INFLUENCE OF GREAT PEOPLE

(American Exchange.)
It cannot be denied that there is an advantage in permitting children seeing and hearing great and good men, when an opportunity presents itself. The thing many of the nation are so much in need of is traveling about our country that almost every neighborhood has a privilege of a visit.

Sometimes parents do not consider anything is to be gained by taking use men. The particular individuals may have no special interest for them personally, or they may entertain some antipathy toward them. The children may manifest no interest in the matter. Yet the sight of men of achievement may cause a change of mind and interest.

In an age of widespread worship of money, it certainly is worth while to impress upon children the influence and usefulness of great and good personalities who attain their positions through the betterment of mankind, apart from the purely commercial.

The child should see the president, the governor, the college presidents, the artists, the writers, and other strong men who represent achievement. Hearing of them is not apt to impress a child like sight.

Tuition, running after great people to hear them, of course, is not recommended, but let children see these men as part of the crowds that gather about them, or better still as part of the audiences that come to listen to them. If the particular man has come upon the people, has fought his own way, the child is apt to impress a child like sight.

John D. Rockefeller, running after great people to hear them, of course, is not recommended, but let children see these men as part of the crowds that gather about them, or better still as part of the audiences that come to listen to them. If the particular man has come upon the people, has fought his own way, the child is apt to impress a child like sight.

John D. Rockefeller, running after great people to hear them, of course, is not recommended, but let children see these men as part of the crowds that gather about them, or better still as part of the audiences that come to listen to them. ## GOVERNMENT OPERATION OF THE RAILWAYS

President Wilson's Signature to Bill Marks Completion of Great Plan in the United States

Washington, Mar. 22—President Wilson's signature to the bill for government operation of railroads until twenty months after the war, completes the plan for the greatest undertaking in government control of privately owned public utilities the war has brought to America.

Early in August 1916, the war cloud was growing ominous, so an act was passed empowering the president, through the secretary of war, to take control of and utilize all systems of transportation in a national emergency. President Wilson employed this authority on December 28, 1917, taking possession of the lines and appointing Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo director general of railroads.

Engaged in a war requiring every bit of national effort to insure success, the president believed it was imperative that the government direct all operations so that adequate means might be had to expedite troop movements, move war supplies, and care for the generally abnormal strain on the transportation system.

The flow of khaki-clad men had to proceed to the ports of embarkation without interruption; shells, cartridges and rifles had to be moved from munitions centers; foodstuffs had to be transferred from the granaries of the west, and ample provision had to be made for the output of the mines. In addition to military needs, the country had experienced during the winter of 1917 the greatest breakdown and congestion of the transportation system ever known.

At a stroke of the president's pen the roads came under federal administration. Property rights were not purchased—the government merely exercised its authority to operate the lines and provision was made for safe-guarding the proprietary interests of investors.

At the request of the president, congress then set about to enact a law to carry out the step taken as an emergency under the law of 1917.

In substantial accord with President Wilson's recommendation, the law provided that the compensation estimated at $845,000,000 annually, shall be predicated on average net earnings for the three-year period ending June 30, 1917. The amounts will be ascertained by the Interstate Commerce Commission and certified to the president, who will negotiate with the roads for their acceptance. Ordinary taxes, such as national or state, shall be paid out of operating revenue.

RECENT DEATHS

Mrs. Savoy of Chatham, wife of Sergeant Joseph Savoy of the Royal Engineers, now wounded in England, was found dead in bed at noon yesterday. She has been in poor health for some time. The cause of death was heart trouble.

The death of Miss Marion Moffatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Moffatt of Midland, Kings county, occurred on last Sunday. On Wednesday the eldest child, Lewis, also died. Both deaths were caused by diphtheria, from which the two little girls remaining and the mother are suffering.

THE ONLY MEDICINE FOR LITTLE ONES

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she will use nothing else. Their use teaches her they are absolutely safe; that they never fail to give relief and that the little ones do not suffer taking them as they do castor oil and other harsh purgatives. Concerning the Tablets, Mr. John M. Weaver, Blenheim (N. B.), says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for the past ten years and have found them so good I always keep a box in the house." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Toronto, Mar. 22—Early in the present session of the Legislature, J. C. Elliott, West Middlesex, introduced a bill to give women the right to sit in the Legislature. So far the government has side-stepped this bill, and it is one of the most important measures to come up next week. There is more special action at the buildings over the fate of this bill than has been displayed over any other legislation.

It is believed that the government will embody Mr. Elliott's suggestion in a bill of their own and after the war women will have the right to take part in the debates of the legislative assembly.

A prohibition petition, a fifth of a mile in length, was placed in the hands of the Massachusetts legislature.

TRIBUTES TO MEMORY OF THE LATE JOHN ROSS

The Nova Scotia Bar Society
Deeply Regrets the Death of Worthy Member

At a meeting of the Nova Scotia Bar Society in Halifax the bench and bar paid tribute to the memory of the late John T. Ross, who died in St. John. The attendance at the meeting was large and included His Lordship Chief Justice Harris and Messrs. Justices Russell, Ritchie and Chisholm.

W. A. Henry, K. C., president of the society, presided. He referred to his long acquaintanceship and friendship with Mr. Ross, beginning many years back when Mr. Ross taught mathematics in a school which Mr. Henry attended. Every member of the bar in the province practically had come into personal contact with the deceased during his long professional career and all felt in the performance of his duty and was a man who made many friends but no enemies.

Mr. Justice Russell said it was fitting that an occasion of this kind should not be allowed to go unmarked. The late Mr. Ross was among the men held in high esteem by the profession. Ever friendly, the deceased and his wife were associated in business for many years, had been fellow members of organizations and societies, and His Lordship said he had never had reason to waver in his idea of the sterling character of Mr. Ross, a thorough man of integrity and character without intellectual or moral blemish. His Lordship had feared, through correspondence with the deceased's brother, that Mr. Ross's case
