Poetry.

THE HOUSE BY THE SIDE OF THE ROAD.

"He was a friend to man, and he lived in a house by the side of the road."
 Homer.]

There are hermit souls that live withdrawn
 In the place of their self content;
 There are souls, like stars, that dwell apart,
 In a fellowless firmament;
 There are pioneer souls that blaze their path
 Where highways never ran—
 But let me live by the side of the road
 And be a friend to man.

Let me live in a house by the side of the road
 Where the race of men go by—
 The men who are good and the men who are bad,
 As good and as bad as I.
 I would not sit in the scorners' seat,
 Or hurl the cynic's ban—
 Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
 And be a friend to man.

I see from my house by the side of the road
 By the side of the highway of life,
 The men who press with the ardor of hope,
 The men who are not afraid of the strife,
 But I turn not away from their smiles
 Nor their tears—
 Both parts of an infinite plan—
 Let me live in my house by the side of the road,
 And be a friend to man.

I know there are brook-gladdened meadows
 And mountains of wearisome height;
 That the road passes on through the long afternoon
 And stretches away to the night.
 But still I rejoice when the travellers rejoice,
 And weep with the strangers that moan,
 Nor live in my house by the side of the road,
 Like a man who dwells alone.

Let me live in my house by the side of the road,
 And be a friend to man.
 And as W. Foss is the Independent.
Curious Calendar Facts.
 There are some curious facts about the calendar. No century can begin on Wednesday, Friday or Saturday. The same calendar can be used every twenty years. October always begins on the same day of the week of January. April and July; September and December; February, March and November begin on the same days. May, June and August always begin on different days from each other and every month in the year. The first and last days of the year are always the same. These rules do not apply to leap year, when comparison is made between days before and after February 29th.

A Rare Opportunity.
 Having made arrangements with the publishers of the Toronto Daily Mail and Empire, we are in a position to supply said paper and the QUEENS COUNTY GAZETTE for one year for the small sum of $2.70. The "Mail and Empire" is the leading Conservative paper in Canada and the low figure asked enables all to procure a copy. Address,

A Medical Sea Serpent.
 LONDON, Dec. 31.—The Daily Mail has published an account of a surprising operation successfully performed at Minneapolis, whereby the eye of a rabbit was transplanted and thus sight restored to a young woman blind for fifteen years. I asked the opinion of a few leading surgeons here on the operation. All agreed that in the present state of scientific knowledge the reported operation was absolutely impossible.
 One said unless the details were exaggerated a miracle had been performed. Dr. Doyen observed that even if the eye were successfully transplanted the restoration of the sight would not necessarily follow. He says it's a sort of "medical sea serpent," being a report that reappears periodically, and always, unfortunately, without any truth in it.
 Dr. A. le Dentu laughed at the idea. He said it was tried at Clermont-Ferrand some years ago without avail. Perhaps if the operation had succeeded it would be necessary, he said, to repeat it every four years, a rabbit's life being so much shorter than a man's, just as in "About a Tale," "Le Nez du Notaire," wherein a lawyer, whose nose had been cut off in a duel and replaced by a grafted piece taken of a drunkard's arm finds that his nose grows purple every time the owner of the arm gets drunk.

White Book Muslin.
 White book muslin has been resuscitated as a material for frocks for debutantes. If it is really suitable for the very young, and to look well, needs a silk foundation, but its charm is so many that when made up daintily it can hold its own with any satin or tulle gown ever yet planned. White book muslin and coral beads! No wonder the young girl of the season reminds old gentlemen of the dear grandmammas at her age, says the Philadelphia Press. A dainty frock of book muslin for a pretty little maid, who made her first formal bow to society last week has a foundation of white silk, not a ruffling silk, be it noted. The muslin overall bears three little flounces, each one edged with fine lace. The bodice is a picture bodice; i. e. tight-fitting and adorned with a fichu lace, edged and voluminous; the sleeves are of lace and transparent; they reach just to the elbow and have a certain quaintness of their own, imparted by the deep muslin frills, lace edged again in their turn, which adorn them. The fichu fastens in front with a knot of pale pink roses, held in place by a veil bow of the palest blue velvet ribbon. Of course, when the pretty little maid wears this frock she looks ready to dance in a Watteau ballet.
 A "Sir Joshua Reynolds" frock of book muslin would be pretty with a short empire waist flounce, and above it several tucks at the hem of this skirt; a tuck of real lace run with white satin baby ribbon at the décolletage, and a fichu reaching to the belt line, and then hanging straight down at either side, secured by two pearl pins. Puffed sleeves and a blue sash would complete a charming and youthful costume.

Farming in the Maritime Provinces

Differs materially from farming in Ontario and the West. Conditions are different and our markets are the same. A product profitable in those sections would not pay the tillage here, and a suggestion valuable to a westerner, would prove disastrous if followed by our farmers. In subscribing for an agricultural publication it is well to bear this in mind. There's only one paper that treats of farming from a Maritime Province standpoint. It is the
