

Obituary

The Late Miss Graham

Many friends will regret to learn of the death of Miss Annie M. Graham, youngest daughter of the late John C. Graham, in the home of her sister, Mrs. W. R. Evans, Lansdowne, near Broadview, Sask., after a lingering illness of sixteen months, borne with great patience. She contracted bronchitis while in Winnipeg, sixteen months ago, and after a month in Dr Beattie's Hospital, was removed to the home of her sister, Mrs. Evans, where it was hoped she would recover, but tuberculosis of the lungs setting in, left no hope, and despite all that medical aid and good nursing could do, she passed away at 5.30 a. m. on Wednesday, November 4th, 1914, death coming as a happy release to her sufferings.

The funeral, which was largely attended, showing the high esteem in which the deceased lady was held, took place at ten o'clock on Monday, Nov. 9th, where the remains were laid to rest beside those of her father who predeceased her some eight years ago.

The Rev. Connors, rector of the Grenfell Anglican Church conducted the service, owing to the absence of the Rev. Irwin of Broadview, Sask. The deceased was born in Durham, England, on Sept. 5th, 1838, but came to Brantford, Ont. when three years old with the family, where the greater part of her bright life was spent, the family only moving to the Northwest some nine or ten years ago. The deceased leaves to mourn her sad loss one sister and one brother, viz: Mrs. W. R. Evans (Elizabeth) at whose home she passed away, and George J. agent of the Ogilvy Elevator at Broadview, Sask.

BELVIEW AS POLICE VILLAGE

Committee Explains Situation Which Confronts the Community.

At the meeting of the ratepayers called on Friday evening, the 6th inst., Mr. Urban Bean, Chairman, Mr. R. Collier, Secretary, the committee comprising Messrs. Atwell, Billore and Campion, read their report on the proposed Police Village for part of school section No. 23, covering the suburban districts of Belview and Parkville. The area decided upon at the meeting consists of four hundred and ninety (490) acres and is outlined as follows:—From City line to Mohawk Road to Birkett's Lane, along centre of Birkett's Lane in a southerly direction to end of Lane and northerly along Lotus hedge to river bank and up stream to city line; thence easterly to the point of beginning. It was explained that the assessment for this area totals $375,000.00 and would yield the sum of over $4,000, which could be devoted to local improvement within the village without increasing in the slightest the present tax rate. Hitherto this surplus money has found its way back into the remote parts of the township for the purpose of building bridges and culverts, and the people now believe the time is ripe when a fairer share of their tax money should be spent in their own neighborhood. Considerable misconception in regard to the village proposition, it is claimed, exists in the minds of some, the impression prevailing that in order to erect the locality into a police village it is necessary to employ a regular staff of officials, such as clerk, policeman and local magistrate and that all the funds would be swallowed up in salaries and administration. Such is a mistake, as the management of the village affairs is entirely in the hands of three Trustees, elected annually by popular vote. The appointments carry no remuneration, but their office holding office so voluntarily, the monies being kept in the hands of the Township authorities, who are required to open a separate account for all receipts and disbursements in connection with the village.

It is suggested that the cost of street lighting and the establishment of a regular garbage and night soil service will be two items which at least will be saved from the money which formerly went to benefit other parts of the township. A committee of eighteen ratepayers have been appointed to secure the necessary signatures, the petitions call for a bare majority and tenants have equal rights in voting on the question. It is confidently expected the scheme will receive the popular support it deserves. Urban Bean, C. S. Noble, E. Cornford, W. J. Springle, H. Atwell, F. W. Billore.

MISSING IN AFRICA.

KINGSTON, Ont. Nov. 11.—Capt. Ernest Dale Carr-Harris, aged 35, a graduate of Royal military college and son of Prof. Carr-Harris of this city, is missing in Africa. His father received notice to this effect to-day. It is understood that the Royal Engineers, to which he was attached, was in action against the Germans in some of the British possessions in Africa.

TURKS TAKEN TO ARMOURIES AS PRISONERS

Military Instructions Were Received Yesterday by Commanding Officer

Brantford had its first conception of martial law in operation last night when upwards of 104 Turks, incarcerated in the county jail, were marched under a strong guard from there to the armouries. The guards were fully armed with fixed bayonets and ten rounds of ball ammunition in their pouches, and mustered 30 men under Col. Sergt. Bolt and Lieut. Sager. The spectacle, as the Turks marched along Market street and up Dalhousie, was one that will be long remembered. Each soldier seemed to have attained the acme of his training and their bearing reflected the responsibility that such a mission incurs. The Turks gave no trouble, and went with characteristic Eastern submission, herded along between the khaki lines and glistening bayonets, glancing with furtive eyes at the crowds of onlookers, they presented a picture of downcast and dispirited humanity.

Few who witnessed the passing of the strange procession will ever forget it; it marked one of the many incidents that daily throughout the Empire an empire's entry into the war of nations. Reaching the armouries, the doors parted, and the Duffs lined the immediate vicinity while they passed in. Major Genet in command of the detention depot, for such the armouries must now be reckoned, and all arrangements had been completed for their reception. Many of the captives are Turks who have resided in the Dominion for periods upwards of ten years and are citizens and voters. Enquiries were made for Mr. W. S. Brewster, in whom many of the men seemed to reckon they would find a deliverer. The older men spoke bitterly of the circumstances which have necessitated their incarceration, and blamed the Young Turk party and the machinations of Germany for their plight. They are thoroughly satisfied with Canada, and profess an utter disregard of the old country, and disclaim all desire to share her battles. Many of them can speak excellent English, and it is amusing, if somewhat pathetic, to hear their description of the police raid. One delivered himself in this wise as to his arrest: "Beig cop come all Turk in bed, and say come on to police station; get up! I no have cloths on, I set up leave all my clothes and feel vera cold, go outside and say, 'police, me go back for suit.' Big cop, he You go to—get in the car. I say all my money in box, $178. Big cop he say, 'to—with your money. Get in wagon.' I get in and we go to jail, and with an expressive shrug he added, 'Jail no good, all stunk and no bed,' and with the appealing childish simple faith of the East, he rolled his eyes and said, 'Why for?'"

There is undoubtedly some hardship in the money question. Turke had some in hand, and it still lies, so far as is known, in their boxes, now under police control, and it is expected it will be taken care of for them. However many were anxious and wanted to be sure it was kept for them, and that they would get it returned to them. Several gave their names and addresses with the amounts held, and as will be seen, quite large sums are extant.

Isma Husse, residing at 169 Darling, has wife and three children in Turkey, $178 in his box. Nami Mustaph, 142 Alfred Street, $150 in his box. Saffia Osman, 143 Darling St., $76 to be accounted for. Alec. Tomas, also 143 Darling St., $55 in box.

The scene outside the armouries was an unprecedented one, a row of forms faces south extending to about twelve feet of the north wall of the building outside of which sentry pace and no Turk must pass. They stand about six on forms or squat in truly bazaar way in groups; discuss things to the rolling of innumerable cigarettes and much gesticulation and shrugging of shoulders. There is a quietude of satisfaction with their quarters when compared with prison. Supper was prepared for them at 10 o'clock when biscuits and cheese with coffee was issued and devoured greedily by the evidently hungry men. There was no formality about the repast, no cryings on Allah nor pretence at prayer, just a simple hungry, ordinary white man way of getting down to business.

Some bedding was procured from their late boarding houses by Detective Chapman and brought in whereat mattresses and bed-shake downs were rapidly placed into sleeping accommodation. This was a matter of delight to many of the men who assured bystanders they had not slept for 48 hours. By 11.30 the men were turning in, a few of the devout giving some due to Allah with an expressive touch of resignation, and Brantford's citizens might sleep the easier knowing their safety had been assured. It is not yet known when they will leave, no accommodation as yet being found, available at military centres.

His Brother Shot Right Beside Him

(By Special Wire to the Courier) MONTREAL, Nov. 11.—To have his elder brother, Charles, drop dead at his feet during a bayonet charge in the battle of the Marne, while he himself was obliged to continue with his fellow-soldiers in a fierce onslaught upon the trenches occupied by the Germans, was one of the sad yet thrilling experiences of George Pierlot, who arrived in the city yesterday after having been invalided home from the military hospital at Chateaubien, Brittany, because of a knee bone shattered by a German bullet in the trenches at Valenciennes. Mr. Pierlot, who lost all his personal belongings at Valenciennes, called at the French consulate yesterday afternoon, still wearing the uniform of the 32nd regiment of infantry.

Pierlot was first under fire at Berry-au-Bac in the battle of the Marne, and it was the first of two wild bayonet charges that Mr. Pierlot saw his brother fall. In referring to the battle of the Marne, Pierlot drew from his pockets a few little medals given him by priests, who have since been killed. He had met a large number of priests and brothers, many of whom are doing ambulance work while the others are side with their fellow-soldiers in bearing arms and fighting side by side in the trenches.
