailored hat. Mrs. Danforth, of Skowhegan, Me., was in a pretty gray gown with black hat with touches of grey and silver. Mrs. W. W. Smith, of Port Arthur, wore a very smart gown of dark fawn cloth with white silk tunic, embroidered in gold beads. Her hat was of fawn velvet with jeweled band for trimming. Mrs. A. E. Vesey, of St. Stephen, who was of the gubernatorial party was in a tailored gown of biege, with black satin hat and mink fur. Miss Jeannette A. Cann, of Toronto, was in stylish brown dress, with turned up broad hat of fine brown straw with touches of gold. She wore a mink fur. Miss Jeanne Browne, superintendent of the Junior Red Cross, Toronto; Miss Fleet and Miss Sutherland, of Toronto, were special guests, the first being with Mrs. Margaret Lawrence, New Brunswick supervisor of Junior Red Cross.

The men at the head table were His Honor, W. F. Todd, the Lieutenant-Governor; His Worship Mayor F. L. Potts, R. S. Barker, secretary to the Governor; C. R. MacIntosh, president of the club at North Battleford, Sask.; Dr. E. J. Ryan, vice-president; H. C. Nelson, of Chapleau, Ont., president of his club; H. A. Porter, national president; Major F. J. Ney, of Winnipeg; Major George Keeffe, A. D. C. to the Governor, and W. J. S. Myles, president of the St. John Club. A lovely bouquet of roses were placed at the place of Mrs. E. Atherton Smith, which she gracefully acknowledge when speaking after the luncheon over which she presided. The other speakers were Mrs. Todd, Mrs. Huddilston, Mrs. McLachlan and Major Ney.

Nurse Stacey's Suggestions to Middle Aged Women

MRS. H. STACEY COLLINSVILLE, ILLINOIS

A MOST trying period of a woman's life is that of middle age, fraught with danger to some extent, and invariably with most annoying symptoms, such as hot flashes, smothering spells, nervous troubles, irregularities and fainting spells.

When a woman like Nurse Stacey after many years of caring for the sick writes a letter of praise for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound like the following, it should influence other women who are passing through the Change of Life to try it. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a root and herb medicine especially adapted to act upon the feminine system. It helps nature to build up the weakened, nervous system, and enables women to pass this trying period with the least possible annoying symptoms.

Nurse Stacey's Letter Follows:

Collinsville, Illinois.—"I could almost write a book in praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In the first place my husband induced me to try it and I have continued taking it off and on for years. I have become a well woman from its use and am now taking it through the Change of Life just to be on the safe side. I first took it for backache and a weak condition of the whole system and I think it saved my life and my baby. She is now a mother and takes it herself and I think I can count as high as a hundred women I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to, as I am a practical nurse. Use my letter in any way you see fit for I will stand by what I write."—Mrs. H. Stacey, Collinsville, Ill.

Another Woman's Similar Experience

Ingomar, N. S.—"I took your medicine for a run-down condition and inward troubles. I had pains in my right side so bad at times that I could not walk any distance. I saw about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and have taken five bottles of it. I am better in every way and you can use my letter to help other women."—Mrs. Alvita M. Perry, Ingomar, Nova Scotia.

MEN ARE WAITERS AT CHURCH SUPPER

A successful supper was put on last evening by the Men's Brotherhood Class of the Carleton Methodist church. The money raised will be used to repair the brotherhood class room. The pastor of the church, Rev. F. T. Bertram, was host and Hedley Belyea was convener, being the president of the class. The Ladies' Aid catered for the supper, which was served by the men, with Charles Watters and W. D. Williams presiding over the tea. The tables were attractively laid and decorated with asters, dahlias and other autumn flowers.

The left over cakes were auctioned by Ernest Bissett and brought a good sum. Miss Helen Henderson led the boys in singing after which all joined in hearty thanks to Rev. Mr. Bertram for his interest in his class.

QUEEN CHIPETA OF THE UTES DIES

Death Recalls the History of Chief Ouray, Indian Diplomat.

(United Press).

Grand Junction, Colo., Sept., 12 — The last page of history of the Ute Indians in Colorado has been written.

Beyond the sunset, in the Happy Hunting Grounds, Queen Chipeta, favorite wife of Chief Ouray, has gone to join her husband.

Queen Chipeta died at Bitter Creek, Utah, at the estimated age of 85. Her death recalls the history of Chief Ouray, the "Jefferson" of western Indians, and probably the greatest diplomat the Redskins ever produced.

It was through the influence of Ouray that, even at the zenith of their power as rulers of western Colorado and eastern Utah, the Utes were kept from open warfare with white settlers, and a treaty was negotiated at Washington between the tribesmen and the Government.

Saves Pale Faces.

"It is useless to fight the pale faces. They are as numerous as the stars in the sky, and cannot be counted." This was always the wisdom passed from the chief to his belligerent warriors, when attacks upon the settlers were suggested. So anxious was he to keep peace with his "pale face" pioneer neighbors that on one occasion, when a dozen braves insisted on attacking a small colony of whites, the chief took a short-cut in the direction of the settlement, waylaid his own followers, killed three of them and turned the others back.

Somewhere on a high mountain peak, following the custom of the Utes in burying their leaders, lies the body of Chief Uuray. Its resting place is known only to Chief McCook, brother of Queen Chipeta, and successor to Ouray.

"A Last Treaty."

Efforts are being made to negotiate a "last treaty" with Chief McCook. This time the "pale faces" want to know where the remains of Ouray lie, that they may place the body of his wife beside him and erect a fitting memorial to the leaders who saw the power of their tribe topple beneath the onslaught of the whites.

It has been suggested, too, that the former palatial quarters of Chief Ouray, a three-room, one-story abode house now being used as a chicken house by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Myers, farmers, residing two miles out of Montrose, be set aside as a memorial to the departed chieftain.

Even now, less than a generation after his death, Ouray is looked upon in this vicinity as the greatest statesman among western Indians. Although too soon for his history to be fully appreciated, hundreds of persons annually pull their cars to a stop before the modern home of the Myers', and are welcomed to the back yard where the adobe dwelling stands little the worse for its half century of use.

CANCEL DECORATION DAY.

It was announced at the meeting of Marlborough Lodge, Sons of England, last night that unavoidably it had been found necessary to cancel the decoration day services for which preparations were already under way. P. L. Griffin, worthy president, presided at the meeting and one member was initiated and an officer installed by District Deputy G. H. Lewis. After lodge business had been disposed of refreshments were served and a social hour spent. The committee in charge of the refreshments consisted of P. L. Griffin, worthy secretary; E. C. Fremain, D. Bevans and R. I. Carloss.

Reducing made Exquisite Safe and Sane through *Nemolastik Girdles and Brassieres

(No Rubber Touches the Skin)

EXQUISITE because of the daintiness of the very absorbent, specially fine, silk-covered rubber in a peaches and cream shade.

SAFE because "no rubber touches the skin;" and the figure is healthfully controlled and supported.

SANE because the continuous auto-massage furnished by the contraction and expansion of Nemolastik reduces and ultimately eliminates excess fatty tissues; and produces from the beginning a fashionable slenderness.

Nemolastik Girdles and Brassieres (guaranteed against tearing) are the corset sensation of the century. Worn together they beautify the entire figure.
