RECENT WEDDINGS

Rodgers-Cunningham.
In Trinity church yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock Rev. A. E. Gabriel united in marriage Miss Edith Mae Cunningham, of this city, to Ernest Arthur Rodgers, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Q. R. Rodgers, of Ash Point, Kings county. The bride, who was given away by her father, was prettily attired in a gown of navy blue silk and carried a bouquet of white roses. After the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Rodgers left by boat for Ash Point, where they will reside.

RECENT DEATHS

Miss Eunice A. Bander.
Miss Eunice A. Bander, third daughter of A. U. and Hannah B. Bander, late of St. John, died at the hospital in Bridgetown (N. S.), on Saturday, July 8. Miss Bander lived for several years in Paterson (N. J.), and later made her home with her sister, Mrs. William H. Bander, in Berwick (N. S.). She had been in poor health for many years.

Mrs. Orville Flewelling.

The death occurred at the St. John county hospital on June 28, 1922, of Mrs. Maud Flewelling, wife of Orville L. Flewelling, of Chipman (N. B.), after an illness of eight months. She was twenty-three years of age, and besides her husband leaves four brothers, Melborn W., of Salmon Creek, Queens county; Clarence, Hubert and Lawrence, of Chipman; and one sister, Mrs. George Young, of Hardwood Ridge, Queens county. The funeral was held to the Baptist church, Chipman, on June 30, the service being conducted by Rev. Mr. Crandall. Interment was made at Chipman.

NO STRIKE

New York, July 13.—A strike of 15,000 clerks, station men and freight handlers on the sixteen New York Central lines was averted yesterday when union officials and the executives signed a "satisfactory settlement" covering wages, vacation pay, sick leave compensation and the "arming" of freight handling contracts.

RED SPY SYSTEM IS DISCLOSED

Death Penalty for Agents Who Fail — Paris Police Make Discoveries.

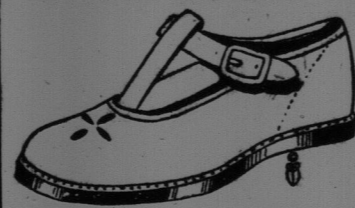

Paris, July 13.—Light on the extent of the ramifications of Soviet organizations throughout Europe and the audacity with which their agents carry on their work has been discovered by the Paris police, who have found traces of the spy bureau of a secret council which, according to Russian Nihilist traditions, condemns to death and executes any of its members who disobey the instructions received.

Ex-Premier Kerensky, who still plays an active part in Russian politics among the exiled Russian colony here, recently discovered that one of his secretaries, an officer in the Russian army, had been abstracting a number of important documents. Suspecting from the nature of the stolen documents that the theft could only have been prompted by a desire to serve Bolshevik interests, Kerensky, after a stormy interview, dismissed his secretary, at the same time reporting him to the French police.

The police at once made a search of the ex-officer's lodging, and of the Latin quarter room of a young Russian girl student at the Sorbonne, who was his friend and associate. It was here that evidence was discovered of the recent execution of two Bolshevik spies, who failed to carry out instructions from the Central Council.

The victims, who were condemned to die at a secret court-martial, were requested to visit a Soviet agent. Received with effusive hospitality, they were invited to take tea from a steaming samovar. Various matters were discussed, the men again being charged with a mission, this time imaginary. Returning home, both died the same evening, the tea having contained a deadly slow poison.

When the bodies were discovered by the landlord a letter was found announcing their intention to commit suicide, which was a clever forgery, but at the time was accepted by the police as bona fide. The affair would, therefore, have been quickly forgotten had not the facts come to light.

Russian circles here are greatly perturbed, especially in view of the fact that the officers implicated in the theft of Kerensky's documents is the son of a well-known Russian general. The police have arrested him. It is known that the keenest Paris detectives are now hot on the track of the members of the secret Soviet council here and arrests are possible within the next few days.

MANY ANIMALS BURNED IN THE FOREST FIRES

Victoria, B. C., July 13.—Animals were great sufferers in the Merrville fire disaster. Thousands of game birds were roasted alive, trapped in the flames which covered an area fifteen miles long and two to five miles wide. A herd of deer was also burned to death.

Cows in field and barns had their hair singed off, udders burned, and the gelatine in their hoofs melted off. Most of these were also burned to death. Others wandered around the woods in this condition are being constantly seen. Some horses were destroyed by the flames. Thousands of domestic chickens were burned to death.

Big Special Purchase Sale of Summer Porch Frocks

Tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock we commence a big sale of Gingham and Cotton Porch Dresses. They are frocks we were able to secure at a big saving price and we are anxious to give our customers the benefit of the transaction.

Styles are new and wholly attractive; materials are fresh and good wearing; and prices are so low that every woman can afford to have an unlimited supply.

There are styles suitable for street, porch, afternoon or morning wear—and all are exceptionally well made.

We have had three outstanding numbers sketched for this advertisement. These can be found in our stocks exactly as represented in the drawing.

No. 474—This is a smart frock of figured print in small patterns with red, blue or black predominating. It is fashioned with short sleeves, roomy pockets, square neck and attractive, wide, tie-back sash. Dress is trimmed with plain materials to match cut in points as indicated in cut. All sizes from 34 to 44 inch.

Only 1.95 Each

No. 473—Pipings of black give a decidedly smart finish to this frock of flowered print. The waist is made slightly long and is most becoming to the average figure. Skirt has two fancy pockets and waist may be adjusted in size by means of a narrow sash. All sizes from 34 to 42 inch.

Only 1.95 Each

No. 470—Strong gingham is used for this frock, and it is showing in an assortment of small, medium and large checks. Orchid, tan, navy, black, pink, blue and lip-stick red with white. A narrow pleated edge is effectively used to trim the pockets, front pleat and white collar and cuffs. Small black ribbon bows at neck and sleeves add a little touch of distinction. A wide tie-back sash gives just the needed finish. All sizes from 34 to 44 in.

Only 3.95 Each

Women who really know values will appreciate this special offering. We advise early selection if you would have your choice of sizes and colors.

No appropriation; no exchange.
