PASSENGER STEAMERS COLLIDE IN FOG OFF MASSACHUSETTS COAST

Horatio Hall and H. F. Dimock in Terrific Crash Former Goes to Bottom and Dimock Forced to Run Ashore No Lives Lost—Wireless Heralds News of the Disaster

CHATHAM, Mass., March 10.—Blanketed by a dense fog and proceeding at half speed the well-known coastwise steamer Horatio Hall, from Portland for New York, and H. F. Dimock, from New York for Boston, met in the middle of the narrow channel known as the "Hull" at 8 a. m. today with a crash that sent the Hall to the bottom within a half hour and caused the Dimock to run ashore on Cape Cod beach six hours later, where the passengers and crew of the Hall were landed without the loss of a single soul.

A brief wireless message which the brave operator on the sinking Hall managed to send broadcasted the news of the wreck, but as he failed to give the position, details of the disaster did not become known until the Dimock came ashore half a mile south of the Orleans line, having withstood Cape Cod shortly after 3 p. m. During the six hours of silence hundreds of wireless stations, government, professional and amateur, from Portland to New London, were waiting, deploring to obtain some news of the wreck while the "revenue" cutter Gresham scoured up and down the coast in a vain effort to render assistance.

As the fog cleared away in the early afternoon the Dimock was seen heading for the beach and had an hour later a boat's crew with the five passengers from the Hall, including two women, landed safely on Cape Cod beach and told the story of the thrilling scenes of the early morning.

It appeared that the Horatio Hall left Portland at 10.30 o'clock last night with five passengers, a crew of about forty, some 400 tons of freight and a valuable horse. The Dimock had left New York in the afternoon and both ran into the fog off the southeastern Massachusetts coast about the same time, 1 a. m.

HEADING NORTH

The Dimock had rounded Pollock Rip lightship and was heading toward the north, while the Hall was coming down through the fog and preparing to swing to the westward with that tortuous channel. The fog was very dense, but it was daylight, and both captains were watching frequently. Although accounts vary, it is apparent that there was a misunderstanding of signals, for shortly after eight o'clock the two steamers suddenly loomed out of the fog and before either could sheer off they met in what seemed more like a crushing bar than a terrific crash. The sharp nose of the Dimock went through the side of the Hall abreast (Continued on Page 12).

MAY BE FORCED TO DECLARE WAR

Servia is Concentrating Her Attention on War Plans RUSH PREPARATIONS

VIENNA, Mar. 10.—Servia is not expected to give a reply to the latest Austrian message for a week or more, probably before the end of the month, the position at Belgrade is considered as follows.

Members of the ministry are handicapped owing to their previous warlike and hyperbolic statements. They are particularly hard hit, for it is with great difficulty for them to face the situation with a programme of peace after having supported the cry of territorial concessions or war. Therefore it is in the highest degree probable, as has been previously indicated, that the Novakovich ministry will have to resign.

The native of the English newspaper, which suggest that Austria-Hungary should show play on Servia, drop on her knees, is regarded in fact of the fact that Servia is concentrating almost her entire attention on war preparations, while the Minister of War, General Givkovich, declares that in spite of the advice of all the powers of Europe, Servia will continue the mobilization of her army and put it as a war footing in April, while M. Nenadovich, the Servian minister at Constantinople, is moving heaven and earth to get the unwilling Turkish government to give permission to large consignments of war material destined at Salonica.

Recolid Pacha, the Turkish ambassador, has been seen in the city on the idea of any possibility of a revision of territory in the Balkans of Novibazar, saying:

"You can assure the world that there is no territory belonging to Turkey or any part of her dominions for sale at any price. If an invasion of Turkish territory should take place we are fully able to stop it."

Engaged in Chain and Dragg'd by Horse—Bank Changes—J. E. Alkin—Son Dead.

SACKVILLE, N. B., March 11.—While in the lumber woods near Beach Hill on Monday, Guilford Hicks, of Upper Sackville, met with a bad accident which resulted in the maiming of his collar bone, serious injury to one of his wrists and hands and various minor bruises. Hicks was engaged in staking logs when the horse which he was driving suddenly and unexpectedly broke and fell on him, catching him in the chain which was fastened to the log. The horse was killed and the log was crushed. Hicks was taken to the hospital at Moncton, where he is recovering.

W. H. McLAUGHLIN, WELL KNOWN MASON, DEAD

ST. PETERSBURG, N. B., Mar. 11.—W. H. McLaughlin, a prominent resident of Bellefleur, died at his home in that village, this morning, after an illness of about ten days with gall stones. He was sixty years of age and is survived by a widow and four daughters. He had a well kept farm at Bellefleur and in winter took charge of lumbering operations in the region. He had been employed with the Hackett concern in Argookook Co., Maine. He was a prominent member of the Orange Order and a member of Sumner Lodge, F. and A. M. and will be buried by that order, Friday afternoon. He had represented his parish at the county council for the past three years and was a citizen of integrity and worth.

PARIS, Mar. 11.—Francis, the four year old son of the Duchess De La Rochefoucauld, died today. He had been ill for six weeks of meningitis.

NEWARK, N. J., March 10.—The Rev. Father Erasin Anson, rector of the Polish church of St. Stanislaus, was shot and almost instantly killed by three bullets in his rectory today. Miss Antonia Sewarsky, housekeeper for the rector, who attempted to prevent the assassination, was slightly wounded, but she recovered. The cause has been a dispute among the leaders of the church over its affairs. The shooting was at first believed to have been the outcome of the quarrel between three men, who were unknown to the servants called at the rectory while the rector was holding mass in the church. They were admitted to the parlor and Father Anson was notified of their presence as soon as he returned from mass. As the rector said that Father Anson had been shot, one bullet penetrated the heart near the heart and the two

OPPOSE GRANT FOR ANAPOLIS

Foster Leads Fight Against Harbor Improvements—Bridge Problem TREATY BOTCHED

OTTAWA, March 10.—The improvement of Annapolis shipping facilities was this afternoon discussed by the commons to the exclusion of almost everything else connected with the harbor.

Answering Mr. Fenner, Hon. Mr. Grafton said the usual action made by J. S. Armstrong, C. M. P., of St. John, N. B., that a submarine viaduct should be substituted for the Quebec bridge scheme was impracticable and therefore no action in the direction was called for.

Mr. Boyce asked whether it was true, as stated in newspaper dispatches, that the United States senate had refused the waterway and boundary treaty, but with a resolution attached to meet Senator Smith's objection.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said the information in the dispatch was in its essential points accurate. The treaty had been ratified but with a rider which materially interfered, as he understood it, with the disposition of the water in the St. Mary's River. The treaty had not been ratified, however, by the sovereign of this country. The government had sent a despatch to England with the treaty laid on the table of the Dominion, so that parliament might know exactly what its terms were. He hoped to have it before many days.

The house went into supply on public works estimates. The first item of $46,000 for harbor improvements and ice breakers in Annapolis River provoked long discussion. Mr. Foster advocated vigorous action against the expenditure and was supported by Mr. Ames, Mr. Blain and others. Mr. Phipps said the work proposed would make Annapolis harbor safe for vessels in the winter season. Annapolis harbor was just as important to its district as larger harbors in other provinces upon which large sums had been spent. Vessels had been destroyed in entering the harbor by ice.

Mr. Jameson (Dixie) urged the construction of the bridge across the Annapolis river as a permanent improvement. He was informed that the bridge had been prepared for some time, but it was necessary that there should be a span with a greater draw to meet the requirements of shipping at Westport and he urged that if the company were prepared to build with a wider span the government should contribute towards the cost.

Mr. Phipps said it was the contention of the D. A. R. that if the government wanted them to build in the interests of navigation and for the benefit of the people at Westport, a bridge with a span of 15 to 20 feet should contribute toward the cost. The matter was under consideration, but he was not prepared to say at present whether a span would be built of $45,000 for Annapolis harbor improvements. This was the only actual business transacted as a result of the day's sitting.

FLORENCE INRADE CLOSELY QUESTIONED AT THE INQUEST; NURSE ORDERED FROM ROOM

T. L. Kinrade, Father of Murdered Girl, First Witness Declares Ethel Always Opposed Sister's Stage Career Believes Daughter Was Victim of a Maniac

TORONTO, Mar. 10.—At the Hamilton inquest tonight T. L. Kinrade, the head of the family, was the first witness. He told how his daughter and wife helped his collect rents from his house and how his son built some of his houses for him. His wife was liable to fainting spells, he said, and had been operated on several times. There were no arrangements in the family. Florence went south without his consent in the first instance. She got his approval on the second occasion. She finally came home because of the marked attentions shown her by Baum. She preferred to remain, but her parents thought she had better return to their district, the death of her always opposed to her sister's stage career. The two girls were at their parents' home at a birthday party the night before the tragedy. Kinrade did not know on whose birthday it was.

It was eleven o'clock when Florence Kinrade, the sister of the dead girl, was called. The room was so crowded that the witness came in from the corner's private room and behind his chair in the cot. "Before I proceed I must ask that the nurse leave the room," objected Blackstock. "I understand," replied Hobson, counsel for Kinrade. "That Miss Kinrade's health makes the presence of a nurse necessary. I leave the matter to you, Mr. Coroner."

Coroner Blackstock ruled that the nurse should leave the room. Wright left, and the examination began. At first Miss Kinrade's replies were meagrely evasive, but after a time were made more definite.

Mr. Blackstock—"Miss Kinrade, we learn from your father that you were some time in the south."

"Yes."

"And you went to take an engagement as a soloist in a church at Richmond?"

"What other occupation had you?"

"I sang at a concert."

"At Richmond?"

"In Richmond."

"I see, but in Richmond had you any other occupation?"

"None at all."

Miss Kinrade told of meeting a young Englishman, named in Richmond, Virginia, named Martin Elliot, with whom she made a concert tour of Ontario.

"Did you have any contact with him in England, although Miss Kinrade had heard from her again. She told of meeting Mrs. Kenneth Brown in Toronto and going with her to Syracuse and living together."

"There was no one there? Just Mrs. Brown and yourself?"

"And her maid?"

"She is a widow."

"No."

"Well, where was her husband?"
