

Abraham

"I go childless." Be it thine,
To spin a finer, purer, golden thread,
The starry hosts and silver, sandy beach,
They fail to count the number of thy seed.
The good Damascus man is not thine heir,
Nor will the tribes be gathered to his breast,
The resting place of saints shall claim thy name,
The welcome, lasting, synonym of heaven.