Havana, March 30.—Jack Johnson is in perfect physical and mental condition. The big negro was examined yesterday by Dr. G. L. Hagenberger, at the request of Jack Curley, Doctor Hagenberger practiced his profession in Boston for fifteen years previous to coming to Havana. He was connected with the New York Health Department for ten years.

Doctor Hagenberger's report follows:—"In twenty-five years of medical practice I have never examined an athlete, who is so symmetrical and well balanced as Johnson. He is in excellent physical and mental condition. His heart is abnormally small for an athlete, and he has the endurance powers of a man of twenty-seven. His lungs are in excellent condition, and his muscular frame work splendid, with not an ounce of superfluous flesh on his body. Johnson's weight is 227 pounds. If Johnson had a Roman head he would be a sculptor's model."

The fight between Jack Johnson and James J. Jeffries took place at Reno, Nevada, on July 4th, 1910. Johnson was thirty-seven, old and Jeffries was thirty-seven. The fight was for the championship of the world and a purse of $100,000—75 per cent going to the winner and 25 per cent to the loser. Jeffries won the championship from Bob Fitzsimmons at Coney Island, on June 6th, 1899, and the fight lasted only eleven rounds. Johnson was the victor in each of the twelve rounds, and the Cornish man had to be revived with ammonia—Jeffries before his fight with Johnson was said to be in the pink of condition and weighed 220 lbs. Johnson at that time weighed 265 lbs. Johnson won from Jeffries in the 15th round.

McMurdo's Store News.

TUESDAY, April 6, 1915.
Sudden changes of temperature incident to this season of year, are apt to occasion roughness and soreness of the skin, and to affect the complexion prejudicially. To remedy these conditions it is a good plan to have a pot of Cream of Lilies on hand and to use it nightly. The benefit to the skin of face and hands will be very marked. Indeed it is well to get into the habit of using this excellent emollient at all parts of the year, when there is any danger to the skin from winds or sun. As a general toilet soap Cream of Lilies Soap fits in well with the Cream and helps the effect of it. Cream of Lilies Soap is "classy" and as it is made of the purest materials and has no free alkali it is thoroughly well adapted for its purpose in this somewhat trying climate. Cream of Lilies, 25 cents a pot; Cream of Lilies Soap, 20 cents a cake; box of 3 cakes 50 cents.

Chimney Fire.

About seven o'clock last evening the Central and Eastern Fire Companies were called to Mr. E. Sinnott's residence, Rennie's Mill Road, where a fire was supposed to be in progress. Soot igniting in the chimney was the cause of the alarm. The services of the firemen were not needed. No damage was done.

Kitchener's New Home

(Manchester Guardian.)
Yesterday Lord Kitchener took up his quarters in the set of rooms in St. James's Palace, known in recent times as York House. The King has given him the use of this corner of the Palace for the duration of the war. A gossip in a London evening paper who professes to give the most exclusive peeps behind the scenes, published a story about Lord Kitchener's first question at the War Office being "Is there a bed here?" and his first order "Get one," and so a legend spread that he slept at nights in the War Office. The story is, of course, nonsense. Lord Kitchener has no bed in the War Office, has never slept there, and only on rare occasions is he there at night. He has been living for some months in Carlton Gardens, five minutes' walk from the War Office. York House is a rather sombre building on the north side of Ambassadors' Court, but of course the big rooms will mean a stately setting for entertaining. One curious thing about the house is that there is not an inch of garden or private ground attached to it. On one side is the street; on the other the public way through the court. Until a few days ago York House was the headquarters of the Prince of Wales Fund, and one of a score of lordly houses which have become centres of war activity. In the early part of the last century the place was the residence of the Duke of Cumberland, King of Hanover, a curious reminiscence in these times. Afterwards, for many years, the tenants were the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge. The King and Queen, when Duke and Duchess of York, lived here for a time—hence the name now given to the house. When probably reconstructed the interior, as he did in most of the Royal palaces, it has some good panelling of his time, and some excellent decorative paintings in the manner of the late Roman school inset in the walls.

Police Resigning.

In accordance with a custom that has been prevailing within the past seven or eight years, owing to the increased cost of living, several of the recruits of the police force, who only joined to put over the winter, are now intending to resign and prepare for the season's codfishery operations.

Shot by a Bermuda Sentry.

A Buffalo, N.Y., Man Wounded in the Prohibited Area—Will Likely Recover.

Buffalo, March 24.—George B. Montgomery, a wealthy lumber dealer of this city, is in a hospital in Hamilton, Bermuda, having lost his left foot as the result of a shot from a British sentry, according to a cablegram received here by relatives to-day. Mr. Montgomery is spending the winter in Bermuda. Last Saturday with his wife, two friends and a negro pilot, he went sailing. The boat got too close to a camp where German prisoners are interned, and the boat was challenged by a sentry. It is said that the pilot failed to heed the warning and that the sentry fired. A bullet struck Mr. Montgomery in the foot.

Mr. Montgomery is 50 years old and a member of the firm of Montgomery Brothers. His brother said to-night that he had been informed that the Governor of Bermuda had ordered an investigation into the shooting, and that the pilot of the boat had been previously warned to keep away from the concentration camp.

A cablegram from Hamilton says that the condition of Mr. Montgomery to-night is favorable, and that he will probably recover.

GERMANS OBJECT TO ENGLISH, FRENCH AND RUSSIAN SIGNS.

Berlin, March 25.—The chief of police has issued a notice to all the Berlin precincts calling attention to the fact that trade marks, signs and inscriptions in English, Russian, and French still remain on shop doors in Berlin, and ordering that all precincts report not later than April 20th that steps have been taken to "abate the evil."

"Wide circles of the inhabitants," says the order, "feel that their patriotic sentiments are injured by the regrettable lack of national consciousness evidenced by these conditions."

WHERE IS THE CROWN PRINCE?

Paris, March 22.—An unaccounted silence has fallen about the personality of the Crown Prince. The German papers have ceased to chronicle his exploits, his familiar figure is no more focused by the photographers, and even the prisoners, taken by the allies, are all mystified by his sudden disappearance. In Alsace, where they are usually well informed on the imperial family affairs, it is said that the Prince is kicking his heels in some lonely retreat, far from the war zone, selected especially for him by his father. It is stated that the old quarrels between the two have been revived.

The Kaiser, so the story goes, was angered because his son continually encroached upon his personal authority and the Crown Prince having a poor opinion of his father's strategy, was daring enough to say so. The son was summoned to Potsdam and there was a stormy interview, during which both the Crown Prince and his father lost their tempers. Then the Kaiser, as the supreme chief of the army, addressed the Crown Prince as a subordinate officer, and charged him with military shortcomings. "With terrible calm," so we are told, "the Kaiser then degraded his son and banished him to a secret retreat."

SLOW RAILWAY BUILDING.

Rome, March 20.—The construction of the Turco-German military railroad across the Desert towards the Suez Canal, intended for the invasion of Egypt, is progressing slowly, says a despatch from Beirut. It has now reached Ludd, the Lydda of the old testament, in southern Palestine. Locusts are hindering the advance of the work.

"What Are You Doing for that Eczema?"

"Nothing; I've about given up trying to cure it." "That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time. I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured me. You can get Zylex at your druggist's." Zylex, 50c. a box; Zylex Soap, 25c. a cake.
