Specimens of the supposed coal found at Kettle Point were recently sent to the officers of the geological department of Canada, with the result of its putting a stop to any further operations at that place, for this answer contains the following: "The occurrence at Kettle Point of any kind of coal is, to a geologist, entirely out of the question, as no coal has ever been found in strata so low down as the upper Devonian."

The funeral of the late Hugh Mackenzie, M.P., was the largest ever seen in Watford district, comprising 230. The casket was borne by six Presbyterian elders—John Ross, James Laing, W. P. McLennan, E. A good, although short, musical and literary program was also rendered by Misses Telfer and Maudie Robson, Mr. Waddell and the church choir.

A COMING WHEEL.

Interesting Talk With a Prominent English Manufacturer—Pneumatic Proof Bands—Next Year's Improvements in Quadrants, Etc.

Messrs. J. D. McKenzie & Co. have just been favored with a visit from Mr. William Priest, the senior partner of the famous Quadrant Cycle Company, of Birmingham, England, and from disclosures made it is certain they will place on the Canadian market next season a machine which for beauty, design and general "up to date" improvements will exceed anything hitherto introduced. The Quadrant Company also hope to revolutionize and completely overcome the difficulty hitherto experienced with pneumatic tires. They have secured the sole control for the world of the Patent Pneumatic Proof Bands (which fact is confirmed by recent journals to hand from England) and will push the sale extensively in Canada next year through their representatives here. The band itself is of a peculiar composition and weighs only about eight ounces. It surrounds the inner tube or air chamber and can be fitted to almost any pneumatic tire. One great feature is that it doesn't affect the resiliency of the tire in the slightest. Some idea of its value may be gained from the fact that when 20,000 shares were recently placed on the market in Dublin there were over a half a million applied for. Another important improvement and a big step in advance by the Quadrant Company is the new patent crank fitted to their 1894 patterns and for which they also have sole control. The pedal fits into the crank in a very simple manner, doing away with nuts and washers entirely and reducing the tread fully 1 1/2 inches.

To a representative of the ADVERTISER Mr. Priest expressed himself as well satisfied with the business done this year by Messrs. J. D. McKenzie & Co. "There is no reason at all," he said, "why our machines should not occupy as prominent a position in the Canadian market as they do in all the other markets of the world. Our firm is a very representative one. We employ only the most skilled mechanics and use absolutely the very finest material that money can purchase. Every component part of our machines are thoroughly tested before leaving the factory, and are subjected to a strain exceeding by far any they are ever likely to experience on the road." Asked as to the weight of machines for next year Mr. Priest said: "There is no doubt whatever that the light machines have come to stay. When I say 'light machines' I do not mean those featherweights which are turned out by inexperienced makers, but I allude particularly to the work of representative firms and those of experience in this particular line. For your Canadian roads we build a specially fine wheel of 30 to 33 pounds, which we consider strong enough for a cyclist."

Mr. Priest is a perfect type of the successful English gentleman. Pleasant and affable to a degree, but possessing, it can be seen, those keen business qualifications which always inspire confidence and command success. The Quadrant Cycle Company is unquestionably one of the very largest cycle manufacturing industries in existence. In addition to their extensive premises in Birmingham they have depots in London, Liverpool, Manchester and Leeds, another in Paris, and others again in Boston and Chicago. These are all run at their own expense entirely, and afford a slight idea of the magnitude of the concern. They were the first people to introduce the double-crowned fork and oval tubing, also the larger size steering wheel, both of which features have since been adopted by all the principal makers.

We understand that the business hitherto carried on by Messrs. J. D. McKenzie & Co. will be conducted hereafter under the name and style of the Quadrant Cycle Company. Already they have several orders in hand, principally for racing wheels. Mr. Wm. Devine, of St. Thomas, who won two first prizes at the Western Fair, met on a "Quadrant," never having ridden at all before this year, in having a special wheel constructed, and various other promising young riders have about made up their minds. The "Quadrant" is certainly all it is represented to be. Nothing else could account for its almost phenomenal success in London and vicinity this year. They have just been awarded highest honors for Great Britain at the World's Columbian Exhibition in Chicago.

A GOOD YEAR'S WORK.

Accomplished by the Latter Day Saints—Election of Officers—Sunday School Reports.

The London district of the Latter Day Saints held their annual Sunday school convention in the church on Maitland street yesterday. Elder R. C. Evans, superintendent of the district, presided. There was a large attendance, many coming from outside places besides the chosen delegates, who were as follows:

Proton Union—Misses Maggie Campbell, Jane Dazell, and Eva McIndrick. Toronto—Miss Amelia Braden. St. Thomas—Mrs. John Cornish and Mr. Wm. Parkhouse.

London—Mrs. R. C. Evans, Misses Clara Timbrell and Tillie Quirk. The choice of the convention to fill the various offices for the ensuing year was made known when the following were declared elected:

Superintendent—Elder R. C. Evans, city. Assistant Superintendent—Wm. Fligg, city.

Secretary—Miss M. Campbell, Hopeville. Assistant Secretary—Miss Amelia Braden, Toronto.

Treasurer—Mrs. John Cornish, St. Thomas. Interesting addresses were delivered by Elders Lake, of Kirkland, Ont., Shields, of Grand Valley, and Taylor, of Grand Valley. The various speakers, during the course of their remarks complimented the members upon the success which had attended their labors during the past year, and gave them encouraging words for the future work of the church.

Reports were read from the London and St. Thomas Sunday schools. The local school has been doing good work, having held 17 sessions during the past four months, with an aggregate attendance of 810. Disbursements in connection therewith amounted to $24.70, leaving a balance on hand of $21.85. The school supplies 25 copies of the church paper, and has in its library 125 books.

The St. Thomas school has fared hardly so well. Seventeen sessions have been held, with an aggregate attendance of 592. The school supplies 15 papers and their library contains 89 books.

One new application for membership was received from Toronto, which was accepted. The convention then adjourned to meet on the Friday preceding the next district conference.

JENNESS-MILLER'S SISTER.

The Famous Lecturer to Women Sets Them an Example.

"A beautiful woman in a beautiful gown" is the way they describe her. "The Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix finds fault with women," says the New York Sun, "for thinking more about their personal charms than about their souls, but Miss Jenness-Miller feels it her duty to instruct them as to the best use of those charms in the attainment of a 'correct and elegant carriage,' and by the proper artistic care of the body." In her view the soul expresses itself through the body, and action goes on between the two, with the result that physical grace has a moral value."

As Mrs. Jenness-Miller is known the world over for her ideas on dress reform, her likeness is given above, in celebration of her crusade for physical culture among the gentler sex.

Her system of physical training is attracting a great deal of attention. "She is herself a society girl, and yet finds time," says the Sun, "to practice her system, and in the midst of her multitudinous duties is never tired, never sick, doesn't know where her nerves are, and is a stranger to headache." The system is apparent in a letter written July 19, 1893, from Washington, D.C.:

"I was induced," writes Mrs. Jenness, "to try Paine's celery compound at a time when I was suffering from overwork and the effect of an accident. I began immediately to realize tone and blood nourishing effects. I took pleasure in saying that, 'I really consider this an excellent preparation.'"

"I have not been able to take one day's rest since I returned from my long, hard western trip. I am sure were it not for Paine's celery compound, which has a tonic effect, I should not be able to keep up my work."

"I recommended Paine's celery compound to a friend who dined with us yesterday, and on leaving here she went and bought a bottle. I shall do all I can for it for I believe in it."

So the society woman, whose health and grace are famous the country over, and who is in a position to command the best medical advice, finds in Paine's celery compound the same relief from the effects of overwork and illness that the poorer, harder working woman finds.

And this great remedy that makes people well is equally within the reach of all. It is for sale in every respectable drug store in the country, and it is in greater demand to-day than any remedy in the world.

It is the one true specific for disease arising from a debilitated nervous system, the scientific research of this country has produced. Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M.D., LL.D., of Dartmouth College, first prescribed what is now known the world over as Paine's celery compound, a positive cure for dyspepsia, biliousness, liver complaint, neuralgia, rheumatism, and kidney troubles. For the latter Paine's celery compound has succeeded again and again where everything else has failed.

Washington correspondents have recently given it a great deal of attention since the cures in that city.

The medical journals of the country have given much space in the last few years to the many remarkable cases where the use of Paine's celery compound has made more well than to any other one subject. Try it and find vigor, health and new life.

DORCHESTER'S SHOW A SUCCESS—EMBO'S FINE EXHIBITION.

DORCHESTER, Oct. 6.—The North Dorchester Agricultural Society held its annual fair here yesterday, and was a decided success. The weather was fine and the attendance large. The show of root crops was exceedingly fine. A large number of live stock, especially horses, was shown. The speaking in the horse ring was the best seen in this part for some years. Altogether the fair was a great deal ahead of any previous.

Mrs. Geo. Noble, about 70 years old, who lived with her daughter, Mrs. John Snively, at Leamington for some years, was found dead Friday morning. Some time through the night she had taken poison. Domestic trouble and loss of considerable property no doubt unhinged her mind.

C. C. RICHARDS & Co. Gents.—My daughter was suffering terribly with neuralgia. I purchased a bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT and rubbed her face thoroughly. The pain left her and she slept well that morning. Next night another attack, another application resulted as previously, with no return since. Grateful feelings determined me to express myself publicly. I would not be without MINARD'S LINIMENT in the house at any cost.
