A VALIANT WIFE

(By James Connolly in Donahoe's.) It was Tom Moore with his "Lalla Rookh" that first filled my boyish fancy, my head and heart, with infinite longings to see something of the charms of "that delightful province of the Sun." So I still lacked two years of being out of my teens when I shipped as able seamen in the clipper ship "Chieftain," bound for Calcutta. She was commanded by Captain Stephen Maguire, who for all his deep water dignity and quarterdeck aristoctatic airs had a look of instinctive kindness on his manly, bronzed | Sore Throat, Pains in Chest, Asthma, Bronchitis, face. There were unmistakable indications of masterful physical strength in the swing and poise of his athletic six feet stature. We knew, too, that the judicious use of this strength had been chiefly instrumental in winning his way, at thirty-five, to the command of such a ship as the Chief-

But it was not the beauty of our fine new ship and the robust competence of our captain that gave such hopeful promise of a pleasant voyage. This came for the most part from the

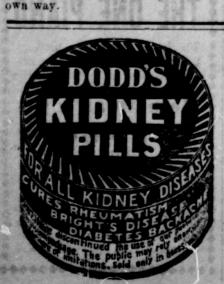

would lack sufficient entertainment for light which had gone out of the ship topsail to it. the great majority whose fancy or with her. feeling seldom goes down to the sea | The new pilot with his crew of las- forenoon watch below, discussing the ing sail, were sent below, Ned Seein ships. So it must suffice to say cars was on board next morning by "old woman's" equipment for cap-ley knocked down and jumped on Bill of our passage that it was as pleas- three o'clock, and at sunrise had the tain. By eight bells we had rated her Dockery for calling her "a bloody, and as such passages possibly can be, ship unmoored and wafted out to a "one-one-three-three," the highest man-killin hamphitrite." all the way. There were times, of buoy in mid-stream, hanging by a class given any ship or master, by The Chieftain lay wallowing in the course, "running the eastern down," single hawser ready for a start. With any forecastle tribunal. And those toppling sea, within sight of Cape La far south, among the great ice is the sea pilot and tug came the fine who know something of what goes to Ghulas light, when a southeaster lands, before the heavy westerly gales American captains. The start was make up the most competent master sprang up. It first showed itself in and mountainous seas, when it seem- made at once, ere the seven beach- or mate know also that there is no ripples on the blue sides of the overed that even the Chieftain must be comers come to take the places of the more unerring tribunal than the topping seas, and then struck upward overwhelmed. Yet even then a chance four deserters and three who died ship's forecastle, on points of seaman- into the slatting sails, freshening as glimpse of Mrs. Maguire's face from our forecastle, had time to put ship. through a window gave one fresh away their scanty outfits for the voy- The pitching and diving bows under the metallic blue overhead. With radiates from one centre was never their last orgy, and Mr. Harding, vive the invalid. more gratefully felt than during that our second mate, made slow headway "Let her go on the starboard tack, her course, ere one of the fleet of half three months' passage from Sandy in shaking a little life into them. Mr. Molly, over under the lee of the An- a score of foreigners in sight had Hook. And when the Chieftain hove Inches, our mate, charged him to be daman Islands," he advised her. started to turn out their reefs. In her main topsail to the mast off the cautious and not to let Captain Ma- "Have smoother water and less head the last hour of the middle watch, mouth of the Hoogly River, to take guire see any of his drastic handling current." one of those high and mighty Calcut- of the men. ta pilots on board, every man of the "Ay, ay, sir!" came the answer, your poor sick head about such northwest around the stormy cape. twenty-two of us in her forecastle "that's the devil of havin' a woman things. wished the passage had been a month capt'n." or two longer.

homedan's "sacred stream" there was Mrs. Maguire went on shore with her come. husband to stop at the Great Eastern

Then cordial good-byes were said by hope for. But the sea grew smooth- been ruffled by storm or lashed to fa-Hotel. From that hour the light the captains and a safe and quick paster, and on the third day out the ship tal rage by hurricane or cyclone, were seemed to have gone out of the ship, sage home wished to Mrs. Maguire as was able to show her three royals to peculiarly pleasing and restful to and we lasped back into the old, rude, her friends got on board the big pil- the steady breeze. During the eleven both. But to Mrs. Maguire's grief, seafaring ways.

atmosphere of the riverside fens in- to the waiting tug. The barge re- Maguire's health. Nearly every day, er. tensified the gloom and unrest. By turned to the captain's gangway and just after dinner, when the weather "I don't wonder a mite at your good soul, to treat his patients, his mouth of the great river, bore us conversed with him as his moods gale to brace him up. pleasant discourse and rollicking ways down the bay at a speed of five knots. changed, with an occasional eye cast "When he's well, Steve dear. Come, mitigating more pains than his pre- For a brief moment her woman's aloft at the weather seech of the miz- sit up now," putting an arm under scriptions. come on board, as was his custon of men, and sail her ship safely more guire had by this time got her sea "Let me lift him for you, Captair a morning, for several days after the than half the distance around the legs so well on from walking the Maguire," said Harding, who had the loading of our homeward cargo was world, through gale, calm, current decks in her watches out that she had watch on deck, coming to her aid. by steamer, and applied for appoint- New York. was a thorough navigator, and suffi- her from the main deck. ciently skilled in seamanship to take "Best take the lee one on the rail with their work. one of themselves. He at first laugh- yet a while, sir!" ed at the idea of putting a woman in that this was the only means of get- with her husband. She could trust r'member, sweetheart, 'twas off there tain a bit more strength. Inches are ting her husband home alive. This their faithful Japanese steward Keto we had all three sticks blown out of Harding were as happy and proud last appeal settled his consent, and who had sailed four years with them the Electric by the board, and Cap- their ship in her spotless beauty

Every Hour Delayed IN CURING A COLD IS DANGEROUS.

You have often heard people my: "Its only a cold, a triffing cough," but many a life history

DR. WOOD'S NOR-WAY PINE SYRUP.

It is a pleasant, safe and effectual remedy, that may be confidently relied upon as a specific Group, Whooping Cough, Quinzy, and all affec-

Mrs Stephen E. Strong, Berwick, N.S., writes: "I have used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup for Asthma, and have found it to be a grand medicine, always giving quick relief. We would not be without a bottle of it in the house."

Dr. Woods Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper. Three Pine Trees is the trade mark and the price 25 cents at all des Refuse substitutes. Demand Dr. Wood's and got it.

appearance of a woman who was driv- all the business of getting the ship got above the tops on their run aloft en up to the gangway in a carriage, reahy for sea, but Mrs. Maguire had to furl the royals when the monsoon bravely, were worse than the gales, and, save the shipping of one great and helped on board the Chieftain by to appear in the custom house herself struck the ship, like the blow of a With no wind to steady her, she rollthe mate and captain, half an hour to sign her clearance papers. Her heavy wet blanket. "Hard starboard ed and slatted in the trough of that before we put to sea on that Bleak invalid husband was carried on board ye'r wheel, helmsman!" she ordered terrible short sea so as to almost to handsomely on the starboard tack. two, she must go to Philadelphia to March morning. The lady was Mrs. in a sedan chair, on the afternoon of firmly. "Call all hands, trim sail, tear Mrs. Maguire out of her husthe day prior to our sailing. Burke Mr. Inches. Brace her sharp up on band's boots. During the worst of it A March nor'wester has a rare skill and his Baboo accompanied the party, the starboard tack, sir." The watch she could simply sit on the deck clingin deepening the rose tints on a wo- bringing on board a fresh supply of below had been already called to ing to ringbolt or bithead with both man's cheek, more especially if she be medicines for the voyage. We could breakfast and jumped out on the run, hands, looking aloft at the tossing, running off shore before it, looking hardly realize that the pale, spent in- and, amid the deafening shock of flap-quivering spars. back wistfully at the facing land- valid in the chair was our strappin ping sails, soon had the reeling ship scape astern as she leans on the arm robust captain of a couple of months braced up and trimmed down to the sure, on deck or below, had an inex-

On board the big side-wheel tug carried the invalid on deck, to a a mouse, or we reach over on that Atlantic. Mrs. Maguire looked, and which towed the Chieftain up the Masightly place on top of the aftereast coast of the bay. Comin' on tofelt, like one from whose shoulders house, under the double awnings. ward change of the monsoon now, an' some intolerable burden had been more profanity in one day, amongst There his wife sat by him most of it's the worst place outdoors for cy- lately removed. She left the business her officers in driving her crew of the forenoon, leaving the care of her clones." thirty native lascars around deck, ship to their friends. The freshets "Please don't worry about such her seamanlike appearance all to her than there had been on board our were still strong, and there was things, Steve. Mr. Inches is of him-officers. So steady blew the trades ship for the whole passage. But the therefore some danger in making the self a whole weather bureau, in these that during the three thousand miles instability of human growth, upward, shorter turns round the several quick- waters. Lift the Captain back in his run up to the equator neither brace, the ship had reached home by mail in turn like her; it makes her steps was never more palpably seen or felt sands, with a twenty-five foot draft cot, please, steward." than in our case. It ended in fact ship. But Sand Heads was reached in Over nearer the Siam coast we did Maguire had the most part of that on the day we got the ship moored safety an hour before sunset. All sail not pick up the favorable slants of fortnight to devote to the better care to the buoys in the muddy river had been made on the ship before the wind which a c ose study of Findlay's of her husband. abreast of the "city of palaces" and time for letting go. the hawser had sailing directions, and her husband's The tranquil aspect of these seas ot's barge alongside, manned by a days anxious beating down the bay her husband, for all his quiet pleas-The scorching heat and miasmatic dozen uniformed lascars, and put out there was little change in Captain antries of talk, seemed to grow weak-We had not seen Captain Maguire How could she rule all these rough was minding his steering. Mrs. Ma- take your medicine.' begun. This, of course, naturally and climate of every zone? And at become habituated to the spread roll- To avoid the calms and baffling air bred conjectures that something had the same time nurse and doctor as ing step. When she had her ship well of the more usual crossing, Captain befallen him. We dare not ask any of best she could her poor sick husband? swell of the southeast trades, with a Maguire ran her ship several degrees our officers, and the doctor was sim- With a desperate effort she summoned twelve-knot breeze piping over the further west. She sighted Cape St ply deaf to our appeals for informa- up her resolute will, and looked con- quarter, she strode the decks in the Roque, swung short around it in the tion as to what had happened. When fidently aloft to see that the yards sharp lurches as steadily as the best nor west current, and ran out of the the slip was nearly loaded we were were trimmed shipshape. She started man of them. She was now master of southeast into the northeast trades told that a severe attack of the chol- on a brisk walk fore and aft the wea- the situation in fact as well as in without taking in her topmast stud era had left Captain Maguire a mere ther side of the poop, as she had so spirit, even though her physical ding sail. Sighting the island of Bar physical wreck. There was talk of often seen her husband do on such strength was not quite what she badoes she coasted up the east sid the Consul General appointing a new occasions, and the exercise presently could wish. Yet with the ship aver- of the Windward Islands, with all captain, our mate not having suffi- redoubled her confidence in herself, aging ittle short of three hundred the wind piping in over her star cient navigation to take the ship She remembered other women who miles a day there were some bright board quarter that she could awin home. But Mrs. Maguire protested had done far more dangerous and dif- moments of anticipation in her life, her royals to. against having her husband sent home ficult things than sailing a ship to The swinging cot which she had the Things ran as lively and smoothly took up her case, assuring the Consul -Captain?" questioned the mate, drove the ship so hard as to keep the painting and polishing the ship. There

"Ay, ay, s-er-Captain!"

By midnight we were down past the overboard. 'Twas rigging jury masts heavy northwest gale and thick show ridge lightship. As the weather was and getting the ship home under 'em, storm, lasting forty-eight hours, which settled and barometer steady, Mrs. under such difficulties, that made me struck the Chieftain a little north Maguire felt safe in leaving Harding master so young, Molly." in charge of the deck, with orders to "Of course I remember the happiest their ardor. To the worst of the call her on the first sign of any change days of my life, Steve, dear." For Captain Maguire, again in her hu and to watch the sidelights, log, and the first time since he was taken ill band's oilskins and rubber boot heave the lead every hour. Her mind was too preoccupied, with brance of a variety of delightful hap-foretopmast staysail reaching of anticipations of things that might penings shortly following his promo- shore into the western edge of happen, for rest or sleep that night! tion. She stole softly up and down the af- Running down the trades the cap- to in the strength of the current at ter companionway every few minutes tain of course left Harding in charge let her drift to windward. The s for a look around at the weather, and of the deck, as she had always seen here was, of course, simply tremer ahead at the monsoon woolsack clouds her husband do. But even there she dous, but the Chieftain could stand i piling up higher and higher as the slept in her clothes, with one eye op- and Captain Maguire was in a hurr sultry moonlit night waned. A free en, "ready for a jump." Yet by the home. quent trip into the chart room, to time she sighted the east end of Ma- It was a bitter cold nor'west ga study over courses and distances, and dagascar and passed over into the into which the wind flew, after the another look into the salling cirec- Mozambique channel she was pretty last blinding snow squall, followed by decision upon the best tack to put her voyage, soon to court. impede his recovery in the least.

scarcely struck when the pile of woolsack clouds which had stood still all shape. up the bay. Mrs. Maguire presently head on into the long swell. It was But when some days later, she, under Yet he soon saw that she had adoptwise prepare for the oncoming burst fore and aft and down all light fore Ghulas bank, she looked to be getand aft sails, Mr. Inches.'

The men sprang to obey ere the mate had repeated her orders. But in her eagerness to make every mile of she had hung on to her "flying kites" The American captains attended to a little too long. The men had not ingo. Yet with his wife, somewhat strong breeze. By the middle of the haustible theme of interest in their interesting to the nautical-minded, paled by her cares, came back the could show nothing above an upper of the last gale, when the starboard first day watch.

courage. The cheerful influence which age. They were still dazed from into the high head sea seemed to re- her three royals aboard the Chieftain teaching, had led Mrs. Maguire to and skies, never yet known to have carpenter rig up kept her husband too, with her officers and men, i ment to sail the ship home herself. "Have both anchors taken in on the from feeling the greater part of the their strenuous duties of tarring The other American captains in port rail, or leave 'em in the shoes, s-er pitching and lurching, even while she down, scraping, oiling, varnishing

Abreast of Garden Beach his friends the weather, Molly, as a cat watches regular southeast trades of the South

General that though a woman she touching his hat as he looked up at main deck so flooded that the watches was no spot about the ship in which on deck were driven aft on the poop Mrs. Maguire might look without see the ship home quite as well as any and let the weather hang in the shoe Best not drive her too hard, Mol- oil on the spars and polished deck ly," warned the invalid one day when were the finishing touches, as w she was giving him his medicine. fanned up the "horse latitudes." The charge of such a ship. But when he The half dozen outward bound ships "She'd go bout 's fast with the roy- new sails were int for the final came to talk with her on the matter were now well under steerage way, als in, I guess, 'n' give the Mauritius home-coming struggle. he soon saw that the captains were and the nighest far enough of for her a wide berth. Worst hurrivanes it The cool snap of a norther blowing right. She furthermore assured him to go below a few seconds for a word ever blow gyrate thereabouts. You up off Bermuda gave the invalid can tions of the bay—as helps to a final well rested for the nardest tussle of a steely glare on the horizon. This in with a rush-varied the weary mo- guire reached over toward the Afri- dead reckoning Sandy Hook was now notony. Her husband, when she can coast, so as to strike the sou'- bearing about west. To "ware ship" quietly drew the mosquito bar of his west La Ghulas current off Natal. She in such a sea was a trial from which cot aside to see how he was resting, sighted the mountains a little to the many a seasoned captain would have volunteered advice upon this problem. westward, and in the variable winds shrunk. But Captain Maguire knew But with finger to her lips she signal- worked down handsomely into the from a certain sort of human sympaed him to silence lest the effort might current, in sight of land, toward the thy that her ship was good for it. stormy cape. New heavy-weather So mounting the top of the after-The toast and cup of strong coffee sails were bent, and extra lashings house, whence she could see out over which the stewart brought her from held all things movable about decks. the thick, low bank of vapor shroudthe galley at daylight refreshed and The carpenter fitted heavy storm ing the surface of the sea, she sang stimulated her. Seven bells in the doors and screwed them on to the out, "All hands ware ship there, sir. morning watch (half-past seven) had cabin, forecastle and galley doors, and "Ay, ay, sir-er-Capt'nt" answerput skylight and window shutters in ed Inches, who had the watch on ting the worst of the fight.

In her husband's sou'wester, long oilskin coat, and rubber boots, Mrs. Maguire stood or walked the poop, offing possible with the land breeze with the tremendous hail and rain squalls pelting her in the face.

> The brief calms following those two gales, which the Chieftain weathered The jib was hauled down and furled,

The men in their moments of leiwatch, after being up nearly all their We kept one another awake all that watch below, waring ship and mak-

the leaden dabs of cloud overspread was bowling off her eight knots on with the light broad on her star-"Yes, dear, but pray don't bother board beam, she swung aft to the

The wind held steady all next day "Have to watch your barometer and and night, and then settled into the tack, or sheet was started. So Mrs.

the time our outward cargo was dis- took the pilot off. Mrs. Maguire now was fine, Inches and Harding carried love of these quiet, lazy latitudes, charged seven men were laid up in stood alone on her ship. A light land him in his cot up the forward com- Molly," he bantered, "but a man the forecastle on Dr. Burke's hands. breeze, together with the off shore panionway to the lee side of the cock must have the spur and stimulus of He came on board every morning, current flowing ever seaward from the pit. There his wife read to him, or the snow storm and freezing nor west heart must have failed the captain. sen-royal to see that the helmsman his neck to help him, "it's time to ing herself. A couple more coats

he bade her go ahead and have her to give the patient medicine on time. tain Farnell and eight men swept any bridegroom of his bride. But the Cape Hatteras, put a damper on she laughed out at the vivid remem- swung her two lower topsails ar Gulf Stream, where she hove her shi was about sunset, and the wind prethe ship on when the monsoon struck On her husband's advice Mrs. Ma- sently hauled northerly again. By her deck, running down to call Harding, night started on a lively movement | The ship herself lifted her bows after repeating the captain's orders with a stately, heroic defiance to the to his watch. But he stood aghast heard the sodden sound of the coming first of the long southwest swell that a brief moment at her next order to wind and rain. The ship was diving came rolling up past Port Elizabeth. "loose the inner jib" in such a gale. high time to shorten sail and other- two lower topsails in a sou'west ed about the only sure and safe way gale, lunged heaving into the toppling of getting the ship's head off in safe of the storm. "Clew up your royals walled sea, on the outer edge of La season in such a sea. She could see the tops of the combers out over the bank, and when the last of three of the biggest had broken, grasping the monkey rail tighter with both hands she ordered, "Up helm, lively, men Hoist away your jib, sir, and stand by to square in the after yards."

> Her orders were promptly obeyed. sea that gutted the forecastle galley and carpenter's shop, the ship came During the night sail was crowded on as the gale moderated. Before noon of next day she was well in shore of the gulf. With a good morning sight, and meridian altitude of the sun, Captain Maguire was enabled to get her true position on the chart. Well in on sounding, the sea had gone down so that with her three royals A record of that passage, however thinner, and with face saddened and forenoon it came so heavy that we "handsome captain." At the tail end set the ship logged nine knots in the Throughout the clear night the number of green and red sidelights and bright masthead lights of steamers, in sight from the Chieftain's decks, increased. In the colder wind, towards morning, freezing the flying as the procession of carriages moved spray on the head-gear, the watch on deck already sniffed a flavor of land. Inches had the morning watch on deck and just after five bells, was himself first to sight the pilot boat's flashlight on the weather beam. But he did not call Captain Maguire just then. There would be pilots and pilots on such a morning, when she came out at seven bells. A little later he could see the same pilot boat shake out her reefs, and crack on all sail in chase of them. By eight bells she was within hailing distance on healthy action, they correct impurithe ship's weather quarter. There ties in the blood. were half a dozen binoculars turned on Captain Maguire when she came up the after-companion and began her morning walk.

tomary exchange of greetings with amused; laugh at yourself for being the pilot, and learning from him that bored. There is always something to her reckoning was "about right," laugh at, and even when one is reof fitting and cleaning the ship up for ion that you could scarcely recognize This is what laughter does for a her as the same Captain Maguire who woman: It keeps her heart young; it had brought that ship home.

> more than a month ahead of her. buoyant; it keeps her eyes bright; it So there were scores of fine carriages keeps her face from wrinkling; it is strung along the pier, their occupants a beautifier second to no other one; eagerly waiting for the Chieftain to it does for the muscles of the face get close enough to afford them a what exercise does for those of the sight of this female prodigy, her cap- body-keeps them supple and prevents tain. There was too, a delegation of them from falling into those stiff and ladies escorted by the collector of the settled lines which mean old age. port and several of his officials, who There is no situation in life, except ed to Mrs. Maguire their congratula- ments, that nay not be tettered by their guests she regretted to have pessimistic over personal woes.

Gladly Tells About It.

STRATFORD, Ont. I are glad you have an agent in this city. I have seen several instances where Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic has been used with great benefit.

REV. E. B. KILROY, D.D.

While recovering from a broken leg, I was attacked by nervous prostration, presumably due to the shock of the fall. A 'ter twelve months I was still in the same conditan, had poor appetite, could not sleep or work, not even sew or read, was troubled with melancholia. Then I began to take Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic and grew steadily better. Am now in good health and spirits. My son knows that Mr. J. Cullen, of West Point was also cured by the Tonic of Vertigo, to which he was very much subject. I also learned of a little girl in Mulgrave, Nova Scotia, being cured of St. Vitus Dance by the Tonic.

A Valuable Book on Nervous Discass.

A Valuable Book on Nervous Diseases and a Sample bottle to any address.

Poor patients also get the medicine free. Prepared by the Rev. Father Koenig, of Fort Wayne, Ind., since 1876, and to decline. For the present she would have to go with her husband to the marine hospital. Then as soon as she could leave him for a day or see their three children, whom they had left in care of the Sisters at the Dominican School. But later when his health was better, she would thankfully accept their courtesies.

KOENIG MED. CO., CHICAGO, ILL. Sold by Druggists at $1.00 per bottle, 6 for $5.00. Agents in Canada: —The Lyman Bros. & Co., Ltd., Toronto; The Wingate Chemic. & Co., Ltd., Montreal.

When the customs officers, helping the invalid captain, close buttoned in his long English topcoat, up the forward companion, showed their heads, the reporters fell upon them.

Comfortably seated in the collector's roomy carriage, the Maguires, driven by the liveried coachman, were given the lead up. Inches and Harding had mustered all hands on the ahead, they gave three cheers for Mrs. Captain Maguire.

A Cure for Rheumatism .- The intrusion of uric acid into the blood vessels is a fruitful cause of rheumatic pains. This irregularity is owing to a deranged and uniealthy condition of the liver. Anyone subject to this painful affection will find a remedy in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. Their action upon the kidneys is pronounced and most beneficial, and by restoring

Do You Often Laugh?

"Yes, we want a pilot," she ans- Don't forget to laugh. Laugh when wered to their hail. After the cus- you are happy; laugh when you are such a change came over her as she duced to laughing at oneself that is went slowly down the after-compan- very much better than to be "glum." makes her like people for the sake of The news of Mrs. Maguire's taking the pleasure they give her, and they came on board the ship, and extend- of course the inevitable tragic motions and appreciative recognition of laughter. It is hard to burlesque her heroic achievement. Scarcely had one's griefs and annoyances, but it she modestly replied, and heartily can be done, and it is worth doing. welcomed them on board the Chief- To travesty one's emotions and to tain, when others, and still others, make a mockery of one's annoyances came crowding, expressing like feel- may not seem to be the highest form ings and sentiments toward this hero- of philosophy, but it is not so low a ine of the sea. Invitations to be one as to fret over trials and grow

FIFTH MONTH 31 DAYS			May BLESSED VIRG
**************************************
DAY OF MONTH	DAY OF WEEK	COLOR OF VESTMENT	1906
1 2 3 4 5	T. W. Th. F. S.	r. w. r. w. w.	SS. Phillip and James, Apostles. S. Athanasius. Finding of the Holy Cross. S. Monica. S. Pius V.
			Third Sunday After Easter
6 7 8 9 10 11 12	Su. M. T. W. Th. F. S.	w. w. w. w. r.	Patronage of S. Joseph. S. Benedict II., Pope. Apparition of S. Michael. S. Gregory Nazianzen. S. Antoninus. S. Alexander. SS. Nereus and Companions.
	F. W. C. S.		Fourth Sunday After Easter
13 14 15 16 17 18 19	Su. M. T. W. Th. F. S.	r. w. w. w. r. r.	S. Stanislaus, Bp. and M. S. Pashal I., Pope. S. John Baptist de la Salle. S. Ubaldus. S. John Nepomucne. S. Venantius, S. Peter Celestine.
0.00	otheres	2000	Fifth Sunday After Easter
20 21 22 23 24 25 26	Su. M. T. W. Th. F. S.	w. w. w. w. w.	Fifth Sunday After Easter. Rogation Day. S. Felix of Cantalicc. Rogation Day. S. Paschal Baylon. Rogation Day. S. John Baptist de Rossi. Ascension Day [of Obligation.] S. Gregory VII., Pope. S. Phillip Neri.
	1 9-70	land.	Sixth Sunday After Easter
27 28 29 30 31	Su. M. T. W. Th.	r. r. w. r. w.	S. John I., Pope M. S. Urban I., Pope, M. S. Boniface IV., Pope, S. Felix I., Pope, M. Octave of the Ascension.
**	***	※※	**************************************
3t 	 Piz	I SE	Octave of the Ascension.  ***********************************