SHALL WE CELEBRATE DOMINION DAY?

It has been suggested to The Observer that Hartland should prepare to celebrate Dominion Day in right royal and loyal fashion. The suggestion was made on Victoria Day when the village was almost deserted. It is many years since Hartland had a big celebration. Young people of 15 or 20 cannot remember that it ever had. Older ones remember the glorious, palmy days of Foresters' picnics, Orange celebrations, and the greatest of all, the day Hartland bridge was opened. Those were the days when all roads led to Hartland.

Nowadays a holiday is welcomed as an opportunity to get away from Hartland, all roads lead away, and those who cannot go by road take the open field for it. Hartland never saw a Sabbath so peaceful and quiet as was Monday last.

The merchants and business men of Hartland are too selfish to keep their people home and to keep their trade home. They have so little public spirit that leave it to the women to light the streets of the town. "Civic pride" is the keynote of other towns' progress. There seems none in Hartland.

We have just penned a severe knock to The Observer's staunch business supporters. It is done with a real pang—the feeling a loving daddy has when he is compelled to wallop his first-born; it is done to see if what we say is true.

Is it true?

If a celebration is going to draw a big crowd to Hartland on Dominion Day we must get busy NOW. The time is short, but it can be done. GO TO IT!

Wendell Holmes First Carleton Co. Boy to Give His Life for Empire

Last week news was received of the death on the battle field of Wendell Holmes, a Carleton county boy, and the first to shed his life blood for his country in this terrible conflict.

Mr. Holmes was the son of the late Hupert Holmes and, born at Bristol 28 years ago, he spent most of his life at Middle Simonds, growing up there with the boys of his age. Some time ago he went to the west and when the war broke out enlisted in the "Princess Pats," Canada's crack regiment. Particulars of how he fell are not yet to hand. It is only known he died to avenge Belgium and uphold his country's honor.

His grief-stricken mother, a widow, and a daughter of Elder Hiram Raymond of Richmond, resides in Worcester, Mass., with his sister, Miss Florence. Another sister, Miss Daisy, formerly a well known school teacher in this county, resides in Ann Arbor. The dead hero leaves many relatives in this county.

Mrs. Percy Barter was taken to the Fisher Hospital yesterday for treatment for typhoid.
