

The wise acres had it all figured out that with Lynd as rover, the Orients should defeat the Hortons handily. The Hermits also looked good-until play began. Picking a winner in a hockey game is about as easy as picking leaves Collingwood early next month with the greatly improved form the news to supporters of the Thisties,

Here is another example of the way other cities and papers feel about brutal hockey. The Ottawa Free Press says: "It's about time the Montreal Arena management was taking some action regarding assaults on the ice. Monday night Mr. Fred C. Chittick, who refereed the Kenora-Wandered game, was brutally assaulted within the walls of the Arena after the game. Mr. Chittick was walking down one of the corridors in the Arena, where none but players and officials are permitted to roam. He was making his way to one of the dressing-rooms. Without any warning, a coward sneaked up behind him and dealt him a terrific blow on the head and then slipped away.

Now that Manager McSwigan, of the Pittsburg pros, has barred both Ottawa and the Wanderers for stealing some of his players, we would not be surprised to see those two teams go out of business. Eh? Merely another Smoketown joke. Spring at one more.

It is a remarkable but pathetic coincidence that two of the greatest featherweights the world has ever known are down and out-the one, Mc-Govern, mentally and physically; the other, Dixon, physically and financially. While Terry McGovern's benefit was being held the other night in Madison Square Garden, Dixon was wandering about the Tenderloin of the great metropolis, penniless and hungry. A sport on his way to the Garden met the to unfortunate boxer and took him up to the Garden, where a purse of $500 was made up for him. Dixon, in his palmy days, made close on to a million dollars, and McGovern at one time was worth several hundred thousand him-

Abram, in center, was very fast, and did effective work, while Powell was right with the puck all the time. Arthurs showed up well at his best, and played better than usual.

The Hortons' defense was a perfect stone wall, and time and again broke up very dangerous rushes by the Orient forwards.

The Orients played hard, and every one of their men worked well. They played a three-man forward line, with the rover playing almost a coverpoint game. This made their defense strong, but the Hortons broke through on their two-man combination plays.
