

A photograph taken from the perspective of the Space Shuttle Challenger, showing the Canadarm reaching out to grasp the Space Shuttle Columbia. The shuttle is oriented vertically, with its nose pointing upwards. The Canadarm is a long, white, cylindrical structure with a gripper at the end. The shuttle's white thermal blankets and various instruments are visible. The background shows the launch pad and the surrounding infrastructure.

SCIENCE DIMENSION

1982/1

Canadarm flies! / Haut la main!