-Tired, run-down women can read a message of hope in the statement of Miss Mary Sabourin, an estimable lady living here. In a statement to the public Miss Sabourin says:-"I was a sufferer for three years was always tired and nervous. My sleep was broken and unrefreshing I was troubled with headaches and pains in my back. I had heart flutterings to add to my anxiety. "I was treated by a doctor and Russian Empire, in a few weeks more will awaken to vital war importance; for, when the Arctic ice clears from the White Sea. Russia will be able to communicate with her Allies through a free western port and to receive much needed war supplies and other manufacturers over a route thousands of miles shorter than that "Archangel is situated at the head of the Dvina delta, as far north as the northernmost shores of Hudson Bay. It is the largest and most important city in the world blaced so near the Arctic Circle" says the National Geographical Society's bulletin.

The Harbor of Archangel is optimistically said to be open from May o October

However, it is only entirely free rom ice during the months of July and August, although, in the average year, it is free for navigating purposes for a period some weeks longer. The city lies on the Dvina River. twenty-six miles from the White Sea. It is 740 miles northeast of Petrograd, and is connected with the distributing centres of the interior by railway and canal.

Not only is Archangel interesting as a city in the extreme Far North, but it is still more interesting as one of the most ancient cities built upon the fringe of eternal arctic whiteness. Before the year 900, the Noresmen came here and traded. They laid the foundations of the present city, a city that has grown slowly, but almost without halt, preserved in peace by its isolated position in the north The city has achieved its present-day mportance as an outlet for the prolucts of the far northern and western parts of the Russian Empire. During its short season for navigaion, Archangel is the busiest point in all the north. Between 800 and ,000 vessels call there through the brief season. The total value of imports and exports of Archangel amounts to about $5,000,000, and this year, under war conditions, should amount to much more. The chief artcles of traffic in peace times are fish, skins, furs, lumber, wax, iron, tallow, bristles and cavaire.
