Take Courage.
 With every rising of the sun Think of your life as just begun.

The past has shriveled and buried deep All yesterday's. There let them sleep. Nor seek to summon back one ghost O, that innumerable host.

Concern yourself with but to-day. Woo it, and teach it to obey.

Your will and wish. Since time began, To-day has been the friend of man; But in his blindness and his sorrow He looks to yesterday and to-morrow.

You and to-day! a soul sublime, And the great pregnant hour of time. With God himself to bind the twain Go forth, I say, attain! attain!

A Fine Bit of Word Painting.
 The following will make a good declamation for a boy who has a little dramatic power, and it contains also a good deal of material that can be utilized as a recitation and language lesson. The authorship is not certainly known but it has been ascribed to Judge Arrington, of Texas:

A Famous Brewery.
 Where is the liquor which God the Eternal brews for all his children? Not in the summering still over the smoky fires choked by poisonous gases and surrounded by the stench of sickening odors and rank corruption doth our Father in heaven prepare the precious essence of life, pure cold water.

But in the green glade and grassy dell where the red deer wanders and the child loves to play; and low down in valleys where the fountains murmur and the rills sing; and away up in the tall mountain tops where the naked granite glistens like gold in the sun; where the storm cloud broods and the thunders crash; and far out on the wide, wild sea where the hurricane howls and the big waves roar;—there He brews it, this life giving water. Yet everywhere it is a thing of beauty, sparkling in the dew drop, singing in the summer rain, shining in the ice gem till the leaves are turned to living jewels, spreading a gold veil over the setting sun, or a white gauze about the wintry moon, sparkling in the cataract, sleeping in the glacier, dancing in the hail shower, spreading its snow curtain softly about the wintry world, and weaving that many colored iris in the seraph zine of the skies whose warp is the rain drop of earth, whose woof is the sunbeam of heaven checkered over with celestial flowers by the mystic hand of retraction.

Still always it is beautiful this life giving water. No poison bubbles on its brink, its foam brings not madness and murder, no blood stains its liquid gleam, no pale widows and staring orphans drop burning tears into its depths.

No ghost from the grave rises up to curse it in eternal despair. Speak on my friends, would you exchange it for the demon's drink, alcohol?—Be lected.

A Destroyer of Young Men.
 (Address Canadian).
 The first and most seductive peril, and the destroyer of most young men is the drinking of liquor. I am a temperance lecturer in disguise, but a man who knows and tells you what observation has proved to him; and I say to you that you are more likely to fail in your career from acquiring the habit of drinking liquor than from all other temptations likely to assail you. You may yield to almost any other temptation and reform once again, but if you do not recover lost ground, at least remain in the race, and secure and maintain a respectable position. But from that insane thirst for liquor escape is almost impossible. I have known but few exceptions to this rule.—National Advocate.

A Western exchange remarks: "In Paris alone there are 50,000 drinking places, and in 1905 there were in the provinces exactly 544,000 of them. That works out a tavern for every 30 male inhabitants of France. In the north of France there is a drinking place for every 15 men. France has not yet awakened to the fullfulness of her state. While other nations are stirring the fire of temperance opposition, she is resting, apparently with no alarm, while the trade in the increase. But the time will come when those people will rouse from

Recommended As An Ideal Remedy

W. S. BOND, Esq.

Lloydminster, Ont., March 10th, 1909.

"For some years I have been greatly troubled with headaches and indigestion, brought on by stomach disorders, constipation and biliousness. I had tried many remedies with only indifferent success, until 'Fruit-a-tives' came to my notice. Being a general stock-keeper, I was selling a good many 'Fruit-a-tives' to my customers and, remarking how pleased they were with the results obtained from using 'Fruit-a-tives,' I decided to try them and, I might say, the effects were almost magical. Headaches and biliousness disappeared and today I recommend 'Fruit-a-tives' to my customers as 'An ideal remedy.'

"I might also add that about three years ago I was laid up with LUMBAGO AND SCIATICA—couldn't get out of bed or lift one foot over the other. A good treatment of 'Fruit-a-tives' cured me of these pains and banished the Sciatica and Lumbago so that today I am as well as ever and can lift anything necessary."

(Signed) W. S. BOND.

their drunken stupor and snap the cords that are binding their country. Opponents of the total abstinence have declared that the wine and beer-drinking people of Europe show less drunkenness than the Saxon races. But it is now appearing that these are suffering from serious evils in consequence of regularly partaking of intoxicants.

Coughs that are tight, or distressing tickling coughs, get quick and certain help from Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. On this account Druggists everywhere are favoring Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is entirely free from Opium, Chloroform, or any other stupefying drug. The tender leaves of a harmless, lung-healing mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Remedy its curative properties. These leaves have the power to calm the most distressing Cough, and to soothe and heal the most sensitive bronchial membrane. Mothers should, for safety's sake alone, always demand Dr. Shoop's. It can with perfect freedom be given to even the youngest babies. Test it yourself and see! Sold by A. V. Rand.

Because so many of my friends have been slain by intoxicants, said Horace Greely, I have an everlasting grudge against rum.

Made the Blood Rich and Red.
 Miss Cynthia Hamilton, Hamilton, O., writes: "My system was completely run down then my friends as well as myself thought I could never get better. All medicines failed to help me. A trial of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cured me and at the end of a month people around me knew me and I had improved so much. The blood was enriched, color improved, new flesh was added and I felt strong and well."
