The Evening Chit-Chat By RUTH CAMERON

In Answer to my appeal for suggestions as to ways in which a college girl could earn money during the summer vacation and yet not undermine her health, several interesting ideas have been sent in.

One occupation suggested is that of companion to blind people. By applying at institutions for the blind, positions of this sort may sometimes be obtained.

Another possibility is that the college girl might get an opportunity to care for and live in a house where people are away for the summer. The subscriber who sent in this suggestion says she knows of a mother and daughter who always find this work to do through the summer through their who sent in this suggestion says she knows of a mother and daughter who always find this work to do through the summer through their church affiliations.

Another woman says: "Just this morning I received a communication from a large publishing house to act as their traveling agent at $15.00 a week and expenses, but as I am a mother and a housewife, my duties are at home. Now, it seemed to me that to an energetic college girl this travel would give the needed rest, and also be cernuncrative. I shall probably take up the work at home on a smaller scale, as it is a work my heart is in, but I would be glad to put some one in the way of obtaining this place, as I suppose there are many just such chances."

For a college girl who does not have to earn much money, but who cannot exactly afford to lay out money in going away for the vacation, the following suggestion might be of use. I say "for a girl, who does not need to earn much money," because I suppose a good part of her earnings would be eaten up by fares.

"I will tell you what I learned at Yellowstone Park two years ago this summer. The help the government hires is nearly all college help. The matron of one of the camps was a teacher from a Pennsylvania college, and she brought two of the college girls with her. They made the beds and took care of the tents—were there at eleven and had the rest of the day to go over the interesting parts of the camp. They were allowed to transfer from one camp to another. In this way they visited all the points of interest. The lady help is paid from $30 a month and board up. For particulars write Wylie Camp, Gardner, Yellowstone Park."

"Mothers' Helper." is another position which a reader thinks college girls might fill during the summer to their own and other people's profit.

"It isn't always easy to get any. Now, I believe that a girl who would be willing to do anything that came to hand (I will except the weekly washing and ironing. That would be saking too much), and whose pride would not prevent her from helpfung the

A page from the new Encyclopaedia Britannica. India Paper: A story told in

It has been said that the employment of India paper has more than doubled the usefulness of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. The striking improvement is the more attractive since, in the reduction by two-thirds of its bulk and weight, the book loses nothing in the legibility of its pages and makes a distinct gain in strength. As a test of its wearing qualities, a page of the new Encyclopaedia Britannica was folded and tied into knots, passed through a small ring, crumpled into a tight ball. It was then opened out, when a few strokes from a hot iron brought the page back absolutely to its original state.
