T. H. Hassard, Markham, Ont.,

LATE OF MILLBROOK.—As I have just completed one of the finest stallion barns in Canada, in addition to the large barns purchased last year, I am now in a position to compete with any opposition in the stallion trade. I have made the largest importations of any firm in Canada the last three years, and the quick sales prove that I always have the right kind of horses, and sell at a right price. I intend sailing for Europe in August, to return with a larger and better importation than ever in September, and, consequently, will not be an exhibitor at the Toronto Exhibition, and would strongly advise intending purchasers to wait and see my stock, and judge for yourselves before buying, and not be governed by some of the so frequently done at show fairs. Markham is only 20 miles from Toronto, on the G. T. R., and 3 miles from Locust Hill, on the main line of the C. P. R., where I am always pleased to meet visitors upon short notice, by letter or 'phone. Long-distance 'phone in connection.

For Sale: Choice Clydesdale, Hackney and French Coach Stallions; 100 acres 3½ miles from Meaford:

Close to school. Soil clay loam, free from stone or gravel. 90 acres level. Good house, barn and stables. $3,500 for quick sale. Henry M. Douglas, Box 48, Stayner, Ont.

IMPORTED SHIRES

At their St. Thomas stables, the John Chambers & Sons, of England, have for sale stallions and fillies from their noted Shire stud, high-class representatives of the breed. Correspondence solicited. Address DR. C. K. GEARY, St. Thomas, Ont.

Please Mention Farmer's Advocate.

before her love and tenderness. He suddenly embraced her and kissed her cheeks, while the tears stood welling in his eyes. "I am not worthy of you, Amelie," said he; "so much sisterly care is lost on me!"

"Oh, say not that, brother," replied she, kissing him fondly in return. "I would give my life to save you, O my brother!"

Amelie was greatly moved, and for a time unable to speak further; she laid her head on his shoulder, and sobbed audibly. Her love gained the victory where remonstrance and opposition would have lost it.

"You have won the day, Amelie!" said he; "I will not go to the village, except with you. You are the best and truest girl in all Christendom! Why is there no other like you? If there were, this curse had not come upon me, nor this trial upon you, Amelie! You are my good angel, and I will try, oh, so faithfully try, to be guided by you! If you fail, you will at least have done all and more than your duty towards your erring brother."

"Le Brun!" cried he to the groom who had brought his horse, and to whom he threw the whip which had made such havoc among the flowers, "lead Black Caesar to the stable again! and hark you! when I bid you bring him out in the early morning another time, lead him to me unbridled and unsaddled, with only a halter on his head, that I may ride as a clown, not as a gentleman!"

Le Brun stared at this speech, and finally regarded it as a capital joke, or else, as he whispered to his fellow-grooms in the stable, he believed his young master had gone mad.

"Pierre Philibert," continued Amelie, "is down at the salmon pool. Let us join him, Le Gardeur, and bid him good-morning once more at Tilly."

Amelie, overjoyed at her victory, tripped gaily by the side of her brother, and presently two friendly hands, the hands of Pierre Philibert, were extended to greet her and Le Gardeur.

The hand of Amelie was retained for a moment in that of Pierre Philibert, sending the blood to her cheeks. There is a magnetic touch in loving fingers which is never mistaken, though their contact be but for a second of time: it anticipates the strong grasp of love which will ere long embrace body and soul in adamant chains of a union not to be broken even by death.

If Pierre Philibert retained the hand of Amelie for one second longer than mere friendship required of him, no one perceived it but God and themselves. Pierre felt it like a revelation—the hand of Amelie, yielding timidly, but not unwillingly, to his manly grasp. He looked in her face. Her eyes were averted, and she withdrew her hand quietly but gently, as not upbraiding him.

That moment of time flashed a new influence upon both their lives; it was the silent recognition that each was henceforth conscious of a special regard of the other.

There are moments which contain the whole quintessence of our lives—our loves, our hopes, our failures, in one concentrated drop of happiness or misery. We look behind us and see that our whole past has led up to that infinitesimal fraction of time which is the consummation of the past in the present, the end of the old and the beginning of the new. We look forward from the vantage ground of the present, and the world of a new revelation lies before us.

Pierre Philibert was conscious from that moment that Amelie de Repentigny was not indifferent to him—nay, he had a ground of hope that in time she would listen to his pleadings, and at last bestow on him the gift of her priceless love.

His hopes were sure hopes, although he did not dare to give himself the sweet assurance of it, nor did Amelie herself as yet suspect how far her heart was irrevocably wedded to Pierre Philibert.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Miscellaneous.

WHITING FOR WHITEWASH RECIPE.

In answer to inquiries in "The Farmer's Advocate" about a permanent whitewash, you gave "Spanish whitening" as one of the ingredients. Have tried to get it at several drug and hardware stores in Toronto, but they appear never to have heard of it. Can you tell me if it goes by any other name, or where I would be likely to procure it? (MRS.) T.

Ans.—The recipe referred to is an American one, which has been highly recommended across the line, and has been used by a member of our staff with fair success. Diligent inquiries in this country revealed that none of the druggists consulted knew what Spanish whitening was, but one of them suggested that it might be merely a particular brand of whitening, similar to that sold under other names here. In our experience, an ordinary brand of whitening, obtained locally, was employed.

FITTING BULL FOR EXHIBITION

I wish to prepare a Shorthorn bull, born March, 1908, for the fall exhibition, to be held in October. I wish to learn how to get a sleek, good-looking coat on him, how to groom and feed him for the show-ring, and also how to smooth his horns.

PROSPECTIVE EXHIBITOR.

Ans.—Keep him in a roomy, well-ventilated, clean, and well-bedded box stall or shed, with screened windows, or cheesecloth curtains, to partially darken the stall and exclude flies. A pasture plot, or a yard to run in, is desirable for exercise. If he must be kept tied in a stall, he should be led out for a good walk in the evening. Feed well-cured clover hay, a mixture of ground oats and corn, bran and a little coarse-ground or nutted oil cake, as much as he will clean up in half an hour, twice or three times daily. Keep salt within reach, and give water three times a day. He will not require much grooming until a month before the fair, when he should be kept covered with a light sheet, washed once a week with warm soft water and castile soap, brushed twice a day with a stiff brush, and rubbed down with a woolen cloth. A sharp currycomb should not be used. If the hair is not soft and the skin pliable, a blanket should be used for covering if weather is not warm enough to cause much sweating. Continued hand-rubbing after brushing, tends to soften hair and give a gloss. The hoofs should be kept in good shape by means of a fine saw, or chisel, and a rasp. To smooth the horns, use first a fine rasp, then sand-paper, and, finally, fine emery paper, and oil slightly before showing.

GOSSIP.

VALUABLE IMPORTATION OF CLYDES.

The following highly-bred fillies arrived by Allen Liner Hesperian, on her last voyage, for Ormsby Grange Stock Farm, Ormsby, P. Q. They are from Dr. McEachran's native country, and are of the best blood in Scotland. Two of them are stunted to the Seaham Harbour's celebrated horse, Silver Cup. They are three-year-olds, namely: (1) Kintyre Daisy, sire Broomberry, dam by Superb, grandam by Sir Everard, sire of Baron's Pride. (2) Bess of Knockstaple, sire Gartly Cashier, by Prince Thomas, dam by Gregor McGregor, by McGregor, by Barnley (222). (3) Kintyre Peggie, sire Knight of Angus, by Knight of Cowal, by Gallant Prince, by Prince of Wales (673), dam by Right at Last. These arrived in excellent condition, and are doing well. Dr. McEachran has also had a valuable addition to his stud, his champion mare, bought last October, from Nelson, of Haring Valley, Linlithgow, having dropped a very fine, well-marked foal sired by the noted breeding horse, Sir Hugo.
